Pa. 'rancher' is Cattleman of the Year

BY JACK HUBLEY

BOILING SPRINGS — The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association honored its best amid the elegance of Cumberland County's Allenberry Resort in Boiling Springs last Saturday.

For the first time this year, the Cattleman of the Year shared the spotlight with the Seedstock Producer and Industry Service Awards. The selection of this year's Cattlemen's Queen climaxed Saturday evening's award ceremonies.

Named Cattleman of the Year was Paul Heffner, of Adams

County, a 14-year veteran of the association who runs a cow/calf and feedlot operation near Gettysburg.

"My operation is more like a ranch," says Heffner, who pastures his herd of 150 commercial Angus cows for seven months at a density of one cow per two acres. Heffner utilizes about 400 acres of pastureland and farms an additional 70 to 80 acres of hay ground.

A Berks County native, Heffner grew up on a general livestock farm, raising chickens, hogs,

BY JAMES H. EVERHART

It's not much comfort to financially pressed Pennsylvania farmers that the situation is worse elsewhere.

But it is.

And according to most agricultural lenders in Pennsylvania, the local credit situation — including bad debts, foreclosures, delinquencies and the like — is nowhere near as bad as the dark picture presented in other parts of the country, especially the Midwest.

There are, of course, some problem areas. The situation nationwide for dairy farmers, for instance, looks uncertain, for sure. And there are some lenders with a lot of problem loans.

But the situation overall remains strong for several important reasons, according to a survey of officials at local lending departments.

• First, local products and crops have been sold domestically, for the most part, so Pennsylvania farmers and producers are less dependent on factors they can't control, like the value of the dollar and trade embargoes that can shut off foreign markets overnight.

• Second, there's outstanding diversity of local crops and ag products — so blights and diseases

— A.I. is an excellent example — can't have the absolutely devastating effect on the local economy that could result in an area with less crop variety.

• Third, farmers in the state have been more conservative than their midwestern brethren in purchasing land and equipment. The percentage of very highly leveraged farms — or those with debt-to-asset ratios of over 70 percent — is lower in the Northeast than in any other area of the country, according to USDA's recently released report on the farm credit situation.

• Fourth, land values have remained relatively stable in Pennsylvania over the past

PHA to host spring show and sales

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Holstein breeders will be welcoming the arrival of spring this week with two days of "Pennsylvania on Parade" festivities.

The dairy event will feature one of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association's most important annual shows, the state bred heifer sale and the state calf sale.

Heralding a new show season, the state spring show will begin at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

For the last two years the Ed Doeberiner family of Jamestown has captured the grand champion honors in the Holstein showing.

The state bred heifer sale is scheduled for Thursday evening at 6:00 p.m. Eighty outstanding bred heifers from across Pennsylvania will be selling. Over 55 dams are scored Very Good or Excellent, and more than 60 dams have records over 20,000 milk.

Concluding the two days of activities will be the state calf sale on Friday morning, starting at 10:30 a.m. Selling are 170 top pedigreed calves. Nearly every dam is scored Very Good or Excellent, and more than 120 have milk records exceeding 20,000 pounds.

With a competitive spring show and 250 head of quality calves and bred heifers selling in two days, Pennsylvania on Parade continues to be one of the most important Holstein events on the calendar.

Watch for coverage in next week's Lancaster Farming.

Leadfield heifer commands

$77,000 at Irish Holiday Sale

BY NANCY KUNICK
Staff Correspondent

MEADVILLE — Seventy-nine head of quality calves were in the limelight at the "Irish Holiday Sale" hosted by the Crawford County Holstein Club, March 16, at the Crawford County fairgrounds.

The top-selling animal was Leadfield Marslinda-ET, consigned by Queens Manor/Leadfield of Jamestown. Born January 12, 1985, she is one of three full sisters sired by Marshfield Elevation Tona. The buyer, Tom Mikulice, care of Black Rose Holsteins of New Franken, Wis., will have a choice of the sisters after all freshen as two-year-olds. With these terms in mind, the bids were high, with Mikulice of Black Rose placing the top bid of $77,000.00.

The pedigree behind Marslinda and her sisters is extremely impressive. Her dam is the well-known Leadfield Telstar Linda-ET, who is classified Ex92 with an outstanding record of 33,408 milk and 1375 fat as a 3-year-old. Linda has several maternal sisters classified excellent, and her dam is C Craig Petro Telstar 4EX96.

Several hundred Holstein breeders attended the sale, with buyers present from Wisconsin, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, Indiana, as well as the surrounding states. The sale concluded with an average of $3512.

Leadfield Marslinda-ET brought an impressive $77,000 at the Irish Holiday Calf Sale in Crawford County. Pictured are Nancy Mitrich, Crawford County Dairy Princess; Tom Mikulice of Black Rose Holsteins, buyer; Ed Doeberiner of Queens Manor/Leadfield, consignor; and leadperson Julie Custead. In the box are auctioneers Gail Carson, William Kent, and Sherman Allen.

Ayrshire Breeders New egg markets

The Pa. Ayrshire Breeders gathered last week in Grantville for their annual spring meeting. At the top of the agenda were plans for the 1986 national Ayrshire convention, which will be hosted by the Pennsylvania breeders.

Other highlights of the state meeting included recognition of two junior finalists in national Ayrshire competition. Turn inside to page A22 for a complete report on the state Ayrshire meeting.

This issue of Lancaster Farming contains new information about egg markets that are of relevance to egg producers.

The regional information includes daily market averages for the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Evelyn Baez, a fourth grader in the Lancaster City School District, gingerly pets a Holstein on John Barley's dairy farm in Conestoga. Evelyn and her classmates visited area dairy farms this week as part of the "Ag in the Classroom" project. See page A20 for pictures of her friends and a short story about the farm tour.

ACCURATE FORAGE TESTING GIVES YOU A MORE RELIABLE DAIRY FEEDING PROGRAM

Not all testing is the same. The accuracy of your results depends on the thoroughness and professionalism of the people performing the analysis, and the precision of the testing equipment used.

In our Technical Services Laboratory, located in Lancaster, we perform more than 5,000 forage analyses a year for farms like yours, in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. This service enables you to learn the exact nutrient values of your homegrown forages so that we can work with you to develop your best feeding program.

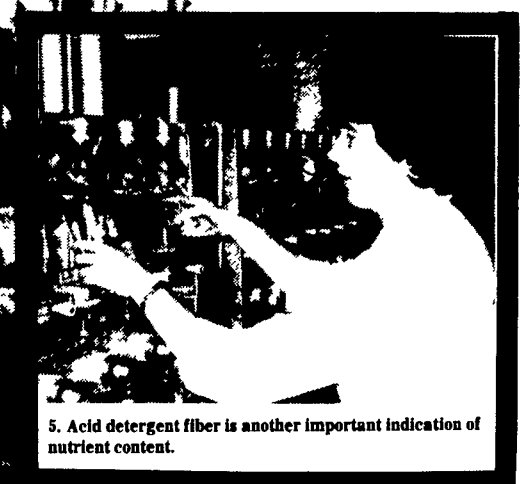

1 The analysis begins with a collection of a forage sample from your farm

4. Samples are chemically digested to measure protein levels.

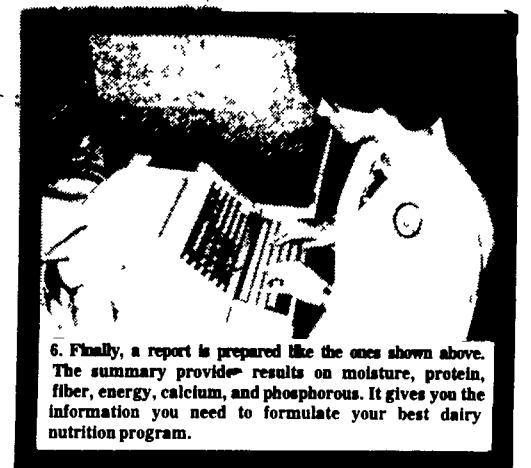

2. The sample is dried in an oven to determine moisture...

5. Acid detergent fiber is another important indication of nutrient content.

3 A sample is weighed seven times during the procedure to gather data.

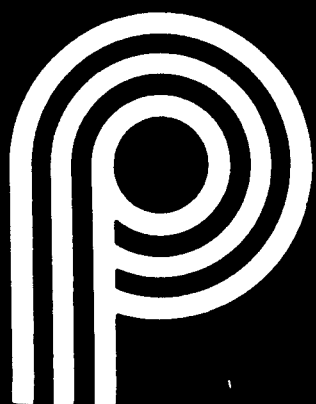

6. Finally, a report is prepared like the ones shown above. The summary provide results on moisture, protein, fiber, energy, calcium, and phosphorous. It gives you the information you need to formulate your best dairy nutrition program.

Maximum feed efficiency and improved nutrition are two reasons for choosing Pennfield Dairy Program. Dairymen, you can count on Pennfield... for a better bottom line.

Ask the Old Farmer: What can be done to get rid of the large black ants, the so called carpenter or tree ants in a house? J.N.S. Hubbard Ohio
These ants get into the house because of a roof leak or other source of water, then make their nest in any wood. Mix some borax powder and confectioners sugar and sprinkle around where the ants are seen.
Home Hints To repair wobbly drawer knobs, paint the screw with fingernail polish before inserting it. When the polish dries, it will hold the screw tightly.

Hook up to a Tye 10 foot Stubble Drill™

Tye's big 120" planting width and narrow transportable design make it a whole lot easier for a small tractor to perform large planting jobs

Tye's 10 No Till Drill is equipped with the same performance proven planting system that is standard on Tye Stubble Drill™ and Pasture Pleaser® models

1. Heavy-duty spring swivel coulters 2. Internally fluted seeders 3. Front seed delivery double-disc openers and 4. Press/depth control wheels

The 10' drill has fifteen openers 8' row spacing and features similar to the popular Tye Pasture Pleaser® The convenient 120" planting width complements the Tye No Till line of 80" Pasture Pleasers and the 160' Stubble Drills

Options include ★ Choice of coulters blades ★ Wide variety of press/depth control wheels and ★ Legume bluestem and fertilizer attachments

To Apply Poultry Manure Sparingly

With the large poultry population in this region, poultry manure is in good supply. Since poultry manure may contain from 15 pounds to nearly 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton, depending on moisture and litter content, over application can burn crops and result in disappointments.

Gardeners should not be using heavy amounts of fresh poultry manure in their soils. On crop land it is recommended that poultry manure applications be limited to not more than five to seven tons of 75 percent moisture content per acre.

Keep in mind that some poultry manure may contain up to 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton and can burn seeds and crop roots. Poultry manure is also the highest in phosphorus and potash content of any of our farm manures. It has excellent fertilizer value when used properly.

The 1985-86 Agronomy Guide gives additional details about the fertilizer values of farm manures. The Agronomy Guide is available through any Extension Office for a $4 fee.

To Practice Safety

We are now into spring and that brings heavy demands on field work. This includes the use of many different types of machinery which increases the potential for accidents. We urge farmers to take time to be safe; in many cases, haste has been the reason for farm accidents.

When we are in a hurry we overlook safety measures and face additional hazards. There are three elements of safety... people, machine and environment. Controlling people is by far the most difficult, especially in farm safety.

Take time to be safe... otherwise you may be sorry for the rest of your life.

To Remove Trash

Land owners along rural roads are the victims of people who have little respect for the property of others. Too many people are dumping trash in fields along the road. In all cases when this is dumped on pasture or crop land, the trash should be removed before spring growth begins. This trash will be hard on farm equipment and may be poisonous to livestock.

We urge property owners to remove the trash in the next few weeks. If any type of identification can be made, as to the owner of the trash, this should be reported to Township officials; prosecutions can be made for dumping trash along the highway.

To Prepare A Will

The statement "we don't own enough to justify a will" is overused by many families. If you have a family and you own anything, you should have a will. If a person dies without a will, the property is distributed according to the Intrastate Laws of Pennsylvania. These laws may not distribute your estate according to your desires. This has often happened in the past and there is little that can be done about it without a will.

We urge all family heads, and property owners to contact a lawyer and have him help with making a will. The cost will be considerably less than settling an estate without a will. There is some very good information dealing with "wills" in the Estate Planning bulletin available at any Extension Office.

The Penn State Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution

York Farm Credit

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK—The Farm Credit system must change to meet the changing face of agriculture was the message heard Monday evening by some four hundred stockholders and guests of the York Farm Credit cooperative.

That Monday evening meeting, at the York Fairgrounds Banquet Center, was the third in a trio of annual dinner-business sessions, held by the ag Southcentral Pennsylvania ag lending cooperative, a part of the Baltimore Farm Credit Service. Earlier sessions were held March 13 at the Embers Restaurant, Carlisle, and March 14 at the Chambersburg Holiday Inn.

York's Farm Credit Association is already responding to those changing needs, according to the directors report, presented to the York attendees by director Ralph McGregor. Earlier meeting reports were handled by Production Credit president Rolla Lehman II and Land Bank president Leroy Bupp.

In response to farmer-member needs for estate planning services, the York Association began a Business Estate and Tax Planning program in January of 1984. Six months later, a second new program went on line, with the adoption into Farm Credit System of the Agrifax farm records and tax service program.

A third change to meet member needs came with the November opening of the Stewartstown office, the sixth branch office in the York association. Other outlying offices are at York, Carlisle, Chambersburg, Gettysburg and New Bloomfield.

York Farm Credit did maintain a healthy financial position, McGregor noted, with stock dividend returns by both Production Credit Association and the Land Bank. PCA paid an eight percent dividend to holders of "A" stock, while Land Bank returned a four percent payback.

Jay Rush, manager of the York Farm Credit Service, departed from the usual format of a business operations summary to instead update members on financial uncertainties facing the Farm Credit system.

He noted that, while Northeast agriculture remains relatively stable, due to the diversity of commodities and steady land values, other sections of the country are facing greater economic difficulties. And that problem is currently being reflected in the financial stability of a few sister Farm Credit districts.

West and Midwestern areas are suffering the most problems, with the Spokane, Washington, Farm Credit district especially hard hit

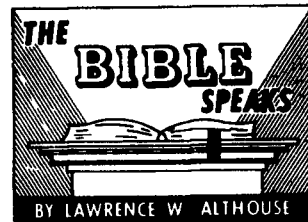

"Farm Credit is funded by investors," Rush reminded the farmer-stockholders. "And if one is in trouble, the rest chip in to help meet their obligations."

While he admitted just a touch of "bitterness" in seeing local funds possibly used to help stabilize the Spokane district's finances Rush emphasized the necessity of maintaining investor confidence in the entire Farm Credit system. Otherwise, investors in the cooperative's bonds will demand higher returns, thus driving up the cost of interest to all member-borrowers.

In response to member questions, Rush detailed the possible cost to the Baltimore district of $1.1 million as their share of assistance to the Spokane indebtedness. Last year's Baltimore District's earnings were at $20 million. At that assistance level, which represents about an interest rate of about .03 percent he predicts no change in interest rates, with the District absorbing the cost.

However, if Spokane assistance levels were raised to put the ailing cooperative district in a better financial operating position, cost could possibly add as much as a half-percent to local interest rates.

Looking further ahead, Rush predicted more sweeping changes in the structure of the lending cooperative, with possible mergers

Background Scripture:

Devotional Reading:

John 18:1-10.

John's account of Jesus' several appearances before Pontius Pilate is the story of an intimidated man — a man so intimidated that he could not bring himself to do what his conscience was telling him to do.

But the "intimidated man" is not Jesus. It is the formidable and powerful Pilate who is too fearful to exercise his power. Although Jesus is the one who is captive in chains, it is the Roman Governor who is the real captive. He knows what is right, but he cannot bring himself to do it.

A PLEA BARGAIN

Perhaps Pilate would remember and wonder until his dying day why Jesus had not sought to work out a compromise, to win what we call today a "plea bargain." All Jesus would have had to do would be to slightly modify his stand. When Pilate asked, "Are you the King of the Jews?" (18:33), why didn't Jesus seize this opportunity to say, "No, I have never made and am not now making that claim for myself!"?

But, instead of giving the direct answer that would have helped his case, Jesus replied with "Do you say this of your own accord, or did other say it to you about me?" (18:34). And, when Pilate asks again, Jesus still gives an answer that was less than satisfying: "My kingship is not of this world" (18:36). And a third time Pilate presses him, "So you are a king?" (18:37) and Jesus' response is even less... You say that I am a king."

Pilate obviously knew the man was innocent of the charges and sought to release him, but the crowd would have none of it: "Crucify him, crucify him" (19:6). So, Pilate made one more attempt to offer Jesus a respectable way out, but Jesus refused to answer the question as to his place of origin (Pilate would like to solve the problem of Jesus by sending him to some other authority.) Exasperated, Pilate demands: "Do you not know that I have power to release you and power to crucify you?" (19:11)

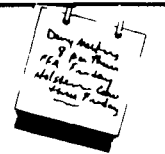

BORN FOR THIS

Jesus would not have had to seriously compromise himself in order to have gained his release. A few conciliatory words Pilate would probably have sufficed to get him off the hook.

Why didn't Jesus save himself at this point? Was it because he wanted to die, to assume the role of the martyr? No, I don't think either of those were his motivation. I think the key is to be found when he says, "For this I was born, and for this I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth" (18:37).

He did not want to die, but even more than that he did not want to do anything at all to diminish his role as a witness to the saving love of God. And that is the kind of witness we all are called to be.

Southeast manure management specialist appointed

LANCASTER — A specialist in manure management has been appointed by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service to aid the Chesapeake Bay cleanup effort. Mitchell D. Woodward will serve as project associate to work with the pollution problem caused by manure that washes into streams and eventually enters the bay. The manure contains nitrogen that encourages plant growth.

Woodward will be based in Lancaster County, although he will work in all Southeast counties that are part of the Chesapeake watershed. He will cooperate with organizations involved in Chesapeake Bay Study Project, including the Lancaster County Conservation District, the state Department of Environmental Resources, the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

His programs will include research and demonstration plots in Lancaster and surrounding counties to show the benefits of manure in crop production. He hopes this will convince farmers outside the area that manure can be useful to them. If a marketing system can be established this will help to move some of the manure out of the area.

acres and handle a milking string of 90 head, along with operating the family's lime spreading business.

Returned to the Federal Land Bank board were dairymen Ralph McGregor, East Berlin, and J. Wilbur Burkholder, Chambersburg. McGregor's farming operation includes 172 head of milking animals and 600 acres of cropland. Burkholder is in partnership with his son, with a 600 acre cropping program, 235-head milking string, and 500 hogs finished annually.

Also elected were nominating committees for the 1986 director election. Names to the Production Credit nominating committee are Louis Wambaugh, Paul Hoch, J. Robert Myers, Michael Troutman and Adam Lobaugh. Nominating committee for Land Bank includes Richard Bratton, Francis Mains, Dale King, Clifford Hawbaker and Dwight Taylor.

Sale average breaks $700 at Adams-York Calfarama

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — A Sweet-Haven Tradition daughter topped the Adams-York Calfarama sale Tuesday evening at the York Fairgrounds. Average price on the 45 head of calves and two bred heifers was $702.98, up from last year's average of $660.

Beshore Tradition Doreen Helen sold for $1650 to winning bidder Rick Wadel of Shippensburg. The December, 1983, heifer is from a Good Plus-83 Jet Stream daughter with first lactation records over 19,500 milk and 722 fat.

Her second and third dams are also both Good Plus, and she carries a calf to Cor-Vel Enchantment. Beshore Farms, New Cumberland, was the breeder and consigner.

Second high seller, and high seller of the calf consignments, was Sunnybend Jezebel Bootnick, a yearling heifer by Carlin-M Ivanhoe Bell. She went to buyer John Harr, New Oxford, for $1500.

Her dam is a Very Good-86

Rippchen Boot-Nick daughter, with a string of records well over the 20,000 pound mark, and currently finishing a lactation projected to 24,400 with 885 fat. She was bred and consigned by Tom Boyer of York, who had placed sixth with her in the Farm Show junior calf class earlier this year.

Walebe Bova Gail, placed third in the price list, selling for $1300 to Danny Albright, Landisburg. By Rockall Son of Bova, the December, 1983, heifer has a pedigree which carries the two closest dams scored Good Plus, and the third dam is Very Good. She was consigned by Robert Morris, Fawn Grove.

Manager of the sale was the Remsburg Sale Service of Jefferson, Md., with Dennis Remsburg handling the auctioneer duties and Norman Hill reading pedigrees. Jake Emig served as leadsman.

The Calfarama is an annual event, especially geared toward making available top selected youth project calves, and sponsored by the Adams and York County Holstein clubs.

Topping the Adams-York Calfarama Sale was this bred heifer by Sweet-Haven Tradition, selling for $1650 to Rick Wadel of Shippensburg. Shown with the heifer are consignors Jed and Sue Beshore, C.E. Hubbard, and Jake Emig at the halter. In the box are auction managers Dennis Remsburg and Norman Hill.

THE FASTEST MOWER/CONDITIONERS IN THE WORLD.

When conditions get tough, the Vicon KM 241, KM 281 and KM 321 Mower/Conditioners can get your hay in the windrow at least 30% faster than any conventional system.

One reason is the unique high speed Vicon disc cutting system. Which won't plug. And it's so gentle on your hay crop there's virtually no leaf loss.

The Vicon eliminates the most common cutting and conditioning problems, even if it's heavy, dew wet crop

The full width nylon rollers provides the maximum conditioning effect on the entire crop.

Another reason is a new drive system that lets you operate non stop. Even taking square corners with no drive line vibration or danger of failure. As a practical value to farmers, the Vicon mower/conditioners are efficient, economical and durable.

We'd like to show you how to improve your mowing and conditioning. Just contact the Vicon office closest to you.

West Virginia producers support wool act

BY DEBBIE STILES-RENZI

PETERSBURG, W. Va.

Though Washington officials have little good to say about the nation's existing farm programs, sheep producers in this state's Eastern Panhandle can find very little fault with the current Wool Incentive Program of the Wool Act.

farm programs are a disaster, he cannot be talking about the Wool Act," National Wool Growers Association staffer Dan Murphy told a group of over 100 sheep producers here.

Established 1954, the National Wool Act administers the Wool Incentive Program, which distributes to U.S. wool producers a payment as an incentive to produce more domestic wool. The unique aspect of the program is that the payment is made out of money collected via a tariff levied on imported woolen goods.

Since its inception, $3.6 billion has been collected in duties; $1.4 billion has gone to producers in payments while the remaining $2.2 billion has been returned to government coffers.

Murphy expressed fears concerning the future of the Wool Act, given the present Administration's desire to cut or eliminate all government farm programs, whether they are profitable or not.

"Your government does not support agriculture," he said flatly.

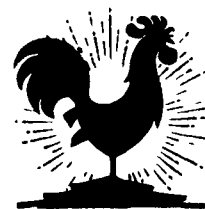

Whether he should push for the renewal of the Wool Act this year was the question U.S. Rep Harley Staggers Jr. asked of the shepherds in attendance.

A member of the audience suggested that Staggers take a hand vote to determine how many of those assembled supported the renewal of the Act. When Staggers did so, the result was unanimous in favor of continuing the Wool Act and the Wool Incentive Program at the 1985 levels.

A number of farmers and expressed their willingness to take a cut in the program payments for the good of the country in reducing the federal deficit. However, both Murphy and Staggers re-emphasized the paying status of the Wool Act programs and stated that cuts really should be made elsewhere in the budget to get the deficit down.

Dr. Richard Koes West Virginia University Extension Sheep Specialist, presented statistics on U.S. numbers and wool production, explaining how the incentive payment is calculated. According to Koes, the U.S. in 1984 imported 100 million pounds wool clean basis, and another 210 million pounds in fabric wool.

Milk diversion program enters final month

READING — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's milk diversion program entered its 15th and final month on March 1, 1985. The voluntary program offered dairy producers and incentive payment of $10 per hundredweight for reducing their commercial milk sales from 5 to 30 percent between January 1, 1984 and March 31, 1985.

Diversion payments were made to eligible milk producers after each quarter of the contract period, Donald E. Lutz, chairman of the Berks County ASC Committee said. Payments to Berks County's dairy farmers totaled $550,960.00 at the end of the 4th quarter. For the final payment, program participants are required to provide acceptable evidence of total milk marketings for the entire contract period, and certify that their marketing reductions were not offset by expansion of production in other facilities in which they had an interest.

In this, the final month of the program, Mr. Lutz said contracted dairy producers should make sure that they do not market more milk than is allowed by their contract. To qualify for diversion payments, a producer must limit milk marketings on a contracted unit to the difference between the established base for the unit and the contracted reduction level for the unit. In addition, if a producer has an interest in an uncontracted unit, the milk marketings on the uncontracted unit are also limited by milk marketings on the uncontracted unit during the period December 1, 1982 and November 30, 1983. Milk is considered marketed when it is disposed of in raw or processed form, by voluntary or involuntary sale, barter or exchange or by gift.

According to Lutz, 34 dairy producers in Berks County participated in the program and contracted to reduce their fluid milk output by 7,406,600 pounds. To achieve the required reduction in milk sales, the farmers enrolled 1,195,503 hundredweight of their milk bases and diverted 55,459 hundredweight.

The ASCS official said dairy producers may apply for their incentive payment in April, after they receive their final sales receipt for all milk marketed in March, 1985.

Potato stocks up 16 percent

HARRISBURG — Total stocks of potatoes stored in Pennsylvania on March 1, 1985, were 1,560,000 hundredweight, 16 percent more than a year ago, according to the Pennsylvania Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Of this amount, 715,000 cwt. was stored in the processors' facilities.

This represents 46 percent of the total stocks compared with 61 percent last year.

Stocks are defined as the quantity remaining in storage for all purposes and uses, including seed, shrinkage and waste, and other losses that occur after the date of each report.

Is it time to cut fertilizer costs?

In this lean budget crop year, corn growers need to look closely at their soil fertility programs to obtain maximum benefit from all the lime and fertilizer used.

"It is essential to determine if reductions can be made in lime and fertilizer use, but equally important to ensure that maximum economic yields are not jeopardized," says University of Delaware soil scientist Leo Cotnoir. He offers these suggestions for cutting fertilizer costs:

*Are fertilizers being applied to marginal land? Consider not planting acres that don't produce adequate yields. For example, the risk of growing corn on poor land without irrigation is too great to justify the cost of fertilizer and other planting costs. Don't plant high-risk acreage.

*Examine the yield history of each field. Don't base expectations on the one year in 10 when yields were above or below average. Be guided by past yields over a period of time.

*Gauge lime needs carefully. Corn yields are not increased by raising pH over 5.5. Look not only at the present pH, but also at pH trends over the past three or four years as well as past liming history. Liming can be delayed on fields with a pH of 5.5 or over.

*Match nitrogen rates to yield expectations. Allow 1 pound of nitrogen per bushel of anticipated yield. "Nitrogen will not replace water," Cotnoir stresses. "Using more than 1 pound per expected bushel won't increase yields if there's not enough water. On the other hand, most well managed Delaware fields contain enough reserve nitrogen to support a yield greater than 1 bushel per added pound in a year of above average rainfall."

*Time nitrogen fertilizer applications for maximum efficiency. This means putting on no more than one-fourth of the total nitrogen at planting, and sidedressing the balance. Don't apply nitrogen before planting. When calculating nitrogen rates, give adequate credit for the nitrogen supplied by a legume crop.

*Avoid unnecessary phosphorus applications. Over three-fourths of Delaware's fields have phosphorus levels in the high and very high range. Little if any yield response results from adding phosphorus to these soils, Cotnoir says. Band any needed phosphorus at planting, as this is three to four times more efficient than broadcasting it.

*Use micronutrients only if there is evidence of need. "It is unlikely that you will see responses from micronutrient applications where deficiencies have not been observed in the past," the soil specialist says. "If micronutrients are needed, foliar applications are more efficient than banded or broadcast ones."

"Most soils in this area have been well limed and heavily fertilized over the last decade and have excellent fertility levels. This is the year to cash in on these past investments," Cotnoir says. "Delayed liming and reduced fertilization may not be ideal for long term fertility management, but they could be essential strategies for this year. Soil fertility levels don't fall rapidly after a year or two of reduced lime or fertilizer rates, and future yields will not be jeopardized."

Classroom moves to the farm for Lancaster City students

BY SUZANNE KEENE

CONESTOGA — Fourth graders from Lancaster City Schools left their classrooms, textbooks and chalkboards behind this week and escaped to the farm's barns, hay bales, and animals. State Rep. John Barley hosted 140 of the students at his dairy farm in Conestoga, where the children enjoyed a tour and a short presentation about dairying. Other Lancaster city students toured the Jay Landis farm in Lancaster.

The students had plenty of questions for the farmers who donated their time to give the tour. "How does and cow have a baby? When cows have a calf, do they live with the mother? How do cows sleep?"

Patiently, the farmers answered all the questions and explained the daily operation of a dairy farm. They encouraged the children to help the dairy farmer by eating dairy products and keeping litter in its proper place — not in farmers' fields.

The farm tour was part of a larger program aimed at educating the students about agriculture. Earlier in the week, local farmers traveled to the city elementary schools to tell the fourth-graders about their farms and the products they produce.

Project coordinator Jane Eshleman said the program was based on a pilot project in the Penn Manor School District last October. Eshleman, a former Penn Manor school board member, is Lancaster's coordinator of the "Ag in the Classroom" project, which was developed through the combined efforts of the Department of Education, the Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

Jose Rosario and Ronaldo Rivera are fascinated with this tiny calf.

Tanya Roark and Marisol Rivera would like to feed the cow, but are just a bit intimidated by her long neck.

Local credit situation no 'crisis,' bankers say decade, when compared to land in other states. In Ohio, for instance, land prices climbed 37.5 percent from 1977 to 1981, then dropped 28 percent from 1981 to 1984, losing almost all the ground that had been gained in the earlier run.

Midwestern farmers who bought at the height of the land rush are now holding land worth 20 to 30 percent less than they paid for it. And many don't have enough capital invested to prevent themselves from technical insolvency, or owing more than their holdings are worth.

In Pennsylvania, however, prices increased at the more moderate clip of 30.6 percent in the end of the 70s, then dropped only about four percent in the first part of this decade, according to the USDA survey. And in the Northeast, as a whole, land prices increased 30 percent from 1977-81, and then increased again — although at a more moderate 13 percent rate — from 1981-4.

Part of the reason farmland here has not been subject to such tremendous variation is the pressure of non-farm uses, which, in many cases, has raised the value of farm property beyond the range justified by farming activities alone.

Alternatives like sale of hard-road frontage for housing lots, or outright sale to a tract or subdivision developer simply do not exist in the Midwest to the extent that they do here, bankers say.

And though farmers may grumble that those forces have pushed land prices upward (which, of course, they have), those same pressures have kept the land values from dropping suddenly, as they did in the Midwest. And thus, they create a safety net, of sorts, for the equity stake local farmers have in their property.

And even if they don't sell the farm to a housing or shopping center developer, eastern farmers still have the opportunity to work off the farm in industrial or service jobs that can produce income to supplement their farming efforts.

That outside income can well make the difference between success and failure, especially in hard times, local bankers told Lancaster Farming.

The farm income and credit squeeze of the past few years, both bankers and farmers insist, has made both lender and borrower much more careful about taking on additional credit.

"Farmers are much better educated now in farm financial management," explains Jerry Ogline of Lancaster Farm Credit.

And, adds Darvin Boyd, vice president and director of the Agri-Finance Department of Hamilton Bank, bankers are working much more closely with their farmer clients to make sure they aren't getting in over their heads.

"I'd like to think the worst is over," Boyd said, adding that the CoreStates-affiliated bank saw its problem loans peak in 1983 and 1984.

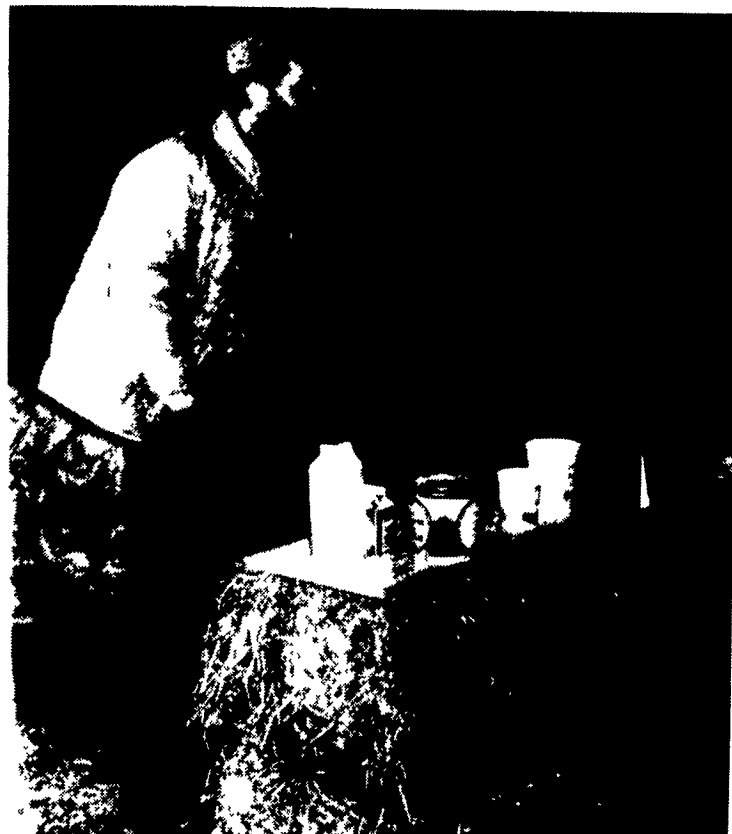

Pennsylvania Farmers Association financial analyst Dick Denison noted that the banking industry has taken a positive step in using a farm's cash flow — rather than its equity value — in determining whether to grant a loan.

"They're lending on the ability of the farm to produce income," he said, not assuming that constantly increasing land values will cover up any mistakes that are made in evaluating the farm's income-producing capacity.

As one analyst noted, when a bank begins to base its lending decisions on equity value rather than cash flow, it starts in motion the process that results in the bank eventually taking over the farm.

The USDA report, for instance, estimates that, in general, farms with debt-to-asset ratios of over 40 percent may well experience serious financial difficulty because of the heavy burden of servicing the debt at today's interest rates.

And farms with debt ratios above 70 percent, it said, face

Dairy demonstration farms established in Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Something old but new, "tried and true," is being added to the Profitable and Efficient Production long-term educational program being conducted for dairy farmers by the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service. The PEP program began in 1983.

Across the state, in a big arc sweeping clockwise from the western Maryland panhandle to the lower Eastern Shore, 29 dairy herd owners have agreed to participate as demonstration farms for a two-year period which began on Jan. 1 this year.

A major goal for the participating demonstration farms is to improve each aspect of dairy management efficiency rather than increase overall milk supply, according to Mark A. Varner, Extension dairy management specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Goals have been set in the areas of milk production per cow and herd management; livestock reproduction, and milk quality.

Nutrition, or proper feeding of dairy cows, will play an important part. There also will be an emphasis on herd health, business management, milking equipment, and best use of home-grown feeds.

Dr. Varner noted that the concept of demonstration farms was a revolutionary educational tool on the U.S. agricultural scene when it began in the early 1900s. It continued popular through the 1930s.

In recent years, some states have returned to the demonstration farm concept for teaching one aspect of dairy management, such as reproduction or mastitis. But the Maryland program is unique in the U.S. by taking a total integrated approach.

A core team of Extension specialists from the University of Maryland recently completed its first round of visits to each of the 29 participating demonstration dairy farms across the state. All of the herd owners have agreed to open their records to the team and follow recommendations for improvement.

Open houses are planned at most of the farms in 1986 so that other dairy farmers can observe firsthand and discuss new management practices being made.

The demonstration herd project has been made possible in part by a $20,000 industry grant from five dairy marketing cooperatives which operate in Maryland. Participating farmers also are paying a portion of the costs. All are members of a supporting co-op.

Cow numbers for the 29 participating demonstration farms range from 33 to more than 500. Average herd size, excluding the largest herd, is 84 cows in milk.

Robert R. Peters, Extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, is overall coordinator for the statewide demonstration farm program. Dr. Peters also serves as the mastitis specialist on the core team of university specialists.

Other University of Maryland core team members and their areas of responsibility include:

Regina C. (Jeannie) Eickelberger, field representative and general assistance; Dr. Mark A. Varner, reproductive management and program evaluation; Dr. E. Kim Cassel, nutrition and general herd management; Dr. J. Lee Majeskie, Dairy Herd Improvement records and genetics; Dr. Larry E. Stewart, farmstead engineering; Dr. Lester R. Vough, forage production; Dr. Richard E. Levins, farm management and computer applications; Dr. Joe E. Manspeaker, herd health.

In addition to animal sciences, the Maryland PEP core team represents the agricultural engineering, agronomy and agricultural economics departments on the College Park campus, as well as the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine. Other Extension specialists will be called on, as needed, to help solve specific problems on individual demonstration farms.

Service personnel associated with the demonstration herds also will assist in solving management problems. This includes local veterinarians, milk marketing co-op fieldmen, dairy equipment dealers, artificial insemination technicians and feed dealers.

Occasionally, the University of Maryland Extension specialists will target service personnel with educational programs, either in groups or on an individual basis.

It is hoped that the service workers, together with the demonstration farmers they serve, will act as "multipliers" to help increase the adoption of recommended practices throughout the state.

Penn Ag opposes Bill

EPHRATA — Board members of PennAg Industries Association have announced their opposition to House Bill #76, nicknamed, "The Buggy Bill."

This bill, if passed, will create an annual fee for all horsedrawn vehicles equal to that for a passenger car.

The use of these funds will go for the construction and maintenance of roadways, berms and shoulders for the use of animal-drawn vehicles.

The bill would also establish a minimum speed regulation, a general lighting requirement including turn signals and hazard warning lights, and the addition of rubber tire, ice grips and tire studs.

Pa. Ayrshire Breeders plan national convention

BY BARBARA RADER
Staff Correspondent

GRANTVILLE — The Pennsylvania Ayrshire Breeders are making big plans for their opportunity to host the 1986 National Ayrshire Convention. Gathering March 15-16 for their annual spring meeting, the state Ayrshire breeders met at the Holiday Inn in Grantville, site for the 1986 national meeting.

Kicking off the state gathering was a joint meeting, headed-up by general chairman Earl Keefer, Millersburg, of the '86 National Convention committees. Progress reports were given and the group toured the convention facilities.

A tentative farm tour schedule for the national convention includes visits to Sycamore Meade, Ardrossan, Masonic Homes, and Connebella farms. Also featured during the convention will be a junior dairy bowl quiz, ladies programs, and various speakers and entertainment. The national sale will be the concluding convention highlight.

Junior activities

Also announced during the state meeting were the Pennsylvania outstanding youth. David Paul, Garrett, was selected the 1984 Outstanding Ayrshire Boy. Paul has also been named one of the six finalists in the national outstanding youth contest.

Heather Hernley, Lebanon, was also selected as a national finalist in this year's competition. This is Hernley's second opportunity to compete nationally. Last year at the national convention in Columbus, Ohio, she also earned recognition.

Both youth were awarded $100 from the state club to cover contest expenses. The youth shared slide presentations with the Ayrshire breeders.

Hernley and Paul will be competing for the highest achievement honors at Janesville, Wis., April 10-13.

They will be joined by Becky Alsdorf, Cochran, and Steven Shetterly, Millersburg, to form Pennsylvania's senior team for the national junior dairy bowl quiz.

Barbara Rader, youth coordinator, reported on the progress of the state youth programs and announced a re-organization of the junior club.

Junior Ayrshire officers include: Steven Shetterly, president; Becky Alsdorf, vice-president; Debbie Shetterly, secretary; and Katrina Clevenger, Cochran, news reporter.

Junior membership dues were set at $5 to establish a junior fund. Dues are payable to Milton Brubaker, Lititz, secretary-treasurer of the Pa. Ayrshire Breeders.

The juniors were also cited for achievements at many outstanding dairy shows and for having high-placing junior all-Americans. Some of the entries are presently competing in the open all-American contest.

State officers

Officers elected to lead the Pa. Ayrshire Breeders were: John Ocker III, Shippensburg, president; Jerry Myers, Delaware Valley College, vice-president; and Milton Brubaker, secretary-treasurer.

Six directors elected to serve include: Wilda Kline, Mars; Sharon Nolan, Parkesburg; Harold Kulp, Pottstown; Curt Sweinhart, New Enterprise; Lewis Thomas, Legionier, and Delmas Hernley, Lebanon.

Youth committee members re-elected were: Barbara Rader; John Ocker III; Sandy Shetterly; and Harold Kulp. The young sire committee includes: Kulp; Garret Hunter, West Alexander; Earl Keefer; Charles Gable, Elverson; Ann Young, West Grove; and Glenn Seidel, Womelsdorf.

The sire committee gave a promising report on the state's young sires in waiting. The fifth bull is now starting the program. The first bull has come through plus in several categories and is proving to become one of the state's outstanding sires.

Speaking for the sire committee, Earl Keefer noted that any breeder who has a bull meeting the qualifications should contact one of the committee members.

Reporting on sales, Kennard Henley, Cochranville, noted that some promising heifers and cows will be offered at the first Mason-Dixon Sale, to be held at Frederick, Md., April 27. The Pennsylvania breeders have held this sale previously, but they felt that joining with another state would up-grade the quality of the sale animals and benefit all parties.

Selections are also being sought for the July Jubilee, in Lancaster, and the Keystone Elite Sale, September 2, at the All-American Show.

National executive secretary Peter Davis announced that he is retiring at the end of the fiscal year and a replacement is being sought. In reviewing national business, he reported that the Ayrshire Breeders will be joining the National Holstein Association for computer registrations.

Heather Hernley, Lebanon, and David Paul, Garrett, were selected as the state's outstanding Ayrshire girl and boy. Both are national finalists and will compete for top honors at the national Ayrshire convention in Janesville, Wis., in April.

The Pa. Ayrshire Breeders newly elected officers include, from left: John Ocker III, president; Jerry Myers, vice-president; and Milton Brubaker, secretary-treasurer.

Griffith heads ADA's county promotion program

SYRACUSE — Brian Ward, executive vice president of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, has announced the appointment of Shirley Griffith to the position of County Promotion Coordinator.

Mrs. Griffith comes to the position with a solid background in dairy promotion. She has been an employee of ADA/DC for eight years, starting out as an assistant in the County Promotion Program. For the past two years she has worked as Food Publicity Director for ADA/DC, working primarily with the news media.

In her new position, Mrs. Griffith will be responsible for coordinating the county dairy promotion program in New York State. She will also be in charge of the pageant, bookings and training program for New York's Dairy Princesses.

Prior to joining ADA/DC, Mrs. Griffith's background was in business. She is a resident of Verona Beach.

Local Guernsey breeders optimistic

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

SHARTLESVILLE — The Guernsey Breeders Association of Berks, Schuylkill, Lebanon, and Dauphin Counties held their 55th annual meeting recently at the Shartlesville Grange Hall. Although the crowd was small, enthusiasm was high as progress reports and breed activities were discussed.

President Robert Smith, Annville, called the dinner meeting to order and introduced guests and speakers.

"I want to challenge you all to be as active as possible," stated Ruth Ann John, Pennsylvania Guernsey Association representative. "You can always do something," she continued, "no matter how small an organization is only as strong as the people pushing it." John reported on the state meeting held recently, the junior organization, and also upcoming activities.

The Guernsey Association is publishing a new quarterly newsletter, according to John. Advertising space is available. She also advised breeders that registration fees and transfer fees will be increasing on April 1st.

Protein awards will also be added to the yearly production awards to breeders.

She also encouraged attendance at the National Guernsey Convention coming up on June 14th to 17th, in Denver, Colorado. There will be a group going from Pennsylvania, according to John.

Lee Yost was also present to report to local breeders on the status of the Guernsey barn. "It has come to the point where we have to do this," he stated in reference to the selling of the popular sales barn. According to

Yost, there are some interested buyers, and when the barn sold, if the money is invested properly, the Guernsey Association will be able to exist on the interest income from the sale.

Carolyn Hollenbach, R1, Bernville, reported on the joint efforts of the Berks Guernsey Breeders and the Hi-Protein Breeders. This past year the local Guernsey breeders association loaned the Hi-Protein Breeders the funds to purchase a Jetshake machine for milk promotion. A very new organization, the Hi-Protein Breeders used the machine to sell milk throughout the county at fairs, picnics, meetings, and group gatherings. They also made it available to other parties and organizations for private gatherings to promote more drinking of milk.

"There's really been nothing like it in this area," Hollenbach commented about the Jetshake machine. She said its use has been increasing and people really enjoy the "jetshakes." "We're looking forward to an even busier year this year with our Jetshake," she stated. She encouraged everybody to "spread the word" and make it known that the machine is available for meetings.

"We must give a big thanks to the Guernsey breeders for taking this step forward in milk promotion," she added.

The newly elected state president, Wilmer Campbell, was on hand to meet the local Guernsey breeders. "I'm inspired by the way the Guernsey breed is growing," he began, "especially in quality and production." He spoke with an impressive enthusiasm for the growth of the breed.

Dave Smith, representing MAGS, Mid-Atlantic Guernsey Sires, encouraged breeders to sample young bulls. "They have the best genetics," he stated. "They will be the future top bulls of the breed."

The local organization also reorganized for 1985 and the new officers include: President - Robert Smith, Annville; Vice President - Carl Hollenbach, Bernville; Secretary - Dave Smith, Annville; Treasurer - Lloyd Dreibelbis, Shoemakersville.

Youth awards were also presented to the local association juniors for exhibiting their project animals this past year. Each junior was presented with a "Real Seal" sport bag by William Zollers. They included: Rebecca Snyder, Clayton Snyder, Debbie Prize, Kevin Schlegel, Heidi Schlegel, Susan Hollenbach, Ann Kopfer, David Kopfer, Bill Zollers, Andrew Zollers, Sherri Zollers, Bertiner Olleig, Carl Miller, and Patti Heilinger, and Chris Habecker.

The afternoon was concluded by a slide presentation and discussion by Jon Andrew Zollers on his recent trip to Sweden.

The new officers of the Berks, Schuylkill, Lebanon and Dauphin Guernsey Breeders Association are: Carl Hollenbach, Robert Smith, David Smith, and Lloyd Dreibelbis.

Farmer-held oats released

WASHINGTON — Oats in the farmer-owned grain reserve have been released for redemption, effective immediately, according to Everett Rank, executive vice president of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation.

Rank said this means farmers now may sell—but are not required to sell—their reserve oats after repaying their CCC price support loans.

The reason oats were released, he said, was that the national average price received by farmers for oats had reached $1.65 per bushel, the same as the commodity's $1.65 per bushel reserve release level.

Oats were taken out of release status March 4, because the price had reached $1.64 per bushel, which was under the price support level.

USDA makes storage payments to farmers with grain in the reserve. Upon repayment of the loan, farmers can keep the storage payments earned through the date of repayment.

Release of reserve oats will continue through April 30, Rank said. If the five-day national average market price remains at or above $1.65 on May 1, storage earnings will stop and interest on the price support loan will begin to accrue for oats that have been in reserve for more than one year.

Interest is already accruing on loans for oats that have been in reserve less than one year.

If the May 1 price falls below $1.65, reserve oats no longer will be in release status and farmers will continue earning storage payments.

CCC uses data from two USDA agencies in determining the release level. The first data source is the five-day moving average prices—as reported by the Agricultural Marketing Service—which show prices bid by buyers at selected markets. The second is the month-end report of prices received by farmers, issued by the Statistical Reporting Service. This report shows the previous month's average price and the current mid-month price.

The daily market reviewed by CCC for oats is in Minneapolis.

State Ed and Ag departments join forces to bring ag to classroom

HARRISBURG — Noting agriculture's dominant role in contemporary society, State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell and State Education Secretary Margaret A. Smith joined forces on Agriculture Day to announce the results of a task force study designed to bring agriculture into the classroom.

Assembled by Governor Thornburgh in 1983, the 24-member panel is comprised of specialists from the fields of agriculture and education, who set out to develop a kindergarten through grade 12 curriculum outline, and to recommend its use by local school administrators and teachers. The program is part of a nationwide effort initiated by U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block.

Included in the report, which is being forwarded to Governor Thornburgh, are the following recommendations:

* Inservice programs for educators and administrators to facilitate implementation;

* adequate teaching and reference materials on agriculture should be made available for classroom and community use;

* local task forces on agriculture and education should be developed;

* the state's diverse agriculture-related organizations should contribute human and financial resources in promoting awareness; * a liaison position should be maintained between the Departments of Agriculture and Education to ensure effective communications; * partnerships between agribusiness and education should be pursued to augment classroom instruction;

Ag in the classroom

* and an interim committee should be continued with adequate funding to oversee the coordination of activities until a permanent organizational entity providing both financial and human resources is in place.

Secretaries Hallowell and Smith pledged to utilize their Departments' "available resources" to help develop and implement the program. As a first step, both Departments are making staff and funds available to develop instructional materials and to distribute the report to schools and organizations throughout the state.

"The agricultural community is already at work organizing local committees and projects, and cultivating relationships with educators to establish a firm foundation for this important educational endeavor," said Hallowell.

"If schools follow these recommendations, students in grades K through 12 will get a better appreciation of farm history and the agricultural methods that help Pennsylvania keep growing better," noted Secretary Smith. "Equally important are the report's suggestions on how agricultural study can compliment the 'Governor's Agenda for Excellence in Education,' which has led to more demanding curricula and increased graduation requirements to promote greater student achievement in Pennsylvania's public schools," she added.

Task force chairman Joseph V. Oravitz, executive director of the Pennsylvania School Board Association, presented copies of the report to Smith and Hallowell.

Atlantic Breeders Co-op reports profitable year in 1984

BY WENDY WEHR
LANCASTER — Profitability was the byword at the 21st Annual Meeting of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, held Wednesday in Lancaster. While the Atlantic managers reported a profitable year in 1984, the co-op's leaders also suggested that success in the future may depend on the merger of Atlantic with other AI organizations.

In his president's report to the membership, David Slusser revealed that Atlantic is discussing merger with other AI co-ops. "There are honest and sincere attempts to talk with each other and work together," he said.

Describing the talks as "slow, difficult, and at times totally impossible," Slusser remarked that Atlantic must remain diligent in these discussions. We have to persevere in this area, he said, because the costs of upkeep of the barns, of proving sires and other expenses are great.

"But Atlantic is not pursuing this out of stress," Slusser continued, claiming that theirs is perhaps the best financed AI co-op.

Atlantic reported revenues last year of more than $6.1 million with a total profit of $155,745. Part of that profit was set off against the loss incurred on member business in 1983.

Total assets of the AI co-op stand at $3,942,122, with total members' equity at an impressive $3,281,548.

"We have a progressive long-range planning committee that is realistic about the future," noted Slusser. "We'll be constantly scanning the horizon with our members' best interests in mind," he added.

General manager Harry Roth also alluded to an impending merger and continued change in the AI industry. "It may not be unreasonable to find only three to five bull studs in the entire AI industry into the 1990's," said Roth.

Other members of the Atlantic management team spoke positively about the profitability, adaptability and integrity of the organization.

In his financial report, finance director David Mellinger stated that the revenues of $6.1 million last year represented a six percent increase in revenues over 1983. The profit picture was also enhanced by cutting costs during the past year.

The effects of the dairy economy and the dairy diversion program presented a challenge in 1984, said member sales director Gary Heckman.

As cow numbers decreased, numbers of services and numbers of units sold also went down, he noted. But the superior genetics of some of the Atlantic sires and sales beyond the membership area contributed to the increase in revenues, and supplemented the member business to keep down the costs for the members.

"Getting cows settled quicker with genetically superior sires is still our first goal," reaffirmed Heckman. All of the Atlantic managers stressed the importance placed upon member service in the co-op.

In action during the annual meeting five men were re-elected to Atlantic's board of directors. They were: Clyde Martin, East Earl; Paul King, Delta; Frank Yost, Newville; Clair Koontz, New Enterprise; and S. Donald Glessner, Berlin.

The officers of the board of directors were also chosen to return to their posts. Re-elected were: David Slusser, Centerville, president; James Kreider, Quarryville, vice-president; Norman Sollenberger, Fayetteville, secretary; and John Paxton, Grove City, treasurer.

Retired general manager David Yoder received recognition during the annual meeting for his 40 years of faithful service to Atlantic and the AI industry.

Just look at this alfalfa. Leafy...fine-stemmed...the best alfalfa there is. That's not just the seed dealer in me talking. I got this proof right out of my own fields.

University tests also proved 120 is the best. You just can't get better tonnage than this. Or protein. And my 120 beat the others in fast starts, winterhardiness, longevity and regrowth, too. You need that kind of performance whether you feed it or sell it.

Why not ask your own DEKALB-PFIZER dealer about 120. Then compare it with what you're growing. You'll see how this 120 beats the rest.

Wish-Wood Holsteins is a wish come true in Bucks County

BY MARTHA GEHRINGER
Staff Correspondent

DOYLESTOWN — Can you imagine farming 275 acres that are rented from 30 landlords, owning only the cows and equipment for the barn, field and milking, having heifers on four farms and operating like this for about 20 years?

Perhaps this sounds a bit contrived or crazy, but it isn't either one. The people who have been doing this are Joseph "Tex" and Ruth Peters of Wish-Wood Holsteins in Doylestown.

And it wasn't always this way — sometimes it was worse!

Tex Peters originally grew up on a general farm outside of Doylestown. He left the family farm and took on a variety of other jobs. He worked on other farms for a while, worked at the Gardenville Farm Dairy, and even returned to the family farm to farm by himself. But financial difficulties forced him to give up this venture after three years.

He also worked for a time at Fisher Transfer. Although this was a moving company, he wasn't far from the dairy industry, as he hauled milk to Philadelphia.

But health problems, which surfaced more than once during his working career, forced him to give up his job with Fisher. Tex came down with polio and was "flat on his back for two months." He experienced all the symptoms of polio except the paralysis. As the doctor told him and as Tex realized — he had been very fortunate.

His wife, Ruth, was with him throughout. After his recovery, Tex returned to work for Gardenville Dairy, delivering milk door to door. But ever since he had left the family farm he had wanted to return to farming somehow.

About this time the Peters' children, Ross and Alice, wanted to enter 4-H. Of course the solution to both problems was to start raising heifers. This project began in an old chicken house behind their home in Danboro.

The Peters purchased their first animals from Harold Haldeman of Doylestown. Tex describes Haldeman as a big help and influence in getting them started in the dairy business.

As their heifer raising project grew, they soon needed a pasture. They rented a pasture from Wilmer Althouse, a former Jersey breeder, and eventually moved the heifers into a boxstall in the barn for the winter.

As the first heifers freshened, the Peters were able to handle them by nursing veal calves on them. But the herd continued to grow through this time.

Althouse soon encouraged them to move the herd into the empty barn and put in stanchions as they were needed. Althouse was helpful to the Peters and aided their efforts by keeping the rent reasonable and often serving as a "night watchman," since he lived in the house on the farm and the Peters were 15 minutes away in Danboro.

While ill health still plagued Tex Peters during these years, the herd continued its growth and the "point of no return" came. They had to decide either to go forward and ship milk or get out of the business. They chose the former, shipping their first milk from eight cows in 1968.

Tex remembers the first milk check amounted to a grand total of $75. But he chose to quit his job at Gardenville Dairy. The hours of the two jobs reached from 2:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. This was simply too much.

They've continued to raise all the heifer calves they could. Now they have 54 cows on test plus 50 heifers grouped by age and size on four nearby farms.

Throughout the time the Peters were building up their dairy herd, they also began farming more acreage. Starting with about 50 acres close to home in Danboro, they just kept picking up land as it became available, until they reached their present size of 275 acres. Some of the land is parceled into one-acre lots, which Peters farms "just so the owners don't have the problem of keeping it mowed."

Wish-Wood Pete Dusty is out of the home-grown bull Wish-Wood Elevation Pete. The bull is listed in the Holstein Red Book and is currently owned by Roger Wolf.

Steve Gruver has been herdsman at Wish-Wood for three years.

The dry cows stand behind the barn, while the effects of "urban sprawl" can be seen in the distance.

Peters uses a five-year cropping rotation, with two years corn, one year small grain, and two years hay, which is alfalfa or a clover-timothy mix.

Success with the cows has brought the herd average to 18,000 pounds. At the last classification, the herd had two excellents, 11 very goods, and a BAA of 101.6.

The feeding program for the herd consists of corn silage, high moisture corn, a top dressing of 38 percent protein plus hay, all they can eat, three times a day. His dry cow program consists of plenty of hay, a little corn silage, a dry cow grain ration formulated specifically for dry cows and plenty of exercise.

Few things on the Peters farm fall into the category of conventional. They've tried everything from the "ag bag" to E.T. work, with varying degrees of success. Peters felt that the ag bag made "excellent silage" but wasn't economically feasible.

For the E.T. work on the farm, the Peters have relied on Dr. Streams of the Quakertown Vet Clinic. Ruth and Tex Peters said they found the first successful transplant to be interesting and that they learned a great deal from it. Yet they don't feel it is profitable as a method of raising replacement heifers, unless they sell more breeding stock.

The derivation of the farm name is also a bit unconventional. As they contemplated the move to full-time production and a completely registered Holstein herd, the Peters started thinking about an appropriate farm name-prefix.

As he was driving for Gardenville Dairy one day, Tex' thoughts turned to the farm and what he had to do that day. Then he said to himself, "I wish I would've started sooner." It wasn't long until the farm was known as "Wish-Wood."

Today two full-time and three part-time people run the farm. In addition to Tex, the other full-timer is Stever Gruver, who has been herdsman at Wish-Wood for three years.

The Peters often rely on high school and college students for part-time help. The farm is located close to Delaware Valley College, making it a convenient employment opportunity for both the Peters and the students.

Ruth Peters is also an active member in the farm operation. She handles all the bookwork for the farm. In addition she has been employed the past 20 years at the Post Office as a part-time clerk.

What does the future hold for the Peters and Wish-Wood Holsteins? They'll be continuing much on the same course. They haven't gotten rich at it, say the Peters, but it has made them a living and they are happy.

Joseph "Tex" Peters is happy to be in the dairy business.

Queens Manor of Jamestown, topped the number purchased, with eight heifers totalling $20,800. Ray Anthony of Meadville, claimed five for $21,100, and the Shademantles, of Conneaut Lake, also took five home with $8,500. There were numerous multiple buyers.

In addition to Leadfield Marlinda-ET, seven other consignments surpassed the $6,000 mark. Ray Anthony of Meadville purchased Queens-Manor Columbus Rachelle, born March 15, 1984, for $11,500.00 from Justin Doeberier.

Londale Memorial Destiny-ET of Londondale Farms, Punxsutawney, sold for $9,000 to Berden Childrens Farm in Alabama.

Petite Syndicate, of Corry, purchased Conrid Pete Pride, consigned by Howard Hammond III, Corry, for $9,000 also.

Allen Swanson and Richard Curtis of Union City, sold Two-Anns Valiant Irish Rose to David Reese for $8,600.

Justin Doeberier purchased Sequa Slim Fanny, born Mar. 1, 1984, for $7,100. She was consigned by Stephanie Godwin, of Indiana, and E.J. Doeberier of Jamestown.

C Harholm Judy Warden, born Sept. 1983, sold to Bobby Peck of Ohio for $6,300. She was consigned by Robert & Candace Morrell and Michael Loewith, all of Cochranton.

Red & White Holsteins were also found at the sale. West Branch Wileeda Rhyme-Red sold for $6,000.

to John Roger Gilliland of Warriors Mark. She was consigned by Robert & Dave Minner of New Wilmington.

Sale chairman Ed Doeberier of Queens Manor, Jamestown, felt that the sale went even better than anticipated. "Nowhere but in Crawford County could this have been done. It was a total effort, everything just fell into place," he said.

He then commended everyone that helped in the organization and preparation for the sale, and pointed out that Bob Morrell and Dallas Rynd of Cochranton were instrumental in selecting the calves and promoting the event. Credit was also given to the members of the barn crew, who did an exceptional job of fitting the animals.

USDA allows haying

WASHINGTON — Farmers in areas where severe weather conditions have caused a critical lack of hay supplies will be permitted to hay and graze 1985 acreage conservation reserve acres, officials said.

State officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will determine which counties are eligible to participate under this special acreage conservation reserve provision.

Electronic dairy system on view March 30 at Del. university

NEWARK, Del. — There will be a dairy open house Saturday, March 30, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., at the University of Delaware farm on Route 896 across from the Chrysler plant in Newark. Purpose of the event is to provide dairy farmers and other interested individuals an opportunity to observe the new electronic milking and feeding system recently installed by the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station.

Parts of this computer-based system are unique and new in their use in the U.S. Each animal in the 75-cow herd wears an electronic transponder on a collar around her neck. This automatically identifies her in the milking parlor, controls her access to feed supplements and provides a continuous record of her performance and activity.

According to extension dairy specialist Dr. George Haenlein, the new system makes it possible to eliminate many inefficiencies which reduce herd productivity, and cost dairy farmers money. It features the latest technology in electronic milk metering, milker back-flushing, automatic milker take-off, milk precooling and milk monitoring. Flashing signal lights in the milking parlor tell personnel if a cow has been treated and should be milked separately, if her milk shows signs of mastitis, if she is off her feed and may be sick, or if she is coming into estrus.

Visitors to the open house can tour the university's dairy facilities and observe the electronic system in operation.

Another highlight of the event will be a series of microcomputer demonstrations on farm financial management, dairy ration balancing, engineering problem solving, and the Grassroots America farm information system.

Equipment from 10 commercial dairy suppliers will also be on display. Lunch will be available from food service vendors.

Penn Ag endorses Farm Bill

EPHRATA — PennAg Industries Association's board of directors has come out in favor of the 1985 Farm Bill proposal submitted by the Reagan Administration.

The board adopted the following statement at a recent board meeting:

"PennAg Industries Association supports a free market-oriented economic system and believes that American agriculture has suffered because of over-regulation by government. While recognizing the role of government in unusual or emergency situations, the Association supports the adoption of a 1985 Farm Bill which will have as its ultimate goal a market-oriented farm policy, by:

*bringing about a gradual reduction in federal programs for agriculture over a multi-year time frame—about three years, *helping to bring into being equitable, manageable federal programs which address only those areas which agriculture alone cannot develop successfully (e.g., research, disaster assistance).

"The problems of American agriculture did not develop overnight, and cannot be solved overnight. A gradual reduction of government involvement is necessary in order to ease the transition to a market-oriented agricultural economy."

ACRs

WESTFALIA ACR 1

Westfalia extends its lead in automatic pipeline milker take-off equipment

Automatic take-offs are rapidly becoming standard equipment in the dairy business. And rightly so. They save time. They take the guess work out of milking and can improve the efficiency of the milking operation by up to 50%.

When you go to automatic take-offs — go to Westfalia and stay on the leading edge of technology.

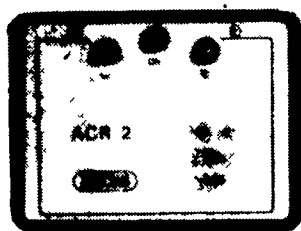

Westfalia's ACR 1 features automatic take-off with memory strip time. This unit features Westfalia quality throughout, and is more than competitively priced.

Westfalia's ACR 2, with stainless steel components, takes you that extra step in take-off automation. Now features memory strip time and kick off detection. The ACR 2 is the most feature proven take-off on the market today. It's way ahead of the competition.

Both the ACR 1 and ACR 2 install easily in any facility — work well with any brand of pipeline milker.

Order 2 farmers will receive $13.13

NEW YORK — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during February 1985 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $13.13 per hundredweight (28.2 cents per quart). Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $13.34 in January 1985 and $12.79 in February 1984. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan does not affect the uniform price for the month of February.

A total of 16,624 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 870,914,618 pounds of milk during February 1985. This was a decrease of 6.1 percent (about 57 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $117,758,368.15. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 363,933,865 pounds of milk for Class I, 41.8 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. The call provision which was in effect for the month required handlers to meet a minimum Class I-A utilization of seven percent. For February 1985, handlers paid $14.77 per hundredweight (31.8 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $14.36 a year ago.

The balance (506,980,753 pounds or 58.2 percent) was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $12.23 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent but-terfat. For February 1985, there was a price differential of 16.2 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received within the 201-210 milk zone from New York City.

STATE COLLEGE — The Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association's Blue and Gold Sale was held Saturday, March 16, at the Ag Arena, Penn State University. Twenty seven lots were presented to Judge Terry Shearer of Abbottstown prior to the sale.

The champion lots were exhibited by Penn State University, Green Pastures Farm and Five Point Pastures. Fred McMurry of Sunbury took home the champion cow shown by Penn State. With a calf sired by famed Polled Hereford bull "Stick" at her side, the sale's top female went for $2,000.

The senior champion heifer, exhibited by Green Pastures Farm of Berlin Center, Ohio, brought a bid of $1,275 from W.C. Nicholas of Spring Mills.

The sale's top junior heifer, shown by Five Point Pastures of Greensburg, was sold to Mike Kerr of Clearfield for $700. The event's top seller was an embryo transplant sold by Spring Bottom Farms of Fairfield for $2,500.

The volume buyer for the sale was Don Januszewski of Laurel Ridge Farm Ledgedale. The twenty-seven lots averaged $850.

Next year's Blue and Gold sale has been tentatively set for the same date next year at the Ag Arena.

Seedlings on sale

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Conservation District is selling hardwood and evergreen seedlings.

Evergreens cost $4.00 per packet of 10. Species include: Blue Spruce, Norway Spruce, Scotch Pine, White Pine, Douglas Fir and Hemlock.

Hardwood seedlings cost $1.10 each and include White Flowering Dogwood, Sugar Maple, White Birch and Red Oak.

All seedlings range from 4" to 24" depending on the species.

An order form can be mailed or picked up at the District Office, Room 6 in the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA. 17601. Pre-paid orders must be received by March 29, 1985.

Seedlings will then be distributed at the Kiwanis Lodge in the Lancaster County Central Park on Friday, April 12, 1985 between the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

For more information, call the Conservation District Office at (717) 299-5361 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Here's how dairymen in this area are selling themselves on Murphy Bru-Mash

A little arithmetic shows Bru-Mash benefits

Your Murphy representative has a simple worksheet form he'd like to go over with you and help you fill out — using your feeds, your costs and ingredient prices in your area. Complete the arithmetic on the form and we think you'll see why Murphy Bru-Mash has become so popular so quickly.

The secret of Bru-Mash is really not much of a mystery. Bru-Mash combines the advantages of highest quality by-pass protein with excellent palatability and digestibility. Result: Your top cows eat better and convert more of what they eat into milk. They stay on feed longer and they make maximum use of your homegrown dairy feeds.

Give us a call and let us "push the pencil" with you soon.

Local farmers reduce Farm Credit borrowing

LANCASTER — Customers of the Lancaster Farm Credit Association have bucked the national trend, and, for the most part, have reduced their borrowing over the past few years.

And that, Farm Credit officials told the association's annual meeting this week in Halifax and Strasburg, has brought about unusual strength and vigor for the local system in these troubled economic times.

While some farmers are plagued by the general problems in the farm economy, officials here report less delinquency and bad debt than is being noticed nationwide.

Because that's also true throughout the Baltimore region of the Farm Credit system, said Stephen J. Swift, Assistant Vice President and Assistant Treasurer of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, the entire region has been able to offer money at an extremely reasonable rate.

Farm Credit's bondholders, he said, know that the system is a "low-risk" investment. And they've responded by purchasing Farm Credit bonds at a rate only slightly higher than the Federal Government pays on its borrowings.

Local members may feel it is not in their best interests to stand behind the troubled system in Spokane, WA, for instance, he noted.

But all Farm Credit borrowers benefit from the lower rates bondholders accept because the 37 regional banks each are backed by the entire system.

In his review of the highlights of the Lancaster Farm Credit Association's financial status, General Manager James S. Owen noted that the Federal Land Bank Association had about $167 million in loans to 1,500 farmers, a decrease of 2.35 percent in loan volume and 6.35 percent in numbers of participants.

The Production Credit Association reported slight increases for the year, increasing loan volume 5.86 percent to $57.6 million and numbers by three percent to 1,265.

The combined volume of long- and short-term loans dropped slightly to $225,349,762, down about $850,000 from the 1983 total.

The figures clearly indicate that local farmers are paying off their loan obligations in difficult times, rather than incurring new debt.

Net income for the FLB increased $34,000 to $247,949, while PCA's income continued a three-year decline, dropping to $342,285, more than $230,000 less than the 1983 figure.

Much of the reduced income apparently resulted from the $456,289 in loans the PCA charged off in 1984. The association absorbed $297,713 in loan charge-offs by reducing income, with the remainder coming from its $1 million allowance for loan losses.

"I make good silage. And I keep it good with Pioneer® silage inoculant." BRAND

"I take pride in the silage I make. I know that if it looks and smells good coming out of the silo, chances are my cows will really go for it."

"Pioneer® brand 1177 silage inoculant helps me keep my good silage good right up to when I feed it out. Besides looking and smelling good, the treated silage stays cooler. It's richer in valuable nutrients because I can put it up at higher moisture. Plus, there's less runoff and the silage unloads faster."

3 to 1 return on investment

1177 is backed by proven test results...on different crops, at different locations, and with different storage systems. In over 25 full-scale feeding trials, Pioneer silage inoculant has demonstrated more than a 3 to 1 return on investment compared to untreated silage.

Research, testing and proof of performance... the reasons why more silage makers use Pioneer® brand silage inoculants than any other brand.

To find out more about these full-scale feeding trials and how to keep your good silage the best that it can be, talk to your local Pioneer Sales Representative.

Manheim family earns soil conservation award

BY JACK HUBLEY

QUARRYVILLE — Lancaster County may be losing topsoil at the annual rate of nine tons per tillable acre, but not all of the county's farmers are content to see this trend continue.

And one such farmer is Norman Geib of Manheim, who realizes that soil down the creek is no different than money down the drain.

For their exemplary soil conservation efforts the Norman Geib family received the Lancaster County Conservation District's Outstanding Farm Cooperator award at the District's 34th Annual Dinner Meeting held in Quarryville on Tuesday evening.

Norman Geib's involvement with conservation began in 1966 when he signed with the Conservation District in an effort to slow erosion on 68 acres of cropland. That fall the Soil Conservation Service mapped out 38 acres of contour strips, and the following year six more acres were added to the contoured acreage. In 1970 Geib added a 150-acre farm to his existing acreage.

Currently the Geibs fatten about 350 steers and 2,000 hogs in addition to raising 150 acres of corn, 20 acres of hay and 30 acres of tobacco.

In an effort to keep his topsoil where it belongs the Penn Township farmer has installed 4,496 feet of waterways, 9,005 feet of tile drainage, nearly 15,000 feet of diversion terraces and two ponds.

"I don't feel as though it costs, I feel it pays to be contouring and terracing," said Geib, adding that keeping bare soil covered also plays a big part in checkmating erosion. About half of the farm's corn is planted no-till, with the other half utilizing minimum tillage practices. Where the latter is employed, Geib chisels his corn ground in the fall and works it once in the spring with a disk and cultipacker.

"Conservation would be a lot easier to sell if we had more farmers like Norman," said the District's administrator Bob Gregory, adding that even though the farm plan had been drafted by the Soil Conservation Service, Geib completed much of the work himself with his own equipment. "And he is directly responsible for getting two of his neighbors involved," Gregory pointed out.

Receiving the District's No-Till Award were Richard and Mary Neff of Millersville. Fifteen-year veterans of no-till farming, the Neffs farm 300 acres and employ

State Farmers Union joins two-day lobbying effort

HARRISBURG — Members of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union will join Farmers Union members from ten other states in Washington, D.C. on March 25 and 26.

This massive two-day lobbying effort will focus on the 1985 farm bill through the lens of Farmers Union policy.

Key points include:

- * This farm bill should be a long-term law, rather than only 4 years.
- * The wide discretionary authorities provided to the Secretary of Agriculture should be drastically limited.
- * Minimum price support protection must be established at cost of production levels.
- * Reserve programs must insure an adequate supply to meet domestic needs and export commitments.
- * The role of the Commodity Credit Corporation should be expanded to include negotiation of long-term agreements with importing nations.
- * Congress should establish the base programs for commodities and the discretionary authority of the Secretary should extend only to the necessary ranges to allow effective adjustment of supply management programs to meet domestic and international demand.
- * Deficiency payments should be made to producers in an amount representing the difference between the full parity price and the average market price. Payments should be made on a de-escalating scale, so as to direct the most financial aid to family farmers.

* Realistic limitations on payments must be enacted to provide effective production and preference to the family farmer and the family-farm system of agriculture.

* Cross compliance should be required for producers to be eligible for benefits of any single commodity program whenever supplies of one commodity are out of balance with other commodity supplies.

* Mandatory supply management programs adopted through producer referenda should systematically replace current programs which permit a minority of producers to frustrate the supply adjustments made by the majority.

* Non-farm corporations or alien owners should not be eligible to receive farm program benefits.

Anyone interested in going along to the lobbying trip should call the state farmers union office, 1-800-932-4629, for more details.

Northumberland no-till meeting

SUNBURY — The Northumberland County Conservation District will hold its second annual no-till conference March 29th at the Farmers Best Restaurant, East Lewisburg. The workshop is being co-sponsored by the District, Cooperative Extension Service, and the Soil Conservation Service.

The session runs from 10:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and will cover a variety of no-till topics.

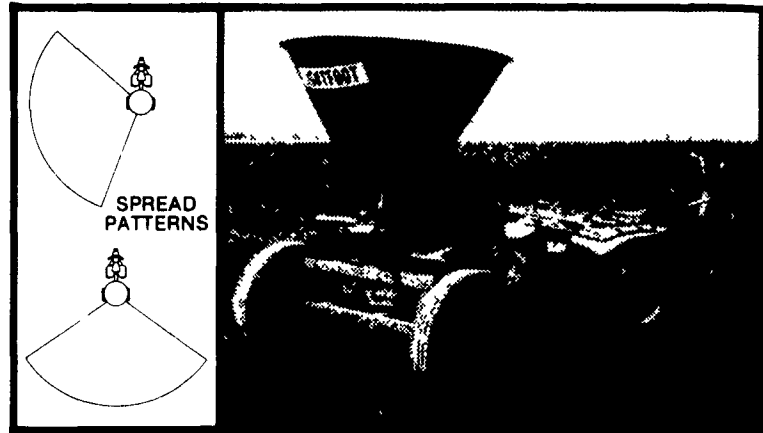

Guest speakers will include Lynn Hoffman, superintendent, Penn State Rock Spring Agronomy Farm; Dr. W. Thomas Lanini, extension agronomy specialist from Penn State; John Spitzer, Pennsylvania state agronomist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service; Mike Fleming, Velsicol Chemical Corporation; Vernon Brose, Northumberland County agent; Norman Conrad, Union County agent; and George Phillips, Northumberland County farm planner.

Topics include aspects of no-till planting, no-till equipment, weed and insect control, no-till plot demonstrations, as well as other topics. Highlighting the conference will be a panel discussion featuring several of Northumberland County's most experienced no-till farmers.

A $3 registration fee for the workshop includes lunch. Tickets may be purchased by sending a check to the Northumberland County Conservation District, R. D. #2 Box 347-1, Sunbury, PA 17801.

THE TOTALLY AUTOMATED
BATCHING SYSTEM THAT WILL SAVE YOU TIME AND MONEY!

The Computa-Batch is an on-farm feed processing system that will automatically select, weigh, grind, and mix up to 12 ingredients with 99.9% accuracy. Based on tests in actual feeding situations, the Computa-Batch will save 15 to 50% in costs over a PTO mixer/grinder or buying finished feed. Ask for a FREE COST COMPARISON ANALYSIS to see how much your actual savings would be.

The horizontal mixer continuously produces any number of 1/2 ton batches. The mill is available in hammer or roller styles. The "user friendly" computer stores up to 60 formulas and offers complete record keeping.

no-till and minimum tillage practices on about two-thirds of the farm.

"We haven't plowed any corn ground in 10 years," Neff said, adding that the less tillage he uses, the better the yields seem to be.

Also honored were vegetable farmers Ray and Mary Bushong of Lititz, for their support of the District-sponsored Youth Conservation School. Their donation of fresh vegetables for the school's 40-plus participants has allowed the District to hold the line on tuition costs since the program began seven years ago.

The Bushongs also show their support by permitting their summer employees to take a week away from work to attend the camp. Thus far three of their student employees have enrolled in the program.

In recognition of their support, the Bushongs received the District's Outstanding Service award.

Attendance stood at 220 for this year's meeting, which also featured a 50th birthday celebration for the federal Soil Conservation Service. The event was held in the Solanco Fairgrounds' Hoffman Building, with the meal provided by the Fulton Grange.

almost certain liquidation without some influx of outside capital.

The report singled out cash grain, general livestock and dairy farm operations as ones with the greatest problems in highly leveraged situations. Typical operations in all three areas, it indicated, would experience a cash short-fall even at a debt-to-asset ratio of 40 percent, based on current prices.

And though the solid status of local farmers remains a real strength, lending experts point out a few clouds on the horizon, specifically the uncertain dairy price support situation, the federal deficit and international trade, the long delays in capital purchases (and thus the aging of existing equipment) and the continued uncertainty of weather.

"It looks better this year, that's true," said one banker. "But another drought and we'd really be in a tight squeeze."

The clear strength advantage of the new Calumet S-3750 spreader tank

You see it first in the "over-built"
undercarriage.

We wanted an exceptionally strong 3750 gallon liquid spreader tank. We got it by using the under carriage from our big 4500 gallon spreader. We also used the bigger model's 18 x 22.5 16 ply tires on 4 inch spindles and 16,000 lb capacity hub. And like all Calumet tanks the new S 3750 features extra strength flanged heads and continuous finished welding of tank to frame (instead of skip welds).

The S 3750 operates from 540 or 1000 RPM PTO or optional hydraulic motor drive. It accepts our 2 or 4 shank soil injectors. Four wheel hydraulic brakes are controlled from the tractor cab.

Liquid level indicator is standard. And the price is right. If you're thinking about a new tank, see the new competitively priced S 3750 at your Calumet distributor. Other models offer 2250, 3250, 4500 and 6500 gallon capacities. All are built strong as a Calumet by the strong company in liquid manure equipment.

After graduating from Penn State in 1968 with a degree in Animal Science, Heffner spent three years at the State University of New York in charge of the University's meat animals. He then moved to Gettysburg where he managed commercial beef operations until starting his own herd in 1975.

During the mid to late 1970's the cattleman also worked as a field man in the fertilizer and ag chemical business before plunging full-time into the beef business in 1979.

Heffner also visited Australia in 1971 in an effort to learn more about Down Under beef cattle operations.

An energetic PCA member, Heffner served as president in 1983 and '84, and is currently vice president of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the promotion arm of the Pa. Cattlemen's Association. He is also a member of the Adams County Beef Club, the Penn State Alumni Club and is active in National Cattlemen's Association activities.

Fred Frey of Quarryville, Lancaster County, took home the association's first annual Seed-stock Producer Award. Frey owns a 300-head commercial herd of Angus and Angus-Chuanina cross cows.

"When we need to get something done, Fred's right there to do it," said the association's Harry Stambaugh during his introduction of the Quarryville cattleman.

Receiving the association's first Beef Industry Award was Moyer Packing of Souderton. The east-coast's largest packer, Moyer processes 1,500 cattle a day.

"Moyer Packing has been very supportive of the beef promotion program," said Pennsylvania Beef Council treasurer Robert Coleman, who pointed out that the packing firm voluntarily adds 9 cents per head to the beef checkoff program. Two-thirds of this amount goes to the Pa. Beef Council, with the remaining three cents going to the National Livestock and Meat Board. Accepting the firm's award was David Sorosky.

Chosen from the eight finalists to represent the beef industry as the 1985 Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Queen was Melanie Hemminger, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hemminger of Somerset.

A junior at Penn State majoring in animal production, Miss Hemminger is active in the University's Block and Bridle Club and was a member of the 1984 Meats Judging Team. The past two summers have found her on the show circuit with beef cattle owned by Pennsylvania Charolais and Simmental breeders

"I really like working with beef animals," says Melanie, "and there's that special pride when an animal that's been difficult to work with does well in a show." During the 1984 Farm Show, Melanie showed the grand champion Charolais bull owned by Ray and Mary Grimes, and during this year's Farm Show she exhibited the champion Charolais heifer and both champion and reserve bulls for Bratton Charolais Farm.

Future plans for Miss Hemminger include veterinary school or possibly a career in beef advertising and marketing.

Other finalists in the Queen competition included first runner-up Lisa Shaffer, Hooverville, Somerset Co.; second runner-up Rebecca Painter, Elkland, Tioga Co.; Stephanie Dee Doney, Greensburg, Westmoreland Co.; Marcy Jones, Buffsdales; Jamie Kohr, York; Laura B. Long, Huntingdon; Lee Ann Miller, Mill Hall, Clinton Co.

Direct marketing meeting set

CLARKS SUMMIT — Retail farmer marketers are invited to attend a direct marketing conference Tuesday, March 26, 9:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn, Clarks Summit. The Lackawanna County Horticultural Association and Penn State University Cooperative Extension Service have organized the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fredericks of Strawberry Valley Farm near Whitney Point, N.Y. will share their experiences in changing from commercial dairy farm to a fruit and vegetable and a direct marketing program.

Jackie Greenfield, member of the State College Farmers Market, will explain the problems and opportunities in growing and marketing ethnic and specialty crops.

Harry Vroomen and Mary Ann Goodfellow, consumer marketing researchers from Penn State will show the results of statewide surveys on direct marketing made during the year. Aubrey Vose, Extension area marketing agent, will demonstrate methods for displaying produce in retail markets.

In addition to the speakers the meeting will provide opportunities for retailers to meet with commercial exhibitors offering products and services to increase profits at markets.

The Ramada Inn is located on Routes 6 and 11 just off Exit 58 of Interstate 81. Registration and lunch combined are $5 but no advance reservations are needed.

Community services for rural child abuse victims often scarce

BY DEBBIE STILES-RENTZ
Staff Correspondent

BRIDGEPORT, W.Va. — Child abuse is often pictured in an urban setting: the overcrowded tenement, the poverty-ridden, inner-city ghetto. Unfortunately, child abuse, and its sister anomaly-neglect-happen just as often in rural areas. Last year, for example, 12,000 cases of abuse were reported in West Virginia, a state comprised of mostly small towns and sparsely populated countryside.

Child abuse, child sexual abuse (in which the victim is assaulted by a stranger, a family member or friend), and child neglect are problems that ignore economic and demographic boundaries. They occur in all segments of the population, rich, poor, urban, rural.

What is more tragic is the situation in states such as West Virginia where, community services for abuse victims are sometimes not as well-known or accessible to those living in outlying sections of rural counties. Additionally, programs developed to educate the public on preventing abuse equally fail to reach the country dwellers.

Rosemary Ruff, a wife and mother in Harrison County, West Virginia, came up against this stone wall when her four-year-old daughter was sexually assaulted. After contacting numerous agencies and professionals in an attempt to secure the help that her daughter and her family needed, Mrs. Ruff realized what was sadly lacking in her community. She needed, but couldn't find a listing, or directory or something in writing, that provided the numbers and contact persons of legal, medical, psychological and support services a child abuse victim needs.

"I didn't want others to go through what I had," Mrs. Ruff explained. In trying to get help for her daughter shortly after the incident, she said she had to endure the pain of recounting her daughter's story over and over again to individuals who would then tell her 'they didn't handle that' or 'try so-and-so or such-and-such agency.'

A great deal of wasted time and frustration were the fruit of her labors before Mrs. Ruff finally reached the people who could assist her.

This year, through local media, she spread the word of her concern of other victims. She also organized a committee whose purpose is to identify the areas where more support services are needed for county residents, built a cooperative network of legal, psychological, medical, and support services for victims, and to identify areas where prevention of abuse could play a larger role.

West Virginia University Extension Division of Family Development stresses a positive approach to the prevention of child abuse and neglect. Through programs such as "Family Stress" and "Positive Parenting Practices," Extension workers strive to educate parents and thereby eliminate some causes of abuse; namely, family stress, poor communication patterns, and poor parenting.

According to John M. Cavendish, Extension assistant professor, child neglect is an even more common problem than abuse; as a protective service worker, he estimated he encounters ten neglect cases for every one of abuse.

Child neglect is defined by West Virginia law as a parent's failure to provide the food, clothing, shelter, supervision, medical care, or education necessary for a child's physical and mental well-being. Neglectful parents tend to be socially isolated, and have few supportive resources, such as friends or family to talk to or with which to share their burdens. Chronic unemployment, a prevalent situation in West Virginia, can result in a parent's inability to provide adequate food and clothing. Coping with the demands of providing for children becomes too much to handle, and his feeling of hopelessness leads to a parent's abandonment or abuse of offspring.

Child abuse can be separated into three categories. Physical abuse, the most reported type, manifests itself in repetitive injuries to the child. West Virginia law mandates that medical, dental and mental health professionals report cases of suspected abuse. Social service workers, Christian Science practitioners, religious healers, school personnel, and day care staff are also obligated by law to report suspected cases; however, anyone can report suspected abuse.

Emotional abuse, like neglect, rarely receives media attention. Rejection, coldness and use of emotional terror tactics against children constitute mental abuse. This often subtle, insidious assault against a child by his parents or guardians will result in impaired psychological growth and development. Suicide is often the "way out" for many of these children who may exhibit behavioral problems at school. Emotional abuse is against the law and should be reported, for the child's sake.

Sexual abuse may sometimes be perpetrated by a member of the child victim's family, his extended family (grandparent, uncle, cousin), a trusted friend such as the child's babysitter or coach, or a total stranger.

In the case of Rosemary Ruff's daughter, a neighbor was the assailant in the incident. And while the major emphasis of Ruff's Harrison County committee is the prevention of sexual abuse and the support of its victims, their idea of a directory listing supportive services is valid for all rural communities, for use as a weapon against all types of abuse. Rural citizens need to be aware of the services available in their area so that they are able to take advantage of them, if and when it becomes necessary.

How is such a directory put together? If there is no county-wide group organized to address the problems of child abuse/neglect and its victims, that is the first step.

"It only takes one person," said Mrs. Ruff. All it took was a number of phone calls on her part to locate people who were as concerned as she about the lack of communication between agencies and lack of information provided to the public on the problem. The network of cooperating agencies and professionals began to build when she took her cause to a local television station (in other areas, the local newspaper would be just as effective), and organized a meeting for all interested parties.

The committee Rosemary Ruff formed is divided up according to its members' specific areas of expertise: i.e., legal services

(lawyers, the WV Department of Human Services), medical (physicians specially trained in performing the examinations necessary to obtain evidence), psychological (community mental health centers, psychologists), support groups (local groups, chapters of the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse), and distribution (those in charge of compiling the necessary information for a directory and/or its final dispersal to county residents). Each agency or professional to be included in the directory provides a brief summary of its function and the type of assistance it can provide in terms of prevention or help to the child abuse victim or families. These descriptions, along with the agencies, contact persons' names, addresses, and phone numbers, and a preface on preventing child abuse comprise the directory in booklet or brochure form. Once all the information is gathered together, all that remains is to find a printer. These steps have all been taken by the Harrison county group, and they expect to have their directory out (in brochure or pamphlet form) by the end of April.

Distribution to all county schools (through PTA's and the boards of education), to day care centers, and police departments will secure the public's increased awareness of this problem and the help that is

Homestead Notes

In West Virginia, a largely rural state, 12,000 cases of child abuse were reported last year. Experts believe the actual number may be much higher.

4-H Capon project popular

HONESDALE — The 4-H capon project continues to be a popular 4-H project in Wayne County.

This 4-H project is open to all young people in Wayne County with an interest in managing and caring for poultry. The 4-H member must be between the ages of 8 and 19 and be a member of 4-H agricultural or community club.

The 4-H capon project will start in early June when the 4-H member takes delivery of the day-old cockerel chicks. The 4-H member can order any amount of chicks, but thirty five is the "suggested" number for a 4-H member's capon project.

The chicks will be caponized about three weeks after they have been delivered to the 4-H member. After the chicks have been caponized, the 4-H member will have the important job of properly feeding and managing their flock of capons.

Feeding capons involves the use of properly formulated and supplemented feeds. These types of feed will help the chicks grow into capons that have a "dressed weight" of between eight and eleven pounds in about twenty weeks of feeding.

In order to reach these dressed weights, each capon will eat at least 70 pounds of poultry feed plus large quantities of clean, fresh water.

A sturdy building with screened windows and doors is necessary in order to successfully grow capons. Rats, cats, dogs, skunks and other wildlife must be kept out of and away from the growing capons. This can be accomplished by designing or remodeling the capon building with these safety features.

A warm, dry building is especially important in early June. This is the period of time when the young chicks need supplemental heat to keep them warm and also to help them recover from the stress of caponizing.

Once the capons have started to grow quickly, the 4-H'er's main concern will be to keep the poultry house floor dry and free of excess moisture, the feeders full of good, high-quality feed, the water fountains full of water and the poultry house well-ventilated. The 4-H member must also be alert for diseases or sickness that may affect the flock.

As the capons reach market weight, the 4-H'er should start to plan and prepare for marketing the capons. Many of the capons are used for family dinners. Some 4-H members dress, package and sell their 4-H capons for Thanksgiving and/or Christmas dinners.

The highlight of the 4-H capon project is in late October or early November at the annual 4-H Capon Round-up. The 4-H member exhibits two of his best dressed capons at this Round-up. The capons are judged on the quality of the dressing job, how well they are packaged for customer appeal and also meat qualities of the dressed capons. Merit ribbons are then awarded to all of the entries. In the past few years, the Honesdale Rotary Club has sponsored and supported a 4-H Capon Sale as part of the 4-H Capon Round-up.

A final step in the 4-H capon project is to submit a completed capon project book to the Extension Office. The record book can help the 4-H'er learn about keeping good, accurate records and also about feeding and managing a flock of capons successfully and profitably.

The Wayne County Extension Office is currently accepting orders for one-day-old cockerel chicks to be used as 4-H capon projects. The final day to order chicks is April 22, 1985.

available. Doctor's office, post offices, and other public places can also help reach segments of the rural population who may not be aware of certain social agencies, and the valuable assistance they provide to abuse/neglect victims.

SOURCES

There are a great many groups and organizations that can assist rural citizens in setting up a prevention program, or help to coordinate available social agencies and others in the community that serve victims' needs. The West Virginia Childrens Trust Fund was set up on the state level in 1984. This fund provides local grants to rural communities who need technical assistance.

The West Virginia Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse encourages the formation of additional chapters of its organization. In north-central West Virginia, one can call (1)-623-K-I-D-S for more information; in Southern West Virginia the number is 344-K-I-D-S (5437).

The Child Abuse Hot Line in West Virginia is 1-800-352-6513. Big Brothers/Big Sisters can also be a source of help, as can local Extension Homemakers Clubs.

Contacting the County Extension Office and the Home Demonstration Agent in one's county is an excellent starting point for resource referral, whether to get a group organized, to get help, or to begin compiling a county informational directory.

NUMBER ONE WORLDWIDE

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

There are few things sneakier- or more persistent - than a chilly cat. This, I've decided, is especially true in the case of barn cats, brainwashed as cuddly kittens into a belief that life was meant to be lived, not among feed bags and hay bales, but on braided rugs and living room sofas.

Indeed, we have little need of a thermometer or barometer to determine the status of the weather. All that's necessary is the counting of furry noses hanging around the porch perimeters, or perched just millimeters from entrances to the farmhouse.

A one-cat day is one on which a lone gray and white nose suddenly looms outside the kitchen window, pressing a furry face close to the glass with a silent plea. Part-time housecat, part-time romantic Don Juan of the feline harem, Gray can be counted on to show up wanting inside anytime the temperature drops below 70.

Anything above that, and he'll want in because it's cooler in the house.

At the other extreme is a four-cat day, like those celebrated earlier this week. Four-cat days may be camouflaged in sunshine, but bite with razor-teethed wind that steals the rug off the front porch and deposits it under the pines. Again.

First real sign of a four-cat day is a set of beady eyes buried in an appealing little feminine cat face of tiger gray and black stripes, pleading beseechingly. These eyes appear through the storm door window, half-way up, where the four-legged acrobat clings to the decorative metal crosspiece. Her aerial display will soon halt, even on the worst day March can offer, since the striped belly is growing alarmingly fat and round, and acrobatics will soon be replaced by motherhood.

Two picketers pace the basement porch, one occasionally spying from the top of the woodpile, the other stretching out to soak up sunshine on the picnic table protected by an old stone wall.

Carbon copy of his mother - the storm door hanger - Rambler perhaps figures the wood pile will blend with his colorations. I see him lurking there, regardless.

His partner in crime is Fred, a pussycat in the truest sense of the word, and a lump, nonchalant mop of black fluff. Fighting over the harem, Fred became wounded, and developed a large abscess on his furry neck. Although nicely healed, the hairless spot leaves him somewhat crooked looking. He could care less, and approaches the sneak attack on the house with the same easygoing attitude that marks his general character.

Still, this rag-tag group of individualists form a feline A-team as I head for the house, waiting, watching, suddenly materializing in a well-rehearsed maneuver that would do justice to any military battalion.

At the first movement of the wheelbarrow, they spring into action, surrounding the door, just waiting for it to ease open from the weight of the full load of firewood I pilot inside toward the woodstove.

With lightning speed, the four streak through the opening crack of the door, utterly confident in their learned experience that I can in no way move a loaded wheelbarrow and snag four speeding cats at once.

After retrieving furry bodies from various hiding spots in the house, I play out the last part of the scenario as I return them to the outdoors then go off in search of a sweater or sweatshirt. I know it'll be chilly in the house. It always is on a four-cat day.

Products!

Gro-Mor LIQUID-CAL
(Liquid Calcium)

Gro-Mor LIQUID-SUL
(Thio-Sulfate)

Liquid-Cal can be used with liquid nitrogen which will help maintain your Ph in the top layer of soil when applying liquid nitrogen. Liquid calcium has glocoheptenate which is made from corn by-products. Glocoheptenate helps in breaking down the coarse calcium in your soil.

Liquid-Sul is very important in helping to make protein in your crops. Sulphur in the East is becoming very low in the soil. Many farmers who now are using Liquid-Sul have found higher proteins in many of their crops. Every farmer should be checking his sulphur levels in his soil especially if he is feeding his crops to his cattle.

Delight your family with a salad

If the bright, sunny days and warmer breezes have you itching for spring and hungering for salad, satisfy your taste buds with a hearty corned-beef and potato salad, a fruity jello salad or a crunchy tossed salad.

The salad options are nearly limitless, but whichever you select, make sure you choose your ingredients carefully. You needn't depend solely on iceberg lettuce for a base even though its crispness is unexcelled. Try dark spinach leaves, crunchy, pale spears of Belgian endive, fragile watercress, sharply feathered chicory, or curly endive. But whatever your choice, always select crisp, fresh greens for best results.

Add a variety of meats, vegetables, cheeses and fruits to your greens to create a tasty spring meal. Below are a few recipes to get you started.

CORNEB BEEF-POTATO SALAD

4 cups cubed, cooked potatoes
1 12-ounce can corned beef, cubed
½ cup diced dill pickle
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
¾ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons horseradish
Crisp greens
Cherry tomatoes

In large bowl, toss potatoes, meat, pickles, celery and onion. In covered jar, shake oil, vinegar, salt, garlic powder and pepper. Pour over meat mixture and toss. Cover; refrigerate at least 2 hours. Just before serving, mix sour cream and horseradish. Pour over meat mixture and toss. Season to taste. Serve on crisp greens and garnish with cherry tomatoes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

FROSTED FRUIT SALAD

1 3-ounce package lemon jello
1 3-ounce package orange jello
Juice of 1 lemon
2 cups boiling water
2 cups cold water
2 bananas, diced
1 #2 can crushed pineapples, drained
1 cup miniature marshmallows

Dissolve jellos in boiling water. Add cold water and lemon juice. Chill until partly set. Fold in pineapple, bananas and marshmallows. Pour into a 9x12x3-inch loaf pan. Chill until set, then frost.

Salad Frosting

Combine 2 tablespoons flour and ½ cup sugar. Slowly stir in 1 beaten egg and ½ cup milk. Stir in 1 cup pineapple juice. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until thick. Cool. Fold in 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Spread on jello salad.

VEGETABLE SALAD

1 cucumber, sliced ¼-inch thick
3 carrots, sliced or sticks
½ head cauliflower, separated
½ pound string beans
1 pound mushrooms, sliced

Combine 6 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, ½ cup vegetable oil, 4 tablespoons olive oil, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon dill weed, blend well. Pour over vegetables and marinate in refrigerator up to 2 days.

ITALIAN ANTIPASTO SALAD

¾ pound small shells, cooked and cooled
½-inch chunk of salami cut into small pieces
½-inch chunk of provolone, cut into small pieces
1 to 2 carrots, peeled and sliced into thin discs
1 to 2 stalks celery, diced
1 small can seedless black olives, drained and sliced (you may substitute green olives)
½ teaspoon oregano
1 cup bottled Italian dressing
Optional: sliced zucchini, cauliflowerets, or any diced leftover fresh vegetable.

Toss all ingredients together and let marinate, stirring occasionally, for at least 4 hours and up to 24 hours. Serves approximately 8 people for appetizer. It can be stretched very nicely by adding more shells. Sometimes I use spinach shells and regular shells mixed together to add color.

Nine Leifeste
Colts Neck, N.J.

ITALIAN DRESSING

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup vegetable oil
½ cup white wine vinegar
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 clove garlic, peeled and diced
Mix all ingredients together and serve on Spinach Salad (below).

Kathy Leifeste
Colts Neck, N.J.

SPINACH SALAD

Wash and remove stems from 1 pound fresh spinach. Drain for 15 minutes, scrunching spinach with hands from time to time to remove all sand and water.

Slice up ¼ pound fresh mushrooms. Fry and drain 3 to 4 slices bacon and break into pieces. Mix all together. Warm dressing slightly and pour over salad. You may want to dice a hard boiled egg and mix it in the salad also.

Kathy Leifeste
Colts Neck, N.J.

Your family will love this hearty salad with its slightly nippy dressing.

HIDDEN TREASURE STRAWBERRY SALAD

3 2-ounce packages strawberry gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 10-ounce packages frozen sliced strawberries, partially thawed
1 20-ounce can crushed pineapple (drained)
3 medium bananas, mashed ½ cup chopped nuts
1 package cheesecake mix

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add fruit and nuts. Pour half of gelatin mixture in a 9x13-inch pan. Chill until firm. Store remaining mixture at room temperature.

Prepare cheesecake filling according to package directions. Spoon cheesecake filling over congealed gelatin. Pour remaining gelatin mixture over cheesecake mixture. Chill until firm.

Note: Save or use drained pineapple juice as part of boiling water liquid called for. Save graham cracker crumbs and use in other recipe.

Mrs. Claire Johnson
Damascus, Md.

LETTUCE SALAD

1 small head lettuce
Tear into small pieces and place in large oblong dish. Add the following in layers:
1 cup raw frozen peas
4 medium sliced onions
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers
1 cup salad dressing (spread carefully over top)
2 teaspoons sugar, sprinkled over top
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
8 slices fried and crumbled bacon

Cover tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 24 hours.

FRUIT JELLO SALAD

1 3-ounce package lemon jello
1 cup boiling water
1 cup pineapple juice and water
2 oranges, diced
1 cup pineapple chunks, drained
1 banana, sliced
1 unpeeled apple, diced
½ cup chopped walnuts, optional
Prepare gelatin according to package directions and chill until syrupy. Add fruit. Serves 6.

Mrs. Carl S. Bacon
Felton

IMAGINATION SALAD

¼ head of lettuce, shredded
2 apples, cored, chopped, but not peeled
1 cup walnuts
1 cup raisins
Mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients. Coat with mayonnaise to your taste.

Featured Recipe

This week's feature recipe was the winning lamb recipe in the 1984 Maryland Grand Lamb Cookoff. This year's contest is just getting underway, with entry deadline marked at April 5.

If you have a lamb recipe that you think is hard to beat, make sure to enter this contest. You could win the first prize of $75 and a Maryland lambskin, a second prize of $50, and a gift pack of Maryland lamb, or $30 and a Maryland leg of lamb.

To enter, type or print your recipe on an 8 ½ by 11-inch sheet of paper. Make sure to list all ingredients (no brand names) and give complete directions. Include your name, address, recipe name, and phone number and sent to Maryland Grand Lamb Cookoff; c/o Peggy Howell, 14584 Triadelphia Road; Glenelg, Md. 21737.

Roast Lamb

1 leg of lamb, boned and butterflied

Marinade:

2 cloves garlic, crushed and chopped
1 cup oil
1 cup chopped onions
2 teaspoons rosemary
1 teaspoon basil
2 bay leaves
½ cup olive oil
½ cup red wine vinegar
4 tablespoons dijon mustard
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon ground pepper

Mix ingredients for marinade. Place lamb in marinade, spooning some over meat. Cover and refrigerate overnight, turning twice. Grill over hot coals for 7 minutes per side, basting with marinade. Close grill and roast until done (about 10 minutes for medium). Slice thinly in a diagonal manner and serve.

THE MICRO WAY LANI BLOOMER

Quick and easy breakfast treats

If you like to bake from scratch, baking in quantity and freezing is an easy to to enjoy fresh baked goods on busy workdays or lazy weekends. Your microwave can defrost and warm baked goods and bring back their fresh-baked flavor and aroma in seconds.

Just keep in mind, that baked goods are very light foods, and they warm quickly in the microwave. A minute—or even ten seconds—too long, and petrification sets in! Here's a few tips to avoid such rocky disasters:

— Warm rolls immediately before serving. Reheating several times may make them tough or rubbery (overcooked).

— Reheat breads in napkin lined basket, if basket has no metal.

— Reheat on a rack or paper towel, rather than a plate, to avoid soggy bottoms.

— Room temperature rolls or muffins need only 10-15 each to warm. For frozen rolls or muffins, defrost for 10-15 seconds each; let stand a few minutes, then warm for 10-15 seconds, each, again.

— Sweet rolls and breads will heat more quickly than dinner rolls or plain bread because of the higher sugar content.

— Rolls with filling, raisins, or icing reheat better on medium power (50,5). Double times given above for high. Icing and raisins may become very hot, let stand a few minutes to avoid burns!

— Reheating a coffeecake or loaf of bread will take 45-90 seconds, depending on size and ingredients.

If your schedule doesn't allow you time for baking, or if you hate such activities, you can still enjoy fresh-baked breakfast treats. A can of refrigerator biscuits, your microwave and a few minutes will give you the goodies below. Or let the kids make the treats, they're that easy!

Instant Sticky

Buns

3 tablespoons margarine or butter
1/3 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon water
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup chopped nuts, optional
1 8-ounce can (10 count) refrigerator biscuits

1. Combine all ingredients except biscuits in a 6-cup ring mold (or use a pie or cake pan, or 2 quart round casserole dish with a custard cup set in the middle). Microwave on high for 1 1/2-2 minutes, stirring once, until mixture is hot and bubbly.

2. Cut each biscuit into quarters, and stir pieces into the caramel mixture in the pan. Stir gently to coat each piece with topping. Arrange pieces evenly around ring.

3. Microwave on medium (50,5) for 5-6 minutes, rotating the pan after 2 minutes. The biscuits will look moist, but should be just getting firm, and not doughy, when they are done. (They will cook more quickly in a plastic pan than in a glass dish.) If your oven doesn't have medium power, cook on high for 2 1/2 to 3 minutes.

4. When the biscuits are no longer doughy, invert the pan on a serving plate. Let stand, covered with the pan for 2-3 minutes, then serve immediately. Makes 2-6 servings, depending on appetite, greediness, etc.

Sweet Fruit Rolls

1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons sugar
1 8-ounce can refrigerator biscuits (10 count)
Fruit pie filling or jam
1/4 cup chopped nuts, optional

Glaze:

1 teaspoon margarine or butter
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 teaspoons milk

1/2 cup confectioner's sugar

1. Combine cinnamon and sugar in a small bowl. Separate biscuits and roll each in cinnamon-sugar to coat. Place biscuits in a ring around a 9-10" microsafe pie or cake pan.

2. Press a hole in the center of each biscuit with your thumb (but don't push through the bottom of the biscuit). Fill each hole with a heaping teaspoon jam or pie filling. Sprinkle nuts over top, if desired. Then sprinkle remaining cinnamon-sugar over rolls. Cover with waxed paper.

3. Microwave on medium (50,5) for 6-7 minutes until the top of the rolls spring back when pressed lightly. Rotate dish after 3 minutes if necessary. Let stand while you make the glaze.

4. Glaze: melt the margarine or butter in a 2-cup measure (microwave for 30 seconds on high). Stir in vanilla and one teaspoon milk, then sugar, stirring until smooth. Add remaining milk, if necessary, until thin enough to spread. Spread or drizzle over warm rolls. Makes 3-4 servings.

Note: The times above are for microwaves with 600-700 watts of power. For 500-600 W, add 10 seconds to each minute; for 400-500 W, add 20 seconds to each minute.

Kid's KOrner

China strives to clean up Yangtze River

CHANGSHOU – Deep in China's Sichuan Province, the Yangtze River runs swiftly, crowded in by hulking blue mountains and terraced orange orchards that climb skyward, then vanish in a chilling fog.

Ducks and sampans bob on the rushing water, caught here and there by shafts of sunlight that stab through the swirling clouds. From the bridge of an "East Is Red" river steamer, a passenger takes in the scene, reminiscent of an ancient Chinese landscape painting.

Then the ship rounds a bend, and the town of Changshou comes into view. It is a jumble of ramshackle brick factories and smokestacks, perched high on a stone mountain. In the midst of the factories, a pagoda leans at an angle, a cultural derelict almost obscured by the haze of yellow smoke that envelops the town.

Rank Vapors Arise

Downstream, another factory dumps effluent from a pipe in the mountainside. The waste liquid steams as it meets the cool air, tumbles down the bank, and spreads into the Yangtze, forming great blobs of yellow foam on the current. As far as the eye can see, the foam clings to the Changshou bank of the river.

The Yangtze, 3,900 miles long, is one of the world's mightiest rivers, flowing through the most populous region of the most populous nation on earth. But the river is also one of the world's dirtiest: Its waters serve as highway and sewer for one-third of China.

People use the Yangtze, as they do the Grand Canal and Yellow River, for hauling cargo, dumping trash, brushing teeth, washing clothes, rinsing food and catching fish. Though not as heavily silted as the Yellow, the Yangtze runs thick with sediment, a result of deforestation. It carries more than twice the annual soil runoff of the Mississippi – about the volume of material it took to build the Great Wall.

This same great current is a source of drinking water for millions – and, for a number of others, a final resting place.

"We see a lot of bodies on the water, nine or ten on the usual trip from Chongqing to Yichang," says Xiong Weimin, a steamer captain who has worked on the Yangtze for more than 30 years. "Most of them drown when their boats turn over, or when kids try to swim in big water."

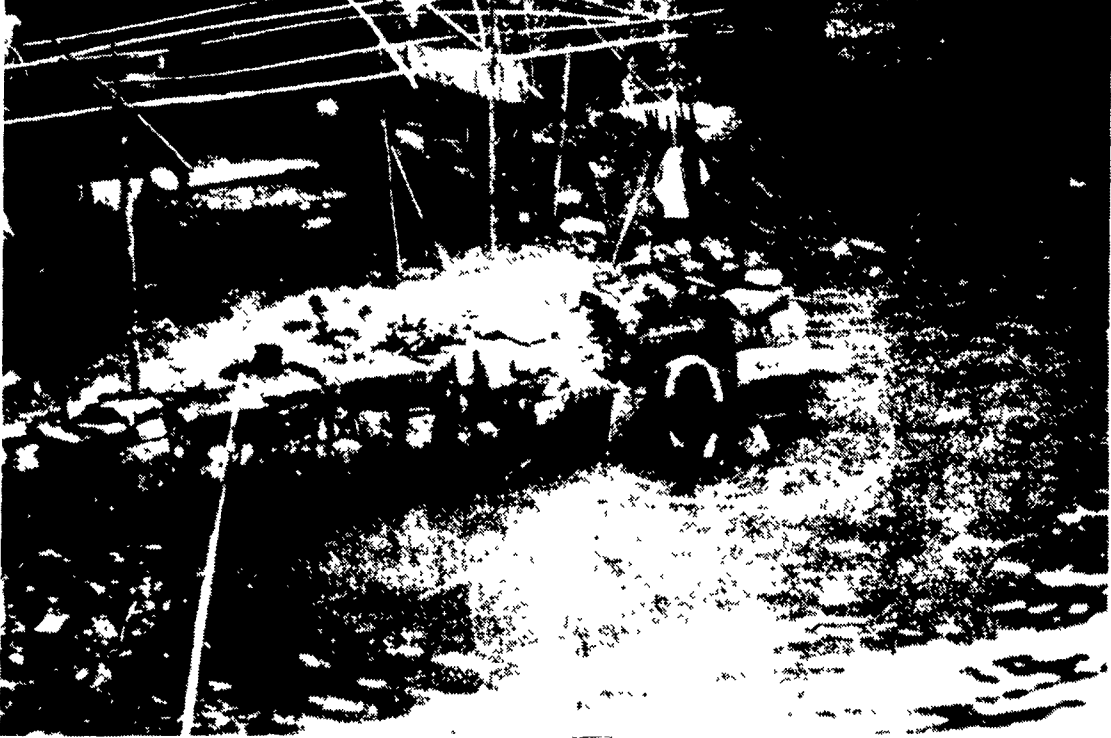

Most drownings occur in summer when heavy rains swell the river, raising its level by as much as 100 feet in some sections. In autumn, when the rains subside and the water is lower, fewer people drown.

China can do little to prevent such deaths. But after years of neglect, the country is mounting a major effort to cleanse the Yangtze. The cleanup focuses on the 964-mile stretch between Chongqing and Shanghai.

Fang Fights Filth

"That part is the most seriously polluted," says Fang Ziyun, who heads the anti-pollution program of the Yangtze River Valley Planning Office in Wuhan. Fang, an engineer, says that most pollution comes from industrial waste water. Some 90 percent of all the industrial discharge flowing into the river is untreated.

To correct that problem, China now requires new factories to include a pollution-control strategy in their construction plans. "We help them meet national standards of design, construction, and Washing her dishes, as she does her food, in the Grand Canal, this Chinese woman has a daily concern with pollution far more intimate than that of domestic water users in the West. Like the Yangtze and Yellow Rivers and other Chinese waterways, the 1,100-mile Grand Canal receives the untreated sewage of tens of millions. Still, many people have no other source of drinking water. The government has plans to clean up the canal.

operation," says Fang. "We also try to control their site selection. If the plans do not include pollution-mitigation measures, we can stop construction."

To monitor pollution from existing sources, Fang's unit takes monthly water samples from 215 permanent stations scattered throughout the vast Yangtze drainage basin. China also uses specially equipped ships for mobile monitoring.

Fang takes a visitor aboard one such vessel, the research ship Evergreen, moored at Wuhan.

Evergreen plies the lower reaches of the Yangtze, measuring contaminants such as human waste, heavy metals, and pesticides.

"We have 20 scientists and 20 crewmen," says Fang as he tours cabins outfitted with spectrometers, fish tanks, and microscopes.

When Fang's scientists identify a polluting industry, his agency imposes a fine and a deadline for cleanup. Then the government returns 60 to 70 percent of the fine to the company to pay for new pollution-control devices. The rest of the fine, Fang says, goes to the municipality in which the industry is located. The municipality uses that money for treatment of sewage, which flows raw into the river from most cities.

And what happens if an industry does not cooperate?

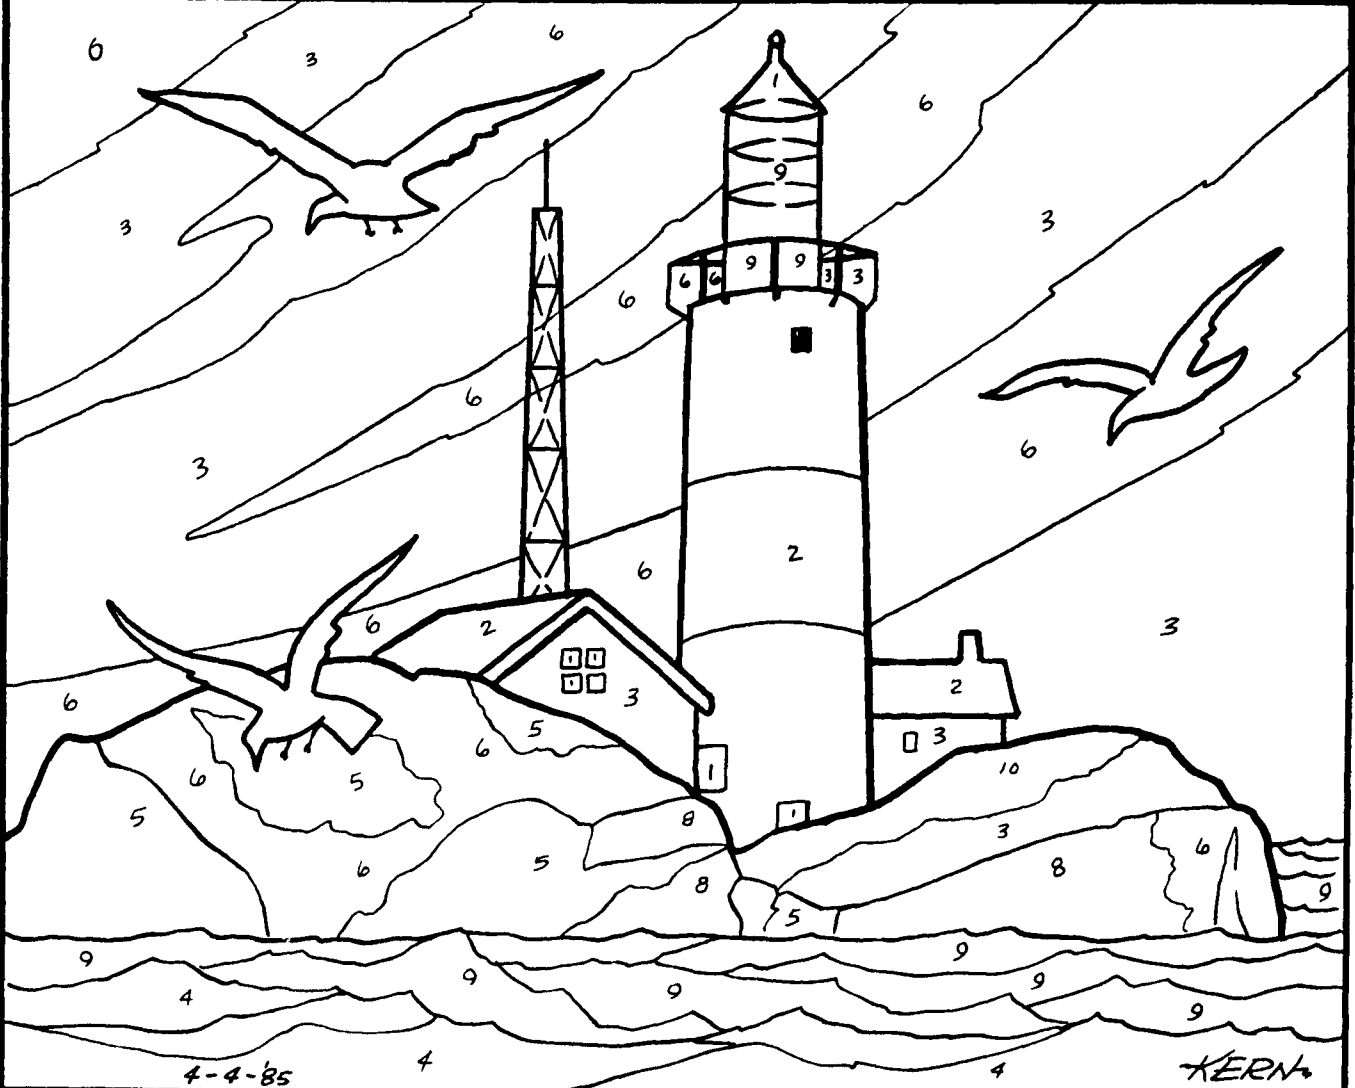

"If any industry pollutes the water seriously, we can stop their operations," says Fang. Asked how many industries had been forced to cease operations, he says his agency closed a factory near the city of Guilin in 1983. Such action is rare. Most industries try to clean up, Fang says.

Cities Some Success

Although China's pollution-control measures have been in practical effect only since the first of this decade, Fang already credits the program with improved water quality around the city of Wuhan and at nearby Lake Tai, which is linked to the Yangtze by the Grand Canal.

The 1,100-mile canal, an ancient engineering feat that links Hangzhou to Beijing, is now severely polluted with industrial runoff and human wastes. One sees red-lettered signs warning people not to wash eating utensils, laundry, or night-soil buckets in the canal. Then one sees people doing all of those things.

Gradually, however, the government is draining and cleaning the most severely polluted sections of the canal in tourist-oriented cities such as Suzhou and Yangzhou. And plans call for a cleanup of the entire canal.

"For the future, we are very optimistic," says Fang. "We have learned that the people who suffer most from pollution are those who work closest to its sources."

Twin Valley FFA celebrates 25th anniversary

ELVERSON — Members of the Twin Valley FFA celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their chapter at their recent parent-member banquet. Over 250 members, parents guests, and former members joined in the festivities. Chapter secretary Denis Shantz and treasurer Chris Coblenz presented certificates of appreciation to Mark Kraybill, local farmer who employees Chris and who has supported the chapter in many other ways; Jane Haque, secretary to the high school guidance staff; and Ruth Ann Shade, editor of the Twin County Shoppers News for the excellent news coverage she has given the chapter. A certificate of appreciation also went to Jeff Stoltzfus, who did his student teaching at Twin Valley in 1984.

Denis Ambler, Eastern Regional vice-president of the Pennsylvania FFA, presented a short inspirational speech on her FFA experiences.

Chapter officers presented honorary chapter degrees to Dr. William Marburger, superintendent of the Twin Valley School District; John Abrams, food services director for the Twin Valley School District; Mildred

Nelson, secretary to Mr. Dombay; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nonnemaker, parents of Keystone degree recipient Joseph Nonnemaker; and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Coblenz, parents of keystone degree recipient Chris Coblenz.

Daryl Schafer, student teacher at Twin Valley, presented foundation awards to members. Foundation awards are for excellence in a given area. The following members received awards: Kevin Stoltzfus for safety; Gail Raser for prepared public speaking and agricultural processing; Rod Stoltzfus for extemporaneous speaking and feed grain production; Kevin Griest for forage production; Butch Harrison for beef production; Fran Bottner for turf and landscape production and home improvement; Sue Burkhart for swine production; Ann Kline for sheep production; Denis Shantz for sheep production; Mary McMullen for outdoor recreation; Chris Coblenz for dairy production, soil and water management, and agricultural electrification; Joe Nonnemaker for agricultural mechanics; Rick Kimball for agricultural sales and services; Mike Reppert for agricultural processing; Bob Bell for diversified livestock production; Kim Brossman for horse production; Joel Welsh for horse production; Rich Geedey for soil and water management

Kevin Stoltzfus and Rich Geedey presented pins to greenhands and chapter farmers for the current school year. Receiving greenhand pins were Sue Burkhart, Bob Bell, Kristin DiMauro, Bob Amey, Joel Welsh, Mike Reppert, Amey Gaydosh, Kim Brossman, Rich Slonaker, Butch Harrison, Tom Morgan, Joel Welsh, Dan Baldwin, Dru Baldwin, Cliff Wiegand, Mike Reiff, Bob Geedey. A greenhand is a first year FFA member.

Chapter farmer degree recipients were John Foreman, Kevin Stoltzfus, Pam Waltman, Denise Shantz, Rick Kimball, John Keenan, Scott Burnett, Fran Bottner, and Ann Kline.

Harvey Smith, area vocational consultant, presented trophies to the four Keystone Degree winners - Joseph Nonnemaker, Glenn Stoltzfus, Rod Stoltzfus, and Chris Coblenz. Beth Morgan and John Foreman then presented a special BOAC award to Debbie Printz, volunteer coordinator at Zerbe Sisters, who has worked with FFA members for the past three years. FFA Advisor Ron Frederick presented trophies and pins to winners of county and area FFA contests.

Chris Coblenz was recognized for winning the Pa. All American Dairy Judging Forum. Rod Stoltzfus received a trophy for having won the livestock judging contests at the Allentown and Reading Fairs. Ann Kline was recognized for winning the Junior Dairy Judging Contest at the Kutztown fair. Bob Bell received a trophy for chapter scholarship.

County project book contest trophies were presented to Chris Coblenz, Denise Shantz, Beth Morgan, Kevin Stoltzfus, Tim McEwen, Rod Stoltzfus, and Scott Burnett. Pins for the state project book contest were presented to Beth Morgan, who won the first place Gold Medal in the home garden category; Chris Coblenz, who received a silver medal for his work experience book; and Rod Stoltzfus, who received a bronze medal for his work experience book.

Past president Glenn Stoltzfus and junior advisor Joe Nonnemaker presented retiring officer plaques to the chapter's three senior officers - President Rod Stoltzfus, Treasurer Chris Coblenz, and Vice-President Gail Raser.

Sue Burkhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burkhart of RD 1 Mohnton, was named the star chapter greenhand. Rob Stoltzfus, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilmer Stoltzfus of RD 2 Elverson, was named the star chapter farmer. Chris Coblenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Coblenz of RD 1 Honey Brook, was named the star chapter agribusinessman.

Camden senior named FFA member of the month

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — Dennis Coyle, 18, Camden County Vocational School senior and FFA member from Gibbsboro, N.J. was recently named March Outstanding FFA Member of the Month. The outstanding FFA member of the month is selected on the basis of leadership skills, participation in FFA activities and on supervised occupational experience.

"I have learned a lot in the FFA. I have learned how to keep records, run meetings, meet people and speak publicly. All of these are necessary in my future which includes running my own business," Dennis said.

He has been involved in vocational agriculture/FFA for three years, has achieved the Chapter Farmer Degree, served as Chapter Jr. Vice-President, and is presently Chapter Vice-President.

Coyle's supervised occupational experience has grown from lawn maintenance of three residential lawns, to a landscape establishment and maintenance partnership of 50 residential lawns. He is responsible for planning, planting, and maintaining shrubs, borders, lawns, and gardens.

Dennis also stays very active in the Camden Tech East FFA Chapter activities. He has participated in the State Weed Identification and Control contest, State Nursery/Landscape contest, and regional flower show. He has also participated in the Chapter Officer Leadership Training Conference and Member Leadership Training Conference. Both were conducted by state FFA officers.

Dennis has also participated in several committees in his local chapter. He was chairperson of the citrus committee and candy fundraiser committee.

In May, Dennis will compete for Outstanding Member of the Year at the State FFA Convention held at Cook College, Rutgers University.

DIRECT INJECTION DIESEL.

Kubota introduces a compact tractor with direct fuel injection. The new L2250 has a 3-cylinder diesel engine with 21 PTO horsepower. Plus it has direct injection for improved starts in cold weather and better fuel economy, too.

Other standard features, not so standard on most tractors of this size, include rear- and mid-mount PTO for maximum versatility when it comes to attaching implements. Surprising, wet disc brakes are standard, too. Power steering is standard on the deluxe model.

Our operator platform is designed for increased comfort, with all the important controls at your fingertips. Not underfoot.

Garden Spot FFAers Awarded At Annual Banquet

The Garden Spot Future Farmers of America are a group of youths "with a purpose." Their hard work and dedication to the field of agriculture was rewarded at the annual parent and member FFA banquet at Lampeter Fire Hall on March 14.

The 56 member organization was faithfully supported by a gathering of 160 proud parents, friends, educators and administrators.

The annual banquet honored the likes of members like Eric Herr, Garden Spot chaplain, who won the Star Greenhand award and Farm Show awards; vice-president Michelle Dean, who appeared to be an overall winner of the night, picking up the County and Area Public Speaking award, a Keystone Degree, overall Farm Show honor, Foundation award and Retiring Officer award (to name a few); and Mike Hall, Star Chapter Farmer winner.

Some of the other award included: Chapter Farmer degrees awarded to eight members; Keystone degrees awarded to Don Welk, Barry Harnish and Michelle Dean; American Farmer degree awarded to Gerald Garber; R.J. Reynolds Tobacco contest winners, Don Welk and Carl Landis; the DeKalb award to Michelle Dean (the first female to win the award in the Garden Spot chapter) for exemplary leadership ability; Hunting contest winner Mark Heiser; Sweetheart Crowning by Karen Shertzer to Mary Lou Rohrer; the Foundation awards (giving by Lampeter, Strasburg ag professor, Stephen Smith) to Michelle Dean, Karen Shertzer, Mike Shertzer, Carl Landis, Don Welk, Scott Thomas and Dave Crimmon.

Michelle was awarded the County and Area Public Speaking honor.

The Retiring Officer awards went to president Don Welk, vice-president Michelle Dean, secretary Karen Shertzer, treasurer Barry Harnish, and student advisor Carl Landis.

In addition, several awards were given to "extenders" of the chapter, whose hard work and determination is greatly recognized and appreciated by the FFA organization and by their parents.

Lamar Miller wins Manheim Young Farmer awards

BY GLENN B. KNIGHT
MANHEIM — "The Lamar Miller Show" opened March 15 at the Hempfield Church of the Brethren for a one night run.

Miller was named Manheim's Outstanding Young Farmer and took production awards in corn silage, ear corn, double cropped soybeans and high 2 year old-milk.

The Secretary of the Manheim Young Farmers Association, Earl Geib, and his wife, Sandy were presented the Community Service Award for their activities beyond farm interests.

While Steve Hershey won two production awards, they went to two different people. Steve Hershey of Steddie Farms was the top RHA milk producer while Steve Hershey of Hershvale Farm 2 won for most improved herd.

Jere Swarr took awards in shelled corn and tobacco, and both trophies went to the same person. Chris Hoover won in poultry and Nelson Wenger took the RHA fat production title.

The farmers, friends, family and guests were reminded of the association's 1984 triumphs. They included both regional and state titles in volleyball and first place in the open class tug-of-war at the Manheim Farm Show.

Marlin and Nancy Becker were named winners of the Region II

State Community Service Award.

Dr. Gilbert Peterson, president of Lancaster Bible College, inspired the group to provide leadership in their chosen profession. He called leadership, "biting off more than you can chew, and chewing it!"

The new officers of the association are: Earl Geib, president; Jere Swarr, vice president; Donald Wenger, treasurer; Lamar Miller, assistant treasurer; Ed Donough, secretary; Dudley Rohrer, assistant treasurer and Barry Geib, public relations. Charles Bechdel Jr. was re-named to the advisor position.

Fern Bordlemay serves Pa. ag products to racetrack personnel

BY MONTIE TAK
Staff Correspondent

GRANTVILLE — When Fern Bordlemay makes breakfast, she uses 1,800 eggs a week.

On an annual basis, those eggs laid end to end would circle Penn National Race Course almost four times. But Bordlemay is not surprised. As manager of the kitchen located on the track's backstretch, she feeds the people who feed, tend, train, ride and own race horses.

"We have some pretty good eaters here," says Bordlemay. "I would say I feel 300 to 350 people every day. Most of the time these people eat two, sometimes three meals a day here."

And those hearty eaters account for their share of good Pennsylvania agricultural products. In addition to the eggs, they consume an average of 120 pounds of bacon and sausage, 90 pounds of ham and 20 pounds of scrapple a week.

Each week, 60 loaves of white bread and 35 loaves of dark bread go into toast and sandwiches. The track kitchen turns out four dozen homemade turnovers and seven to ten dozen doughnuts a day. All the cakes, cookies and pies served at the kitchen are baked there, too.

In addition, kitchen personnel make all the cole slaw, pepper cabbage, baked beans, potato salad, macaroni salad, tapioca, rice and bread pudding. Bordlemay buys a round of beef and a case of chicken each week.

But cooking for a crowd is nothing new for Fern. She was born and raised on a farm in Jonestown where she still lives. "I cooked all my life. There were 12 in our family," she recalls. When her father was hospitalized, Fern's mother went to work as a toolmaker at Bethlehem Steel. All the children older than Fern went out and got jobs. She took over the cooking.

"Then mother hired me out when I was 12 to cook for the summer. My pay was five dollars a week." She adds she wanted to become a hairdresser but her parents couldn't send her to school. Now Fern's daughter, Faye Lausch of R1 Denver, is the hairdresser of the family.

Fern got into the diner business when she married her husband, Paul. She says someone owed them a sizeable sum and gave them a diner on Route 22 in settlement of the debt. "I didn't want it at the time, but I was never sorry," she says. Admittedly a determined person, Fern says she often worked two or three shifts to make a go of the diner.

When Penn National was under construction, Paul, a horse trainer, came to the track to apply for stalls. The then-vice-president of the track asked him if Fern would be interested in running the track kitchen.

She started cooking even before the horsemen arrived to fill the barns, feeding the construction crews. In the 12 years since, her kitchen has been closed only two weeks, when the track itself was closed.

Fern is in every day to open at 5:30 a.m. "I just wonder how many people I have met in 12 years," says Bordlemay. She says she could write a book about her experiences and one especially funny incident centers around baked chicken, the kitchen's traditional Sunday special.

She relates that one Sunday they ran out of chicken. When one of her regulars came in, he was incredulous, "'No baked chicken?' he kept asking, 'But this is Sunday!' I couldn't believe it would affect him that way," Fern remembers.

Prices at the kitchen are reasonable, she points out, because "we do make about everything. Most of the produce is locally grown, especially in the summer when fresh vegetables are available."

The kitchen has 12 employees and during the height of the racing season, Fern employs 20. Cashier Elenore Marinkov, Fern's sister-in-law, has worked there 12 years. Grace Zimmerman, a short order cook, has worked with Fern 24 years. She also makes apple dumplings that have been the downfall of many a local diet.

Much of the track's social life centers around the kitchen. The Fern waits on horseman "Sunshine" Jim Murray.

Bordlemays sponsor Fern's Angels, a softball team that won the Lebanon County championship in 1983. They also sponsor the Horsemen's Kitchen bowling team, league champions in three of the last four years.

The kitchen is the scene of the Christmas candlelight service, horsemen's meetings and social get-togethers. And every Easter Fern dresses up as the Easter bunny for the egg hunt for the 80 children whose parents work at the track.

"This is more than a business," Fern reflects. "You're feeding people, making them happy." She has never let anyone down on their luck go hungry.

"The people think of this as their very own kitchen. This is home to them."

The horses eat their share of ag products too

BY MONTIE TAK
Staff Correspondent

GRANTVILLE — If you visit Penn National Race Course in Grantville to enjoy an evening's horse racing, you may not think of the track as having much in common with farming. Or for that matter, think of the track as an agricultural consumer.

You might notice the food concessions in the grandstand or have dinner in the clubhouse overlooking the finish wire. But there's more to the track than the part racetrackers refer to as "the frontside," with its color, pageantry and excitement.

Behind the scenes is a hard-working on-track population of several hundred grooms, owners, trainers, blacksmiths and vets who tend the approximately 900 horses on the grounds. Because the animals' needs come first, a farmer would feel right at home with the hours the personnel keep.

This is what racetrackers call "the backside." And from long before dawn until the last race is just a memory, agricultural products — large quantities of them — are consumed here.

Veteran horse trainer Floyd Tolle says each of his horses consumes an average of 25 pounds of hay per day plus ten to 12 quarts of feed. Those horses are bedded on about 40 pounds of straw per day.

He notes each horse on the grounds would use approximately the same amount depending on the policies of each trainer. This would average out annually to an on-track consumption of over 8.2 million pounds of hay, 13 million pounds of straw and 3.2 million pounds of feed.

"I like to frequent the local hay auctions such as Green Dragon Sales Company in Ephrata and New Holland Sales," says Tolle. He estimates 90 percent of the hay consumed at the track is purchased locally.

"A big bunch of it. The corn, straw and hay used here is all local. The oats mostly come from Maryland and Minnesota," he said.

Many racetrackers patronize the "Stable Gate Feed Store," owned by Purina dealers and Agway representatives William and Sally McDonald. The store is located across from the security gate at the entrance to the backside. The McDonalds supply specialty feeds and supplements and also farm east of Palmyra where they raise sheep.

"We kind of got into this because my husband is an animal nutritionist with a degree from Penn State," says Mrs. McDonald. She says she sees race track people as consumers and hard workers. "We work six days a week, they work seven. And I don't think anyone uses hay, straw and feed in a more concentrated area than these guys."

She also points out that some horsemen prefer to bed horses on shavings or sawdust instead of straw. "This is a byproduct of the lumber business. Before it was thrown out, now it's sold."

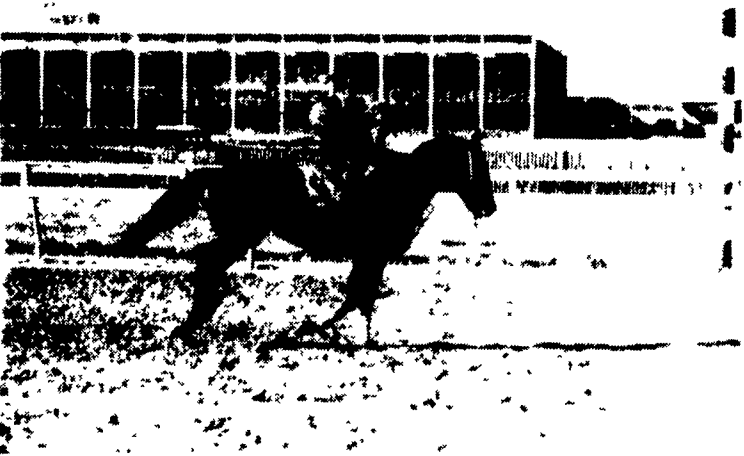

If you look around the McDonald's store, you will see wood chip bedding in bales, salt and various supplements, large bags of dog and cat food, bran from a local mill in Annville, and Agway corn from Manheim.

"The oats are from Maryland and Minnesota," says Mr. McDonald. "But they are hauled in by local firms." He says the western oat, preferred by horsemen, is a heavier oat, averaging 43 to 44 pounds per bushel while local oats run about 37 pounds. "The western oats are triple cleaned. If we could get them locally, we would be glad to carry them."

He continues the tour. "This limestone comes from Millard Quarry in Annville. All this Purina sweet feed comes from Camp Hill and all the Agway comes from Manheim."

Since a number of trainers keep cats in the shedrows and feedrooms, Purina cat chow is a big mover, too. McDonald points out a stack of 20 bags and says it will last a week or ten days. This means Penn National cats consume some 20,000 pounds annually from this one outlet.

And that's not hay.

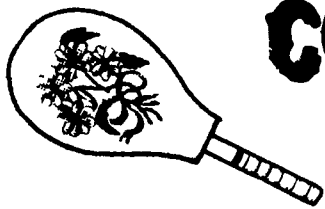

The horses at the track consume a lot of Pennsylvania-grown products.

CRAFT CORNER

Glass engraving

The fascinating craft of glass engraving can now be enjoyed by almost anyone because of newly developed diamond needle engraving tools.

These new, easier-to-use diamond-tipped "pens" enable a beginner, with or without artistic talents, to achieve impressive engravings and incur very little expense. The only initial expense is the purchase of a glass engraving kit and finding a suitable glass surface.

There are two main types of glass, hard and soft. Though both may appear the same to the eye, there is a great difference in the way they engrave and in the amount of energy that you will have to expend in order to complete a project.

Inexpensive glass is usually hard and therefore harder to engrave.

But it is a good idea to practice on an inexpensive flat piece of glass first. Remember when working on a softer piece of glass not to press as hard.

A soft yet inexpensive brand of glass is Pyrex and most households have something made of Pyrex in the kitchen.

WINE GLASS PROJECT

The first step in engraving a wine glass is selecting a suitable print. Monograms, flowers, boats, wildlife scenes that have distinct outlines and make use of shading are ideal.

Cut out and tape the pattern of your choice inside the glass. Position it carefully. Fill the glass with a dark fabric or yarn to enable you to see your work more clearly. Clean and dry the outside surface of the glass.

Engrave only the visible outlines

BY GLENN B. KNIGHT
LEXINGTON — Warwick High School Senior Tina Strauss was presented the DeKalb Award by the Warwick Chapter FFA during their annual banquet, here March 19. Dave Firestone was named Star Chapter Farmer and Brian Byerly received the Star Greenhand title.

Following a welcome by retiring of the pattern with the finest-point diamond tip. Check as you go along that your pattern taped inside the glass has not shifted. Before removing the inside pattern, double check to see that all the outlines have been traced onto the glass. Keep the dark cloth inside the glass while filling in the more detailed engraving lines.

Use your pattern as a guide for shading and detailing your wine glass. Use the special shading point to blend and add highlight areas to your design. The areas where engraving is the heaviest will appear to be facing the light source; areas left untouched will appear to be in shadow.

Finish up your engraving by redrawing the outline with the fine-point engraver. Do not put your wine glass in the dishwasher. Though the design is permanent, the grooves have created stress points that could cause the glass to crack under high water pressure.

Tools, some excellent books and step-by-step courses are available from Eastern Art Glass, P.O. Box 341, Wyckoff, NJ 07841.

high school Assistant Principal Carl Kaufman and dinner by the staff of the Midway Reception Center, State FFA Vice President Tim Pfautz brought greetings from the state association. Pfautz encouraged his audience to spend less time dwelling on the past and dreaming of the future, and more time living in the present.

Proficiency awards were given to the following: Sean Deemer, turf and landscaping; Tim Sweigart, fruit and vegetable; Dan Martin, swine production; Dale Kreider, public speaking; Jamie Adams, diversified livestock; Patty Moore, nursery operations; Rhonda Zahn, horse production and Eric Connelly, sheep production.

In the agricultural areas of Electronics, Sales and Service and Mechanics the winners were Mark Pawling, Alex Smith and Troy Auker. Bruce Shenk took the farm safety certificate and Chris Adcock received the poultry production award.

Three supporters of the Warwick Chapter were given Certificates of Appreciation: Pete McCracken, owner of McCracken Feeds; Roy Brubaker, owner of Brubaker Farm Equipment and Faith Lange, high school art teacher.

John Spangler was recognized for receiving the Keystone Farmer Degree and four Red Rose Degree Farmers were identified. They are; Dave Firestone, Dan Martin, Alex Smith and Spangler. Dan Martin, it was noted, was the Lancaster County Star Agribusinessman.

Lancaster Farm and Home Foundation offers scholarships

LANCASTER — One of the objectives of the Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation is to encourage the higher education of youth of Lancaster County.

To support this objective the Foundation is offering scholarships in agriculture, home economics, and nursing. Depending upon the financial need and ability of applicants, a maximum of sixteen scholarships may be awarded.

Each scholarship award will be in the amount of $1,000 and may be used to help defray tuition, fees, or room and board expenses at any accredited educational institution which offers a course of study in agriculture, home economics, or nursing.

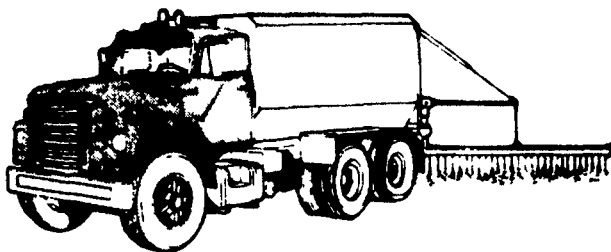

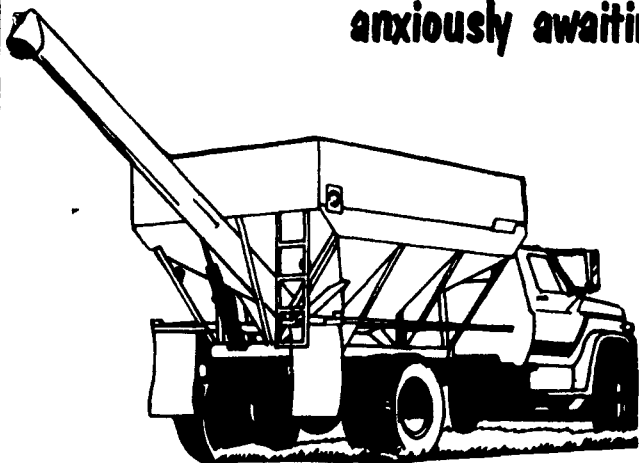

Some of these Farm and Home Foundation Scholarships are earnings from an Irrevocable Trust Fund set up by the late Elmer L. Esbenschade, one of the founders of the Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation. The income from this trust fund will be offered annually in the form of educational scholarships through the Farm and Home Foundation. In addition, funds from the Foundation Treasury are also being used to help finance the scholarship program.

Scholarship applications are available from senior guidance counselors in all school districts in Lancaster County.

Interested youth are urged to contact their senior guidance counselor for details and an application blank. Additional information is also available from Jay Irwin, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601. Application forms must be forwarded by April 16, 1985.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas
Lancaster Extension

Washing Down-Filled Garments

If you have recently invested in a down-filled jacket, vest or coat, you will be glad to know that it can be washed as well as dry cleaned.

When washing a down-filled garment use warm -never hot-water. Special down soaps are available, but aren't necessary.

Whether you wash the garment by hand or on the delicate cycle of your washing machine, submerge it, then squeeze it for several minutes to make sure all the air has been pushed out. Never wring or twist it.

Proper rinsing is very important. Any soap or detergent not rinsed out will cause the down to clump together and will reduce its insulating ability. Lift it out of the tub very carefully.

The best way to dry your down garment is in a dryer. Add two or three clean bath towels to absorb moisture and a clean pair of tennis shoes to break up the clumps of down as the dryer drum rotates.

Be sure there is no moisture left because down can mildew if it stays damp too long.

You can also dry a down garment outdoors on a warm, dry day. Drape it over several drying lines to evenly distribute the weight. Check from time to time and fluff the matter clumps with your fingers. Total drying may take several days.

Freezing Eggs

If you have more eggs on hand than you plan to use in the next four or five weeks, freezing is a good way to store your surplus. Eggs cannot be frozen in their shells. Yolks and whites use different freezing techniques. Use the following directions for best results when freezing eggs.

Whole Eggs-Break desired number of eggs into a bowl. Mix to blend whites and yolks, but avoid incorporating air. Package, allowing 1/2-inch headspace, label as to number of eggs, date and freeze.

Egg Whites-Pour separated whites into freezer containers, seal tightly, label with number of egg whites, date and freeze. To make the process even easier, freeze each white in an ice cube tray and then transfer to a freezer container.

Egg Yolks-Separate yolks and whites. Measure yolks. For every cup of yolks, and 1/2 to 1 tablespoon light corn syrup or 1/2 to 1 tablespoon sugar or 1 teaspoon salt. Mix to blend (avoid incorporating air). Place in freezer container. Allow 1/2-inch headspace. Seal, and freeze promptly. Egg yolks do not freeze as well as egg whites and whole eggs. The approximate storage time for holding eggs at 0°F. is 6-12 months.

Table of Measurements for eggs: 3 tablespoons thawed frozen egg = 1 whole egg; 2 tablespoons thawed egg white = 1 egg white; 1 1/3 tablespoons thawed frozen egg yolk = 1 egg yolk.

Frozen eggs can be thawed overnight in the refrigerator or under cold running water. Once thawed, whites beat to a better volume if allowed to sit at room temperature for about 30 minutes. Use these frozen eggs just as you would use fresh eggs.

Md. Lamb Cook-off entry deadline nears

GLENELG, Md. — The Maryland Sheep Breeders Association is accepting entries for its Second Annual Grand Lamb Cook-Off.

The Cook-Off is scheduled for May 4 at the Howard County Fairgrounds during the 12th Annual Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival.

Lancaster Society 3

Lancaster Society 3 was entertained by members of the Program Committee at the Zion U.C.C. in Ephrata.

Jean Smoker, chairman of the social service committee, reported that the guests at Parkside Manor, Reamstown, were entertained at a Bingo Party on March 7th.

On April 9th the members will sew at the Ephrata Community Hospital from noon to 3 p.m.

Contributions were made to the Ephrata Recreation Center and the Rape Aid Prevention. Group swimming for the children who attend the June Smith Learning Center will be sponsored for a period of six weeks.

The members voted to support MADD as a county project.

Entertainment was provided by a display of baby pictures of members and of special events observed by the Society during the years.

The next meeting will be on April 20 at the Zion U.C.C. Members of Society 33 and the county officers will be guests at the luncheon.

Lancaster Society 7

Lancaster Society 7 met Saturday, March 9 at 12:30 p.m. for a luncheon at Leacock Presbyterian Church in Paradise.

County vice-president Mrs. Charles Shellenberger attended the meeting and gave a list of the county projects for the group to work on.

The group will be entertained by Society 12 at the Lions Club

Building in Millersville on March 23 at noon.

Earl Houck, a local wood carver, gave an interesting program on his carvings.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Thelma Landis, Gap, on April 13 at 2 p.m. The program will be the Poultry Queen and the Dairy Princess.

Lancaster Society 19

Society 19 met at the rothy Graybill on March 9. Mrs. Roy Eaby spoke on present day knowledge of mental illness.

Lancaster County Farm Women will be traveling to Hagerstown, Md. for their Spring Rally on May 22 and to Founders Hall on May 26.

Lancaster Society 25

Lancaster Society 25 met on March 9 at the home of Lois Hess, Lancaster. Miriam Byers led devotions. Two members were honored for perfect attendance.

Cancer pads were made by members and delivered to the Cancer Society.

The program was a safety presentation on smoke alarms and a slide presentation of services offered by the Office of Aging.

Berks Society 5

Berks Society 5 held their 20th Anniversary Celebration on March 12 at the Conrad Weiser High School in Robesonia.

The program opened with entertainment by two Lebanon Valley College students, vocalist Carol Neiman and pianist Bret Hershey. President Carolyn Feeg honored the six remaining charter members with a rose. They are: Carolyn Feeg, Anna Moyer, Dorothy Moyer, Sylvia Scharff, Marlene Sattazahn, and Betty Wessner.

Also honored with a rose were: Ellen Snyder, Pauline Hartman, Martha Kalhr, and Martha Kurtz.

Mary Darkes then read a poem followed by the silly skit "If I Were Not a Farm Woman" presented by group members.

The next meeting will be on April 2 and will feature a tour of Gordon Layser's home in Myerstown at 7:30 p.m. A business meeting will follow at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Grace Carvell, Richland. Members are asked to decorate an Easter egg for roll call.

Berks Society 8

The February meeting of Berks Society 8 was held at the home of Shirley Stricker.

Chester Society 3

Chester Society 3 held their March meeting at the home of Marjorie Halman, with Jean Yarnell as co-hostess.

Thelma Blevins read the minutes. Roll call was a package of flower seeds and later, everyone selected a package to take home.

The group enjoyed the craft of pie pan art. Thirteen members attended the meeting.

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon Society 20 met in the home of Pat Ziegler, Fredericksburg, on March 11.

The fourteen members present answered the question "Which accident do you feel happens most on the farm?" for roll call.

George Moyer, an area farmer, showed slides and gave a presentation about accidents on the farm and how farmers learn to adapt to their work after accidentally losing a limb.

Carol Hershey and Betty Weaver were inducted into the society.

The Spring Rally will be hosted by societies from Franklin County, Pa., in Hagerstown, Md. on May 22. Deadline for tickets is May 1. A bus from Lebanon County will be provided. Deadline for bus tickets is April 1.

Any farm woman interested in joining the Farm Women's Chorus is welcome to join.

Vice-president Vera Fahnestock reported on the 66th Annual State Convention held in January.

A $50 donation will be given to the county project.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Charlene Ziegler in April.

York Society 12

York Society 12 held their February meeting at the home of Romaine Painter. Romaine Gunnett is a new member in the group.

Two state police attended the meeting and presented a program on "Senior Power."

The society voted to contribute $25 to the York Rescue Mission.

Members are planning for their 33rd anniversary celebration that will be held April 23 at Willow Valley Restaurant in Lancaster County.

Buses have been rented for a trip to the Spring Rally on May 22 at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown, Md.

Thursday, March 28

Lancaster Society 28 meets for a program at the Olde Mill House Shoppe.

Saturday, March 30

CENTURY

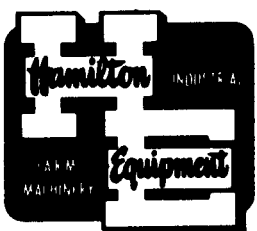

Century Engineering Division
Westeel Incorporated
3800 44th Avenue S.W.
Cedar Rapids, IA 52401-2931

One look at a Century sprayer will show you that nobody pays as much attention to workmanship as Century does. Check out the quality welds, the heavy gauge steel, the all-nylon fittings and the baked-on finish. Once you've seen how well Century sprayers are built, you'll know how long they'll last.

The Spray King™ is a precision engineered, field proven applicator. State-of-the-art features assure accuracy, dependability and ease of operation.

Standard features include polyurethane tanks, no-drip nozzles that prevent waste, heavy duty 1 1/2" square boom tubing with shock absorbers for even application and boom widths of up to 50 feet.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our first stop early in the morning, on our way to Hotel Kamehameha (try saying that) was at an open air fish market. Here we saw yellow dolphins and red snappers—a bright pink-red fish. Due to a small catch they brought up to five dollars a pound, but we were told that in April they'd probably bring only fifty cents a pound. The largest marlin brought in by one man here in Hawaii weighed 1,700 pound.

Some people in Hawaii make their living growing crayfish, catfish or frogs. Cultured pearls are also raised and seaweed is grown as a crop and used in salads or steamed.

The next stop was 420-foot Akaka Falls. The walk through the rain forest to see the falls was beautiful. I took over 100 pictures and some of my best ones were taken here.

A big buffet luncheon was served at the 250,000-acre Parker Ranch. We were informed that a 19-year-old boy from New England started the ranch with a two-acre grant from an Hawaiian King in 1847. His wife was later given 640 acres of land. Here they sell 10 million pounds of beef annually or one-third of the total used in the islands. They grow kikuu grass which has the unusual ability to grow up posts and cover objects. It is 75 percent water.

On the Kohala Ranch they had beef and sheep and here they favored the "Japanese quarter horse" to do their work—Hondas. An unusual feature of this ranch was the 200 wind turbines used to produce electricity which is sold to a local company. Their average wind is 26 m.p.h. and the towers were 120 feet tall.

This island has white, green and black sand beaches. Since it was pouring rain, I stayed on the bus and one of the men brought me a tiny sample of the black sand which now sits on top of my refrigerator. They sell a lot of pink, gold and black coral jewelry.

When we reached our next hotel, we showered and changed our clothes for an evening of restaurant hunting and shopping. Ice cream cones cost one dollar here and $1.75 in Los Angeles. So, I decided to do without as I'd already bought earrings for Cindy and a big bag of seashells. Next week I'll conclude the Hawaiian vacation articles.

The All New SUPER BOWL E-80
Built To Last

- Reinforced Precast Concrete
- No More Rust
- No More Corrosion

A full 1" of high density styrofoam insulation coated with a reflective foil gives you the most efficient use of energy needed. A high capacity 3/4" valve gives quick recovery. This plastic valve resists corrosion and is very easily serviced without the use of tools. The adjustable thermostat and element are located beneath the bowl. This effectively reduces the possibility of "stray voltage." This method of "heating through the bowl" is especially well adapted to precast concrete. Concrete itself is a good conductor of heat and at the same time is a poor conductor of electricity. Our concrete bowl, because of its mass will retain heat for a longer period of time. This effectively reduces the frequency of use of the heating element and thermostat, and maintains a very uniform water temperature.

FEED EFFICIENCY

We make it work for us...

Finishing our feedlot cattle on high price corn makes our proven feed efficient herd sires more valuable than ever Cow Herd • Bull Test • Feedlot • Carcass At Devereux Soleil, we demand quality and efficiency in every phase of production We look at the total performance picture

...our proven bulls will make it work for you.

Bulls Tested
Annually for Feed Efficiency. Feed electronically computed

Consider the costs of feeding cattle, then consider the value of feed efficiency through proven genetics. It costs less to feed a good one.

We will have an open house at the farm on March 30, 1985. Test bulls will be on display and pre-priced with complete test results available. Of the 60 bulls on display, 19 bulls are owned by guest consignors.

E-Z DUMPER®

SAVE TIME....LABOR....MONEY

The E-Z DUMPER is hydraulically operated and is powered by the 12 volt truck battery. The safe removable key switch is standard equipment. The dump angle of 47° assures quick and clean unloading. The removable tailgate can be opened from the top or bottom for easy flow control.

Designed for do-it-yourself installation - the E-Z DUMPER comes ready to install, including hydraulic fluid. Most pickup trucks require no alterations. Just slide the E-Z DUMPER and secure with clamps using existing bolts and holes. Installation is fast and simple. Dump over 4,000 lb. of firewood, gravel, topsoil, coal, corn, mulch, etc. in seconds.

Reason for selling, lack of help and health reasons.

The United States of America acting through the Farmers Home Administration offers for sale a 151 acre farm in Yates County New York. The farm is located on Route 14 12 miles south of Geneva and 14 miles north of Watkins Glen. Dwellings consist of a 1500 square foot 2 story dwelling with a nice kitchen and a 12x60 mobile home. Service buildings consist of a 32x100 wood frame gambel roof barn and 30x100 and 40x60 pole barns. The barns have been remodeled for hogs. A 16x60 silo was located on the property. The farm has 135 tillable acres and 12 acres of woods and brush. The remaining acreage comprises the farmstead. The property will be open for inspection on March 26 1985 from 1 00 p.m. to 3 00 p.m. Bid forms are available at the Farmers Home Administration Office Riedman Building 100 102 Main St Penn Yan New York and will be available at the open house

Bids will be accepted until 1 00 p.m. on March 29 1985 and will be opened at 1 30 p.m. on March 29 1985 Bid deposits all bids must be accompanied by certified check cashier's check postal money order or bank money order payable to the Treasurer of the United States for at least 10% of the total bid. The Government reserves the right to reject any or all bids. The property will be sold without regard to race color religion sex, age national origin and marital status. Terms:
Cash or Farmers Home Administration terms of 10% down payment with the balance for 25 years at 10 75% interest. Preference will be given to cash bids and a 5% discount will be allowed on all cash bids. The 5% discount will be deducted by the FmHA from the amount stated on the bid form submitted.

BERKS COUNTY, PA HISTORIC GENTLEMAN'S ESTATE

Beautiful 167 acre farm, ideal for horses.
Farm features a 5 bedroom center hall stone colonial home and a large stone bank barn, both in excellent condition.
House and barn are situated 1500 feet off of Black Top Road with the Blue Mountain in the background. Excellent hunting and trout stream on farm. This farm was the site of the 1754 Indian raid on the Frederick Moyer family. We have a complete documented historical account of this famous Indian attack.

GONE WITH THE WIND?

When leaves crumble and blow away, you're out protein and money.

Beacon Hay Pre-Serv can put an end to leaf shatter. Dryness can cause nutrients to blow away, disappear in the fields or on the wagon. That not only robs cows of the protein they need, it means you have to purchase more protein for your dairy ration.

With economical, easy-to-apply Hay Pre-Serv, you can cut at up to 25% moisture, and get less leaf shatter, more palatable hay, and 10% more of it! You can bale earlier in the day or later in the evening, and even on cloudy days when the hay is well above 18% moisture.

So start using Beacon Hay Pre-Serv and put an end to nutrients and proteins that are gone with the wind. Start saving today... see your Beacon Advisor or Beacon dealer.

ROBBED AGAIN?

Reduce shrinkage and energy loss with Beacon Silage Pre-Serv.*

Beacon Pre-Serv has a consistent formula of organic acids — natural aids to silage conversion — that encourage bacteria already present in the silage to produce excellent low heat fermentation of forages, so you get more hay crop silage for feeding.

University tests of Pre-Serv treated silage stored in a bunker silo achieve: 8.64% more dry matter, 9.3% more energy, and 6.3% more protein.

So don't be robbed of digestible nutrients — be rewarded with more milk from your cows! Use highly effective Beacon Pre-Serv... liquid or dry. It's another way to Bank on Beacon.

THE LANDSMAN

by Krause

An Implement That Can Cut Time And Labor Costs
By 50%

Non-Folding Models - 12 ft. to 15 ft.

Folding Flex Wing Models - 18 ft. to 36 ft.

Preparing a seedbed used to take a lot of time, a lot of fuel, and a lot of money.

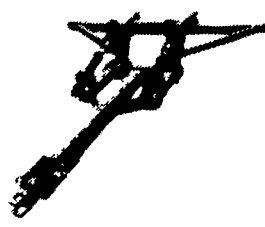

But now there's a smarter way to get the job done — with a Krause Landsman. It's a unique tillage implement that discs, incorporates chemicals (either deep or shallow), cultivates, and finishes all at once — to prepare your seedbeds with just one pass.

Built with heavy-duty features like these:

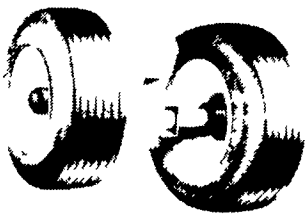

Choice of two cultivator shanks, both offering 25" of clearance under frame... Spring-cushioned shanks have rear-mounted shock and come with 10" sweeps. Heavy-duty

"K-Tine™" shanks feature a high point load to keep sweeps level and still provide aggressive mixing action.

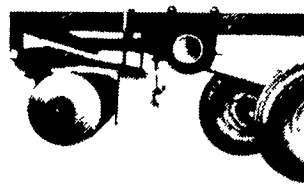

Massive hitch is an extra-heavy design, proven on Krause disc harrows. It is spring-cushioned to reduce frame stress on uneven ground — a feature most competitors don't offer. Built from heavy 4"x6" steel tubing.

Walking tandem wheels flex over obstacles individually and follow contour of the land for uniform working depth.

Staggered only 18" so you can make tight turns without harmful side loading. Regrease-able bearings.

Wide incorporation area is provided in the 42" space between disc gang and front row of field cultivator shanks. Lots of room for mounting herbicide equipment. Flexible rubber spray shields are optional for high-speed application.

Pork imports must meet USDA protein standards

WASHINGTON — Imported cured pork products must comply with the requirements for minimum protein levels imposed on domestically produced cured pork, under a U.S. Department of Agriculture rule that takes effect April 15. The rule for domestic products becomes effective the same day.

“The rule will benefit American consumers and protect U.S. businesses by ensuring that imported cured pork products marketed in this country meet the same standards required of all domestic cured pork products,” said Donald Houston, administrator of USDA’s Food Safety and Inspection Service.

USDA has found that measuring protein in finished cured pork products instead of estimating the amount of curing solution used in processing—the current regulatory procedure—provides a more accurate basis for determining compliance with the federal standards that assure wholesome, accurately labeled products.

A curing solution consisting of a mixture of water, salt and nitrite is added to pork to help preserve it and to impart the traditional flavor and color.

“Under the import rule, USDA inspectors will test random samples of imported cured pork at U.S. ports of entry,” Houston said. “If the samples show that the protein content of imported product falls below the required standards, regulatory action will be taken.”

Under such action, USDA would hold and test cured pork products from specific processing plants, or all such products from a specific country, until the foreign processing procedures ensure that subsequent products comply with U.S. regulations.

USDA received 16 comments when the rule was under consideration: seven fully supported the proposal; others suggested alternatives to USDA’s procedures for checking imported product.

USDA requires that imported meat and poultry be processed under inspection programs equal to the U.S. program. Imported products are re-inspected at ports of entry to further ensure compliance with USDA requirements.

FCIC to end direct role in crop insurance?

WASHINGTON — The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has announced that it is considering the feasibility of providing crop insurance solely through commercial reinsured companies.

A notice of pre-rulemaking, which is scheduled to appear in the Federal Register tomorrow, marks the beginning of a 30-day comment period. A final decision will not be made until at least June 15th, 1985.

Currently, all Federal crop insurance is marketed through two delivery channels: Master Marketers, which are associations of agents which sell policies on federal paper; and reinsured companies, which are conventional multi-line companies that sell policies identical to the federal policies. FCIC, then, reinsures the commercial companies against extraordinary underwriting losses.

Under the proposal being considered, all future policies would be sold through reinsured companies, and current policies on federal paper would be transferred to commercial reinsured companies.

The earliest this proposal could be implemented is October 1, 1985.

"This action is being considered solely to make more efficient use of taxpayer dollars," said FCIC's Manager, Merritt W. Sprague. "Since 1981, business written by reinsured companies has gone up nearly 3,000 percent, while federal paper has declined steadily. Reinsured companies could have as much as 80 percent of the total book of insurance business by the end of this crop year, according to our best estimates.

N.J. pesticide applicator test scheduled

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — A pesticide applicator training program and the core test are scheduled for Wednesday, March 27, from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. at Hunterdon's Extension Center, Rt. 31, north Flemington. Pre-register by calling the Cooperative Extension office, 788-1338 (201).

A brief review of the core training manual will be conducted by agricultural agents in Somerset and Hunterdon Counties. This will be followed by the core test administered by the Department of Environmental Protection.

The core test is the first step in achieving certification as pesticide applicator, a requirement for commercial applicators and private applicators using restricted pesticides.

Farm management workshops set

UNIVERSITY PARK — For almost 4,800 Pennsylvania farmers, the 1985 fight for survival will be waged in the columns of an accounting ledger.

"Many farms are in trouble because one or two parts of the total farm operations are unprofitable, and these cause a financial drain on the parts of the farm that are making money," says Larry C. Jenkins, associate professor of agricultural economics extension at The Pennsylvania State University.

To help farmers across the state, Penn State's Farm Management Extension is offering three two-day workshops on financial analysis and budgeting. One was held this week in Wyoming County, and another is scheduled next week in Meadville.

"We're going to teach the producers how to identify the unprofitable parts in order to either make them pay or eliminate them," Dr. Jenkins says.

The workshops are free and involve 10 hours of classroom instruction. Scheduled topics include financial requirements for successful farming in the 1980's, farm record systems and their role in financial management and the development and use of budgets as decision-making aids.

Instruction on developing balance sheets and cash flow projections will also be included. One of the workshop sessions will be held Wednesday and Thursday at the Meadville Holiday Inn, west of Meadville on Route 322. Contact Blain Schlosser or Joseph Beard, Crawford County Extension Service, (814) 336-1151.

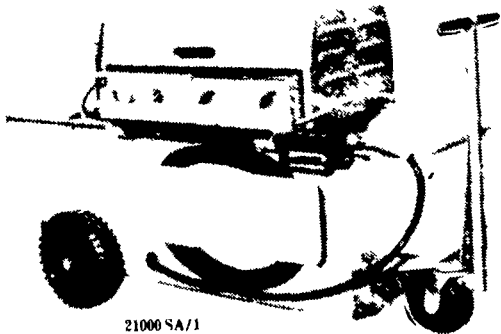

Farmers who are unable to attend the workshops can order an eight-part, learn-at-home series prepared by Dr. Jenkins and his colleagues.

Farmers interested in receiving this series should send their name and address to Farm Management Extension, 202 Armsby Building, University Park, Pa. 16802, or call telephone (814) 865-7656 or their local county extension office.

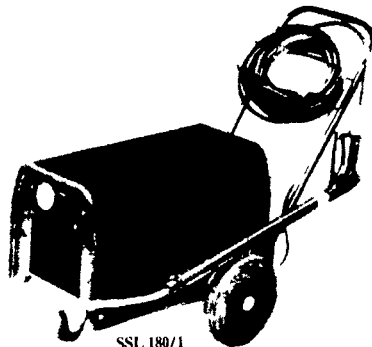

Both the workshops and the learn-at-home series are free

Manure — a cost-efficient fertilizing alternative

Many farmers have opportunities to reduce variable costs in their cropping programs by using manure instead of commercial fertilizer.

"Three tons of cleanout poultry manure can supply enough nitrogen for 125 bushels of dry land corn on poor soil," says Ross Harris, University of Delaware extension specialist in environmental quality. "That means cutting direct fertilizer costs by over $40 an acre. For higher yielding soils, the savings may be as high as $60 an acre."

According to Harris, the cost of spreading manure runs about $10 an acre. This still leaves a net saving of $30 to $50. "Manure does require a little more management," he says, "but the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages in many situations."

Manure also increased soil organic matter, which in turn improves soil moisture-holding capacity—an extremely important consideration on poor soils. It also provides many micronutrients needed in crop production.

Should farmers buy manure? And if they do, how much should they pay?

"Generally," says Harris, "it's cheaper to buy or barter manure than to buy commercial fertilizer. Look around. Perhaps you can provide a product or service such as firewood, a calf, or baling in exchange for manure."

If buying is an option, carefully consider the price. Include the cost of hauling and spreading when figuring the total cost of the manure.

"Proper manure use may require a little better management," the specialist says. "But there's no question that manure—particularly poultry manure—can be a cost effective replacement for commercial fertilizer without risking realistic yield goals."

For further information on good manure management, contact Harris at 736-1448 or call the county extension office in Newark, Dover or Georgetown.

N.J. dairymen earn DHIA honors

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, March 23, 1985-C5

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — A number of dairymen were recognized recently for dairy production at the Central Jersey DHIA annual meeting. Awards were presented to owners of high-producing herds, those showing most improvement, and herds producing high quality milk.

Howard Sutton had the top producing herd in the Central Jersey DHIA. His 33 registered Holsteins produced an average of 19,947 lbs. milk and 750 lbs. butterfat in 1984. The herd, known as Windy Crest Holsteins, is located on the family farm in Tewksbury Township.

This is the highest production level ever recorded in the Central Jersey area. The Sutton herd has been consistently high herd for many years. Linden Farm Inc., owned by the Douglass' family, Union Township was second high this year with an average of 18,119 lbs. milk and 684 lbs. butterfat on 95 Holstein cows.

Third high herd was that of the New Jersey Experiment Station (Rutgers). The 33 Holsteins averaged 18,327 lbs. milk and 673 lbs. butterfat.

Next two herds in line were George Kerr, Pennington, with 18,250 lbs. milk and 672 lbs. fat, and Floyd Schwab, East Amwell, with 17,553 lbs. milk and 668 lbs. butterfat.

Herds recognized for highest increases in milk level were: 1 year, the Jones Farm, Department of Correction, West Trenton; 3 years, Robert Holsten, Monmouth Junction; 5 years, N. J. Experiment Station, New Brunswick.

There were five cows recognized as 7,000 lb. butterfat producers. Top of the list was Andfar Highmark Melody, owned by Backacres Farm, Wilham Teets, Clinton Township. She has so far to her credit 196,931 lbs. milk and 7,573 lbs. fat. She is approaching 14 years of age.

A close second was Hazel, owned by Four Oaks Farm, North Branch. She has 7,542 lbs. fat and 180,643 lbs. milk.

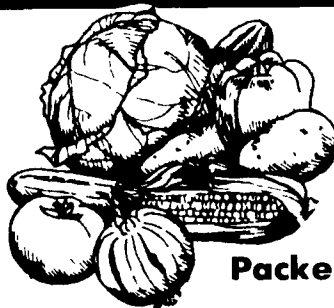

Other 7,000 lb. achievers were owned by E. Lester Sutton & Sons, Howard Sutton and Abe & Fred Van Doren.

High quality milk, low somatic cell count milk, recognition went to William Freiss, Lebanon Township; George Kerr; and the N. J.

Experiment Station.

Elected to the Board of Directors of the local DHIA were: Robert Puskas, Somerset; John R. Everett, Somerville; and Howard J. Sutton.

Yetter FERTILIZER COULTER

Versatile Fertilizer Placement

The new Yetter Fertilizer Coulter lets you put fertilizer right down beneath the trash and place it accurately alongside the seed bed at the depth you prefer for maximum utilization. You'll also like the way Yetter's new coulter cuts a clean, wedge-shaped slot and doesn't disturb the soil like conventional double disc openers. Unlike many units, the Yetter coulter is fully adjustable and you can use it just as efficiently for no-till, mini-till and conventional tillage. The versatile bracket makes mounting on your planter quick and easy. Don't wait... see your Yetter dealer today or phone us direct. Yetter Manufacturing Co., Colchester, IL 62326-0358. Toll free 800/447-5777. In Illinois 309/776-4111 collect.

WE RECOMMEND COUNTER. FOR THE BROADEST-SPECTRUM CONTROL YOU CAN GET.

When you plant corn for a living, you can't afford to take chances with your crop. Growers around here know they can come to us for COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide. COUNTER delivers the broadest-spectrum control available. COUNTER protects your crop with outstanding control of rootworms, nematodes, seed corn maggot, seed corn beetles, wireworms, symphylans, white grubs, billbugs and flea beetles. And COUNTER delivers cutworm suppression, too. All at one low rate.

Best for Conservation Tillage

If you practice conservation tillage, COUNTER fits your operation. You can apply it banded or in the seed furrow, where it can't blow away or get hung up in crop residues. COUNTER is seed safe, even applied in-furrow. And COUNTER controls on contact and systemically to protect your young crop and get it off to a fast, healthy stand.

Best for First-Year Corn

Rootworms may not be a major problem in your first-year corn, but there's a complex of other pests that attack your crop and can substantially reduce plant vigor, stands and yields. Many farmers around this part of the country are reporting much better stand counts and yields after using COUNTER insecticide on first-year corn.

So if you plant corn for a living, stop by and see us for the best crop protection you can get. Come by for all the facts. And see why we recommend COUNTER for the broadest-spectrum control you can get.

Always read and follow label directions.

Labor-saving, cost-saving alternatives from Unverferth-McCurdy

Available For Spring Delivery At Binkley & Hurst Bros.

Grain Boxes For convenient transport and fast unloading of free-flowing materials, UM grain boxes feature seamless, sloping sides and dumping doors with easily adjusting flow control. Many sizes available.

Grain Body Augers Hydraulic augers for grain transport beds allow grain, feed, seed and fertilizer to be handled in bulk, which is much less expensive than bags and eliminates tiresome hand operations. The savings in costs is often enough to pay for the auger in a year.

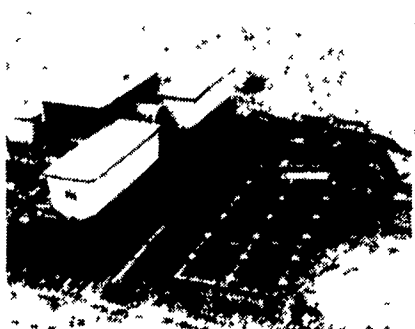

Grain Box Augers To speed handling of grain, feed, seed and fertilizer, hydraulic grain box augers make it easy to dispatch materials. The need for bags and shovels is eliminated.

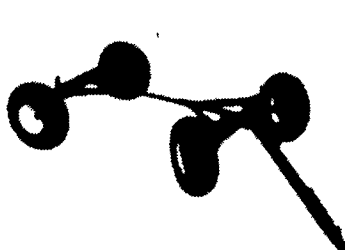

Rolling Harrow™ soil conditioner With tandem rollers of spiral blades, the Rolling Harrow soil conditioner provides excellent secondary preparation of seedbeds. The unit hitches to any tillage tool to give secondary tillage in a single pass.

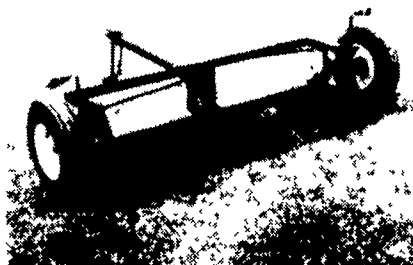

Custom wheels and rims Unverferth makes wheels and rims to customer specifications for a variety of industrial or agricultural vehicles, and in a variety of sizes.

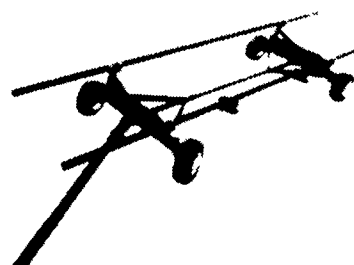

Culti-planter™ Combining S-tines and Rolling Harrow conditioner, Culti-planter permits secondary seedbed preparation and planting in a single pass. It may be combined with a corn planter or grain drill.

Running Gears Available in models supporting 8, 10, 12, 15 and 18-ton loads, UM running gears with precisely aligned axles trail straight and smooth after years of use under capacity loads.

Towmobile™ The Towmobile™ tractor and implement transporter enables one person with a truck to transport farm machinery safely and easily. It can move 2WD tractors with up to two attached implements, and can also move combines.

Header Transport A special running gear with adjustable chassis, the UM header transport makes storing and transporting combine headers convenient. Fully adjustable to fit most popular corn heads and grain platforms.

KNIGHT... The Last Spreader
You Will Need To Buy For Many Years*BUY HIGH QUALITY WITH A*SPECIAL DISCOUNT!*"410"*MANURE SPREADER

You can depend on a Knight
Since 1945

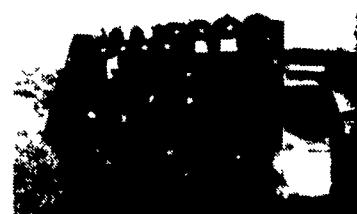

Dairymen and cattlemen alike have found the increased capacity and the maneuverability of the #410 spreader advantageous to their operations

The #410 offers the low profile of the model #350 yet carries a larger load — 20'x longer and 2 deeper 4 x 6 hardwood top rails are standard Available with 8 bolt 20" tandem wheels or the #410 may also be truck mounted

The box construction is heavy duty all steel with 10 ga bottom and 11 ga sides welded as one unit
Heavy auger style beaters with alloy steel ripper teeth shred frozen manure for easy spreading Hydro fluid endgate seals sloppy manure Auger type top beaters spread that extra high load

You can expect top performance and you'll get it from the Knight #410 manure spreader

For fine spreading of semi-solid or loose material the optional lower spinner beater can be added Especially good for spreading on seeding

REMEMBER...We Stock All Sizes.Trade Up Now To The Quality Spreader

Shift on the Go!

Yanmar brings big tractor features down to size with Powershift and Live PTO in compact tractors. Powershift means clutchless on-the-go shifting to keep you going where others bog down. 2-Speed 'Live' PTO keeps implements working at full power even when tractor is stopped. Plus more standard features and Yanmar's dependable 3-cylinder diesel engine.

First with its Water-Reel Customers.

Ag-Rain, the leading traveling sprinkler manufacturer in the U.S. for over 15 years, now is first again with the most complete line of Water-Reel hard hose travelers ever offered.

Over the years Ag-Rain has earned a reputation for high value and dependability. With this continued dedication to product quality and service, Ag-Rain continues to offer the latest in engineering design, product improvements, simplicity and ease of operation.

With 19 models to choose from, you can irrigate from under 10 to nearly 150 acres. Select the unit that's best for your acreage and crops.

Some of the many advantages:

- Low, one-man labor requirements.
- Ideal for odd shaped fields — easily moved.
- Swivel reel turntable on most units.
- Wide range of constant travel speeds.

Choose from 19 Water-Reel models.

IT'S ALWAYS ON THE LEVEL.

Vicon's new Automatic Stabilizing (AS) spray booms make the ups and downs of chemical application a lot easier to take. The AS linkage system lets you set for flat land or hillside spraying and maintain a level, accurate spray pattern across the width of the boom. For more information, see your Vicon dealer

NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL

 1968
 PRICES

Since 1968
 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel.
 Don't settle for less.

2 Cyl. F2L-912

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting.
 No electric heater
 plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

F2L-912 SPECS: 20 Hp @ 1500 RPM
 25 Hp @ 1800 RPM
 32 Hp @ 2300 RPM

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

Southcentral Cattlemen name their man of the year

BY JOYCE BUYP
Staff Correspondent

EAST BERLIN — Merrill Crone has been named Cattlemen of the Year by the Southcentral Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

The honor was bestowed on Crone in a surprise presentation during the group's annual meeting, March 11, at the East Berlin Fire Hall.

A former York Extension Service employee, currently the director of the county's Gypsy Moth program, Crone has worked extensively with the area's beef organizations. He has been especially active with 4-H and youth beef breeding exhibits, assisting with showing events, caretaker chores, clerical duties and as a general "man Friday" in handling related show responsibilities.

Honors also went to 18-year-old Seven Valleys beef breeder Chris Shive, chosen the cattlemen's queen for 1985. The "first lady" role is not a new one for the poised young beef producer, named the state's Angus queen in 1983 and the York County 4-H queen in 1984.

Chris has been a 4-H baby beef and beef breeding club member for 11 years and specializes in assisting with the registered Angus herd at the Gordon and Diane

Shive Angus farm, Seven Valleys, R1. In 1980, she exhibited the reserve champion bred-and-owned heifer at the Southeast regional Junior Angus show in Georgia.

A noted 4-H public speaking winner, Chris represented Pennsylvania in public speaking competition at the national 4-H club Congress in Chicago and has participated in the national 4-H conference in Washington, D.C. She is a freshman at York College, majoring in health records administration, and plans a career in the hospital, medical research or insurance field.

New directors elected to the Southcentral Cattlemen's board are Phil Druck, York; Brenda Eisenhour, Wellsville; Walter Laird, Dover and Tim Livingston, Dover. In a brief reorganizational meeting which followed the annual meeting, Terry Shearer, Abbotstown, was elected president, with Phil Druck as vice-president. Tim Livingston is secretary-treasurer, and public relations chairman is Kathy Wise.

Speaker for the dinner meeting was Penn State extension economist William T. McSweeney, who included a slide presentation with his talk on "U.S. Farm Policy at the Cross roads."

Ventilation School is a 'breath of fresh air'

BY JACK HUBLEY

LANCASTER — Though air quality in our major cities receives the lion's share of media attention, many farmers and their livestock are faced with more serious air quality problems in today's confinement systems. And combating the problem of poor air quality was the theme of a swine ventilation school held at Lancaster's Farm and Home Center last Friday.

Sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, the meeting featured presentations by York County veterinarian Dr. John Hurtgen, and Extension agricultural engineer Dr. Dan Meyer.

"It's common for producers to think of air quality in terms of temperature, but there's more to it than that," said Dr. Hurtgen, a veterinarian from New Freedom specializing in large animal reproduction. Air quality is a function of the level of gases such as ammonia and hydrogen sulfide, the speed of the air movement which affects apparent temperature, and the humidity. As the humidity increases, so does the air's capacity for carrying dust particles and bacteria, said Hurtgen.

Eventhough E. coli and Bordetella bacteria (the latter being the cause of rhinitis) may be present in the hog house, clinical symptoms may arise only after the factors of airborne irritants and stress are added to the equation, he said.

"One could go so far as to say that if the dust were eliminated, the bacterial would probably not reach sufficient 'challenge dose' (levels) to produce pneumonia," Hurtgen said.

The veterinarian also pointed out that disease problems brought about by the interaction of bacteria, contaminants and stress are magnified in baby pigs. "The younger the pig, the more the impact," said Hurtgen, noting that baby pigs are poorly equipped to cope with air quality problems before the age of six weeks. "This is the reason why early weaning has run into problems," he said. "Even if you're an excellent manager, with poor quality air a three-week-old pig in the nursery

But maximum pork production is only one reason for paying attention to air quality, said Hurtgen, pointing out that farmers and their employees subjected to contaminated air will also suffer.

"People who work in swine units have a higher risk of upper respiratory problems such as chronic cough, sinusitis and emphysema," he warned, "and owners will have to be more conscious of the environment if they hope to find people to work there."

The veterinarian observed that poor performance in people will go hand in hand with poor performance in the pigs. "Could some of the employee burnout we see be due to poor air quality?" he asked.

Although strong odor levels or deviated snouts are obvious signs of poor air quality, other phenomena should also alert the farmer. Condensation on walls, temperature differences within a single building, dirty pigs uneven weight gain, and an increased incidence of diarrhea, sneezing, coughing and tearing may also be the result of air quality problems.

"A lot of times when we run into poor air quality, it's because we've taken an existing building and fixed it up," said Hurtgen. "So we're trapped by a remodeled facility." With most ventilation remodeling costs running between $5,000 and $10,000, many farmers are understandably reluctant to take the plunge, he said.

And with vaccination costing between 15 and 20 cents per pig, farmers tend to rely on this lower cost solution. But treating the symptoms without getting to the root of the problem is no way to deal with the long-term effects of contaminated air, says Dr. Hurtgen. "With good air quality, there should be long-term savings to the producer—reduced need for vaccination of sows and pigs, reduced antibiotic usage...and equal if not better feed conversion," he concludes.

Dr. Hurtgen stressed that hog producers with ventilation problems are well advised to consult their county's Extension Service and Penn State Extension engineer Dan Meyer before putting any money on the line.

Three bulls top 5 lbs./day in NY Bull Test

ITHACA, NY — After 84 days of performance testing the average daily gain for the 85 bulls on the New York Bull Test was 3.71 pounds per day. This is the second highest third period average daily gain in New York Bull Test history.

The cumulative average daily gain for all bulls on test through the third period was 3.33 pounds. Bull Test director William Greene said, "these gains certainly symbolize the quality of bulls entered in this year's test and these results should inspire interest from buyers and intensify marketing efforts by consignors for our May 3, Bull Test Sale here at Cornell."

The importance of performance tested bulls is being emphasized, especially to commercial cow/calf producers, at beef meetings across the state this spring. "These cattlemen are beginning to see that it is important to improve the quality of their feeder calves if they are to receive competitive prices," Greene said.

Research by W.C. McCormick and W.E. Neviller Jr. of the Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton, Ga. has shown a performance tested bull can increase weaning weight approximately 18 pounds over that of calves by an average untested bull. The research also shows that sire cost per calf weaned can be reduced as much as 66 percent by wise selection and use of a performance tested bull.

A son of Pine Drive Big Sky consigned by Bel-Aire Cattle Co. of Millbrook, NY, leads the 29 Angus bulls in the "Class of '85" with an average daily gain of 5.64 pounds for the third weigh period. The third period average daily gain for all the Angus bulls was 3.96 pounds to lead all breeds on test.

A son of Pompanuks Dessauy PM consigned by Bell Vue Farms of Greenwich leads the nine Charolais on test with a third period average daily gain of 5.29 pounds. The third-period average for all the Charolais was 3.59 pounds.

A Wheatley Farms of Stanfordville Simmental bull and a son of Generation III leads the 12 Simmentals on test with a third period average daily gain of 5.21 pounds. The breed average for this period was 3.83 pounds.

A son of Sangamon Irish Plumber consigned by Stony Brook Farm of Locke leads the seven Shorthorns on test with an average daily gain of 4.86 pounds for this third weigh period. The breed average for this same period is 3.73 pounds.

A Marshall Farms of Port Byron son of EDR Victor 212 K82 leads the 20 Polled Herefords on test with an average daily gain of 4.36 pounds for this third weigh period. The breed average for this period is 3.49 pounds.

A son of VAF Virginia Boy 121 consigned by Ken Marquis of Ithaca leads the six Red Angus bulls on test with a third period average daily gain of 4.25 pounds. The breed average for this period is 3.50 pounds.

The Bull Test and Sale are jointly sponsored by the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association, Cooperative Extension, Cornell University and the Department of Ag & Markets. Information about the test and sale may be obtained from William Greene, 130 Morrison Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. 14853.

Md. Polled Hereford Assoc. elects officers, directors

BY JOHN STOKES SCHMIDT
Staff Correspondent

NEWMARKET, Md. — The Maryland Polled Hereford Association highlighted its annual meeting with the election of officers and directors.

MPHA members re-elected their current slate officers for an additional term. They include: president Andrew W. Schmidt, III of Monkton, vice president Bill Pleasants of Frederick, secretary Thelma Mills and treasurer John Buric, both of Gaithersburg, Md.

Newly elected directors are Ed Snook of Clearspring, Paul Peasley of Kingwood, W. Va., Jim Neal of Nokesville, Va., Faith Peterson of Abbottstown, Pa., Ron Easterday of Boonsboro, and Richard Strickland of Thurmont, Md.

Held at the Newmarket Fire Hall, Saturday, Mar. 2, Association President Schmidt presided over a larger group this year which includes a 25 percent new members.

The business agenda included a review of the MPHA's activities for 1984 and a look ahead for 1985.

The Black-Eyed Susan Sale earned an impressive $878 average last April, while the Red, White and Blue Fall Sale posted a $395 average for all females and a $457 average for the annual steer sale.

Suggestions were offered for consignors for this year's Black-Eyed Susan Sale to be held Saturday, April 16 at the Frederick Fairgrounds. Among them was special emphasis by President Andy Schmidt to "get multiple buyers lines up to get fair prices for your cattle."

Lively discussion followed a report from MPHA promotion committee chairman John Buric concerning cash rewards as incentives for showing Polled Herefords. Another topic discussed was the possible special memorial honor for former members Col. and Mrs. E. Brook Lee who were prominent nationally as Polled Hereford Breeders for many years.

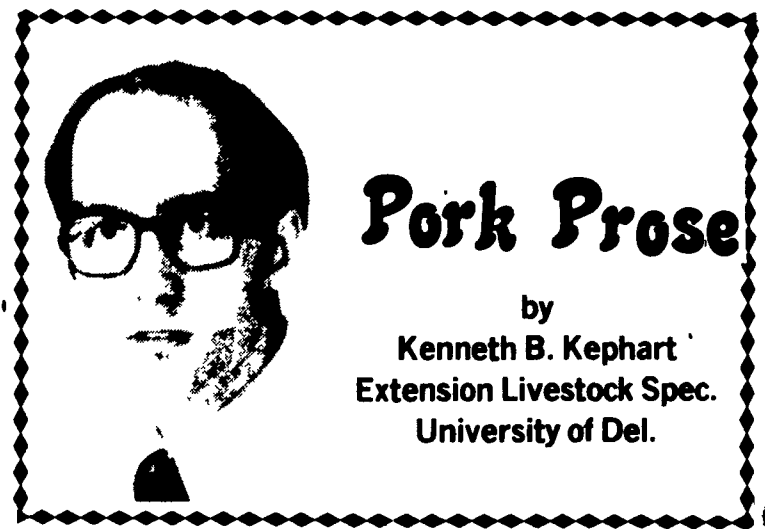

Special mention was also made of a recent "Polled Hereford Hub" magazine article complimenting the years of service of MPHA

Secretary Thelma Mills. Current prominent breeders, Spring Bottom Farm, of Fairfield, Pa., and LuRose Estates of Thurmont, Md., were also complimented on the fine show heifers they exhibited and won with at local and national shows.

Following the general meeting the Maryland Pollettes and Junior MPHA also held brief meetings. Pollettes officers for 1985 are president Barbara Windsor, vice president Suzy Whitlock, secretary Angela Whitlock, and treasurer Darlene Easterday. The new president for the Juniors will be Billy Gregg of Gaithersburg, Md.

The Maryland Polled Hereford Association also selected a 1985 Queen and Princesses following a buffet dinner. Tracey Miller of Sabillasville, Md., and Maureen Ireland of Hagerstown, Md. will reign as princesses while Melissa Wilson of Greenwood, Delaware will be MPHA Queen.

Upcoming events include a Junior preview show April 27, annual summer field day, Black Eyed Susan Sale April 16 and the 2nd annual Breeder's Show.

Managing the Gilt Pool

Keeping every farrowing crate full year-in and year-out is no simple task. To do it you really have to watch details. Even then, you need a bit of luck, since many factors are beyond your control. For example you could be hit with a 60 percent conception rate during August because of the hot weather. Or a boar or two may get injured and leave you short on boar power.

With these uncertainties, you may wonder if it's even worth the bother to try to keep those crates operating at 100 percent. Some producers claim that running the farrowing house at say, 95 percent full, won't cost that much. They'll even say that keeping a big gilt pool around to eliminate every empty crate will increase feed costs so much it's not worth the trouble.

Well, there's little doubt that operating a farrowing house at 95 instead of 100 percent capacity will cost money. But exactly how much will depend on the cost of your facilities. Take for example an 80-sow farrow-to-finish operation with a 20-crate farrowing house. Let's assume the price of the farrowing house, nursery and finishing house together comes to $1,500 a sow. How much will that cost if you operate the farrowing house at 95 percent-one crate always empty?

Considering the building expenses alone, it will add about $1 to the cost of producing every hog. Add in operating costs (electricity, fuel, etc.) and lost profit potential, and you can throw in at least another 50 cents. At this rate, that empty crate will cost you in the neighborhood of $3,000 a year.

So the question is—could you sufficiently expand your existing gilt pool, keep that crate full, and do it for less than $3,000? You can if you manage it right. The secret is to keep a high number of gilts around for a short period of time. Breed the ones that cycle and quickly sell the rest. Here are a few things to keep in mind.

Size of the Gilt Pool

How many sows you typically cull after each farrowing period will determine how many gilts you need. Most producers cull between 20 and 25 percent of their sow herd over the year. The exact number of gilts you need to fill the void will depend on several things. For example, the season of the year, how early your gilts come into heat and the age at which you feel comfortable breeding them. But in general you'll need three to four gilts available for each empty crate.

During periods of hot weather you may need to double this requirement since females then are often slow to cycle. Conception rate can drop as well.

Managing the Gilt Pool

Most producers move gilts to the breeding area to 220-240 pounds. Putting them next to a boar and the process of moving and resorting will usually stimulate estrus in 20 or 30 percent of the animals during the first week. Ideally, breeding should take place at the next heat cycle.

But how long should you wait for a gilt to come into heat? If you're on a weekly schedule, any non-cycling gilts should be sold in three to four weeks.

If you're farrowing on a one-month or six-week schedule—remember that it's to your advantage to keep the sows grouped so they'll farrow in one week. Under this system, move gilts to the boar and watch for heat as before. Those that cycle should be bred on the next heat period. Those that don't cycle during that first week of boar exposure should be sold.

This method lets you select for early cycling gilts. You'll also get the number of gilts you need without feeding an enormous gilt pool. And you'll be breeding gilts that weigh about 250 pounds.

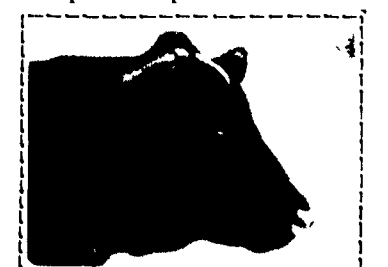

What if the number that cycles that first week or three weeks isn't enough to fill your empty crates? Then select more gilts. But don't keep them around any longer than necessary. Sure, a six-month gilt is still growing. But the bigger she gets, the less you get per pound at the sale barn.

What if you prefer to breed gilts at 275 rather than 250 pounds? Operate about the same way. Get rid of the non-cycling gilts during that first month. Then wait for two cycles until you breed those that have cycled.

What if you feel comfortable breeding at 250 pounds, but you'd like to see the gilt cycle three times first? In that case, move the gilts to the boar at 160 to 180 pounds. Then start making your cuts when they reach market size. You can safely feed these young gilts 6 pounds per day. Since that's less than they'd get in the finishing house, this system can also save you some money.

In summary, the bottom line to making a gilt pool work without it costing you a fortune is to keep a strict flow schedule. Start with plenty of females and quickly ship those that don't cycle. By doing this you'll be selecting for early estrus and you'll get the most out of those farrowing crates.

Lamb prices up, wool down in February

DENVER, Colo. — The supply of lambs during February was less than it was a year ago. As a result of less lambs available for market slaughter for February was down approximately 11 percent as compared to February 1984.

Low supplies forced packers to aggressively bid for lambs. Thus lamb prices strengthened during February. Prices for feedlot lambs in most areas of the country began the month in the $65-68 per cwt. range. By the end of the month prices were mostly $66-72.

Wholesale prices on the East Coast made one price move during the month and then stayed steady for the rest of February. Prices began the month at $1.42 for carcasses less than 55 pounds, $1.38 for carcasses weighing 55-65 pounds, and $1.35 for carcasses weighing 65-75 pounds. The second week of February prices rose three cents on light carcasses, two cents on middle weight carcasses and five cents on light carcasses. Wholesale price then stayed steady the rest of the month to settle at $1.45 for light carcasses, $1.40 for carcasses weighing 55-75 pounds.

Leg and rack prices strengthened during February. Retailers began booking legs for Easter, which boosted demand and pushed prices higher. Consumers resumed eating out again during February after a sharp decline in January. As a result demand for racks, a popular restaurant item, improved and higher prices followed.

Loins continued to hold their own in February as demand for the cut was only moderate. Chucks began the month in a flurry, only to fall off by month's end as demand waned.

The wool market continued at a standstill during February with a weak undertone. The strong U.S. dollar continues to be the culprit of the wool markets woes. As a result of the strong U.S. dollar foreign countries can buy wool, manufacture products, and export them to the U.S. cheaper than the same product can be made in the U.S. Thus, U.S. mills have received few orders for new products. With no demand for finished products, U. S. mills have not found it necessary to go into the market to buy any raw wool. Until the dollar softens, it is unlikely that demand for raw wool in the U.S. will improve.

Prices were lower for wool which did trade during February. For instance, at the beginning of the monthly fleece medium 54's traded for $1.35 per pound delivered clean to the mill. By the end of the month the same wool traded 10 cents per pound clean lower.

A quarterly publication for sheep producers

ROULETTE — Of interest to Pennsylvania's 4500 sheep producers is the quarterly publication entitled "Pennsylvania Sheep Producer". The official publication of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Sheep Wool Growers Association, "Pennsylvania Sheep Producer" is a comprehensive report on the sheep and wool industry both statewide and nationwide.

Included are market updates, management recommendations by industry and university experts, news of promotional activities, youth activities and other upcoming events of interest.

Among the publication's 350 subscribers are producers from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, New York, Ohio, Maine and Oregon.

Subscription rate is $5 per year. Direct all inquiries concerning subscriptions and advertising rates to: Pennsylvania Sheep Producer, RD 1, Box 61, Roulette, Pa. 16746 Phone: 814-544-7352.

Participation doubles for Penn State's "Little I"

UNIVERSITY PARK — Students in Penn State's College of Agriculture are getting ready for the 68th Little International Livestock Exposition, scheduled for April 20 in the Ag Arena. Little I, which is sponsored annually by the Block and Bridle Club, is the major opportunity students have to show livestock. Students are spending hours practicing how to groom and lead University animals for a 15-minute chance to show judges what they know.

Many Ag students from urban and suburban areas have little practical experience with livestock, yet employers look for such experience in job candidates.

Participating in the Little I gives them a competitive edge. Other students compete because they have grown up on farms and are used to working with livestock but want the chance to sharpen their skills.

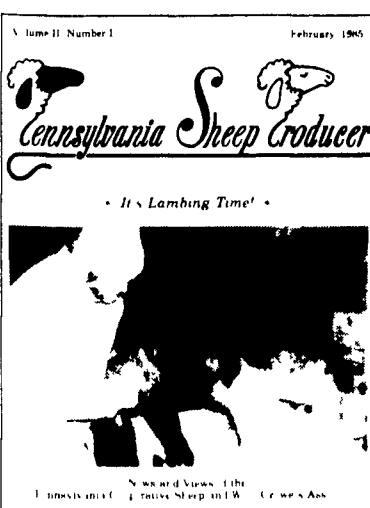

"Little I is a break from all the hustle and bustle of classes," said show manager Keith Bryan, a senior from Media who is majoring in animal production.

Although the show is still weeks away, Block and Bridle Club members have been preparing for months. Some are halterbreaking cattle, some are writing articles and selling advertisements to finance the 200-page catalog and others are contacting Ag alumni, livestock producers and agricultural associations for trophies, ribbons and other awards. Donations last year financed $1,700 worth of awards.

The Little I has become so popular that participation has doubled this year. More than 120 students are planning to participate.

The Little International Livestock Exposition on April 20, will be held in the Ag Arena at the Hog producers must control bloody scours

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — "The only way to rid a swine operation of bloody scours is to eliminate the causative organism from the infected pig's gut—and from its environment." So states Dr. James VanBuren, technical services consultant for the Upjohn Company.

According to Dr. VanBuren, this means swine producers should be aware that it is not enough to simply eliminate the organism which causes bloody scours from the gut of the pig. If the producer wishes to rid his operation of the disease, he must also eliminate the organism from the environment—something which is no easy undertaking.

"Bloody scours is a persistent disease that tends to be cyclical in nature," Dr. VanBuren explains. "There are several reasons for this:

1. Since infected hogs generally don't develop a significant level of immunity to the disease, they are susceptible to reinfection;
2. It's difficult to adequately clean up an infected environment;
3. The disease organisms are carried by a variety of animal avian, insect and mechanical vectors;
4. Seemingly normal "carrier pigs" can shed the causative organism for extended periods of up to 96 days.

"It is for this reason," Dr. VanBuren continues, "that producers cannot necessarily expect medication alone to get rid of the disease. The disease may clear up—only to break again, because Y. hyo. is still in the pig's environment."

According to Dr. VanBuren, the most effective way to eliminate bloody scours from an operation is to totally depopulate (removing infected swine), clean, sanitize and disinfect the facilities and leave them idle for six to eight weeks. This allows the hardy disease-causing organism time to die.

"Depopulation and clean-up is a drastic—and expensive—route to go, but it's the only reliable alternative a hog producer has if he truly must eliminate the disease," says Dr. VanBuren. "Even then, it's only advisable for a farrow-to-finish operator who keeps a closed herd to depopulate; an operator who constantly brings in feeder pigs or breeding stock from various sources is only too likely to be bringing in the disease as well."

For this reason, Dr. VanBuren advocates a treatment/control program using an antibiotic effective against bloody scours. "Lincomycin, an antibiotic developed by The Upjohn Company, has been proven to be an effective, economical product to treat and control bloody scours," he states.

"Such a treatment/control program provides an effective, economical alternative to depopulation for the producer with bloody scours in his herd," Dr. VanBuren concludes.

Cow/calf pairs to highlight NY Polled Hereford sale

ITHACA, NY — Registered Polled Hereford cow/calf pairs will be featured at the Empire Polled Hereford Association's Seventh Annual Empire Classic sale at 7 p.m. April 27, at the Livestock Pavilion on the Cornell University campus.

Two of the cow/calf pairs will feature calves by "Bravo", the grand champion bull at the 1984

New York State Fair and winner of top show ring honors across the nation. Granddaughters of Graystone Granite who has been cited by the American Polled Hereford Association as a trait leader for yearling weights of his calves and daughters' first calf weaning weight will be featured at the sale.

In addition to the dozen select cow/calf pairs there are 11 open heifers, three bred heifers, and three bulls consigned to date. One of the younger consignors is Vonda Haynes of Windy Hill Farm, Groton who has entered her show heifer which won her several top honors last year.

Sale information may be obtained from Robert Card, 3641

APHA to sponsor American Cattlemen's Conference

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The 1985 edition of the American Cattlemen's Conferences will feature the theme "Function-Form-Formality" on June 10-11 at the University of Missouri campus at Columbia.

Sponsored by the American Polled Hereford Association (APHA), the conference will use the theme as a springboard for plans to give direction to Polled Hereford breeders in selection programs regarding size, function, soundness and fertility. The conference will also give guidance regarding the correlation of physical traits in cattle with function and production.

Keynoting the event is Dr. Bob Totusek, Oklahoma State University, who will focus his remarks on the present beef cattle situation and trends for the future.

Other industry-leading speakers and their topics include Dr. Gary Smith, Texas A&M University, "The End Product"; Dr. Dave Nottter, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, "Minimum, Maximum, Optimum or Net?"; Dr. Jim Gibb, APHA, "What About Longevity?"; Dr. Jim Gosey, University of Nebraska, "Putting It All Together"; Dr. Randall Grooms, Texas A&M University, "Bones-Shape and Soundness"; Dr. C.J. Bierschwal, University of Missouri, "Reproductive Soundness-Can You See It?"; Dr. Bob Taylor, Colorado State University, "Frame Score-Help or Hindrance"; Jim Harris, APHS, "Shows-Behind the Scenes"; Dr. Miles McKee, Kansas State University, "Judge Professionalism"; and observations from the commercial segment, "What Commercial Cattlemen Expect of You."

Three working committees will be functioning during the formal conference sessions. The committees will consist of three Polled Hereford breeders, one commercial producer, one researcher and one program speaker. They'll operate under the titles of Reproduction, Performance and Structure and will recommend priorities of traits and trait expression. The recommendations will then be presented to the attendees in live animal evaluation sessions.

For more information, contact the APHA Dept. of Special Activities, 4700 E. 63rd St., Kansas City, Mo. 64130.

New hog feeder keeps feed fresh

LYONS, Nebr. — Dri Feeder, a new stainless steel hog finishing feeder that reduces feed wastage and eliminates stale and moldy feed, has been introduced by Swine Service Specialists, Inc., Box 555, Lyons, NE 68038.

The Dri Feeder is designed so that feed drops into the trough only when the pigs use their snouts to release feed from the hopper above. Each hog releases only the amount of feed it consumes. The design has been proven highly successful with the company's Aqua Feeder wet feeders. Unlike many traditional feeders, feed in the trough of a Dri Feeder is fresh at all times.

Dri Feeder confinement models are available in 60-, 80- and 100-inch lengths, 7.8 to 13-bushel capacities. Outdoor models are available in 60-, 80- and 100-inch lengths, 49- to 81-bushel capacities. The confinement model is constructed completely of stainless steel, while the outdoor model has a 32-inch-high stainless steel base and galvanized steel hopper and lid.

Other features include spring-loaded handles for simple and convenient feed flow adjustment and removal of large feed particles.

Both the Dri Feeder and the company's Aqua Feeder are sold through livestock and farm store dealers throughout the U.S. and Canada.

NJ veterinarian addresses NW Pa. Cattlemen's Assoc.

BY BARBARA RADER
Staff Correspondent

GROVE CITY — A record crowd filled Steese's Restaurant in Grove City recently for the annual meeting of the Northwestern Pa. Cattlemen's Association.

Cattlemen and veterinarians from Mercer, Lawrence and Butler Counties attended to hear veterinarian Dr. Harlan Higbee of Schering Corporation, New Jersey, speak on the subjects of pink eye and selenium.

A trace mineral first recognized in the late 1800's, selenium was not discovered to be important to body function until the 1960's.

Committee chairman Dale Rains of Mercer noted that a special two-day junior beef event to be called the Northwest Pennsylvania Keystone Classic Junior Beef Show will be held May 25-26 at the Mercer County 4-H Park. Rains stated that the event will draw participants from seven or eight counties as well as the neighboring states. He also pointed out that show judging for this early-season event will be based on conformation since none of the animals will be finished at that date. The entry deadline is April 1, and all juniors owning beef animals are encouraged to take part.

In other business, the club elected three new directors to serve for a three-year term. The new directors are Dale Steadman, Cochran; Bob Calvert, Mercer; and Dr. Brown, New Castle.

In closing, association president Stanley Hunt reminded members that the club's Choice Plus Calf Sale has been scheduled for Oct. 18, at the Mercer 4-H Park.

Cobb offers poultry breeder guide

A new Male Breeder Management Guide, with recommendations to help poultry producers obtain top performance from today's fast-growing male breeders, has been published by Cobb, Incorporated.

The guide includes detailed information on brooder management, procedures for the grow out and production periods, disease control and vaccination, and recommended weights by age for male breeders, plus several report forms for tracking flock performance.

For a copy, write: Male Breeder Management Guide, Cobb, Incorporated, subsidiary of The Upjohn Company, P.O. Box 5087, Kalamazoo, MI 49003.

One scientist reports that cows will eat newspaper if you grind it up and add a little molasses. Under certain circumstances, some farm animals think that news that is fit to print is also fit to eat. For that matter, cows will eat news that is not fit to print—it provides a bit of roughage. A correspondence course available from Penn State titled, Stock Feeding, does not advocate feeding news to livestock but it does emphasize proper rations for all farm stock to ensure peak production of meat, milk, and wool.

The nine-lesson course discusses the digestive organs, functions of food in the body, and classifies feeds and their constituents. Roughages—kinds, compositions, use, and quality are explained.

You can get a copy of the course by sending $8.25, postage included, to STOCK FEEDING, Dept. 5000, University Park, PA 16802. Make check payable to PENN STATE.

Pa. bulls enter Select Sires

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Select Sires, the nation's largest family of farmer-owned and controlled artificial insemination (A.I.) cooperatives, has acquired three outstanding young Holstein bulls from the state of Pennsylvania. Based on their superior pedigrees, Brooks-Twain Jetson Parker-ET, Pen-Col Prism, and Yules-Pride Tony Josh-ET have been chosen as three of 140 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system in 1985.

Brooks-Twain Jetson Parker-ET was bred by Walter Earl Brooks of Springville. His sire, Browncroft Jetson, is the highest PD Milk sire on the January 1985 sire summary. The dam of this PGA bull calf is Brooks-Twain Elevation Penny (VG-87). She is a high indexed Elevation daughter with a July 1984 Cow Index of +1,448M +54F +$182.

This high producing dam has five consecutive records over 28,174M and 1,114F. Her best record, at 5-3, is 34,818M 1,412F 4.1 percent in 365 days. The maternal grandam is Brooks Twain Kingpin Patsy (VG-87), with lifetime credits of 221,583M 8,002F 3.6 percent.

The second PGA bull calf to enter Select's sampling program comes from Pen-Col Farms of Millville. Pen-Col Prism is sired by Sunny-Craft Chief Spirit, a high TPI, triple plus, Arlinda Chief son. The bull calf's dam, Monterey Petes Pride, is an Excellent (90) Straight-Pine Elevation Pete daughter with an "Excellent" mammary system. Her best record, thus far, at 3-5, is 33,884M 1,428F 4.2 percent in 365 days. She also has a January 1985 Cow Index of +1,701M +59F +$207. The grandam is a Very Good (85) Glendell Arlinda Chief daughter with records to 37,236M and 1,177F.

The third "Select" young sire, Yules-Pride Tony Josh-ET, comes from breeder Richard G. Yule of Millville. His sire is Marshfield Elevation Tony, a highly proven and popular sire for overall type and production. The dam of this young bull calf is Cha-Do Jet Stream Jetta, a Very Good (87) Arlinda Jet Stream-Twin daughter. She has all records over 25,881M and two consecutive records over 1,000F. Her best record, at 5-6 is 34,710M 1,268F 3.7 percent in 365 days. This dam also carries a high January '85 Cow Index of +1,027M +27F +$110. The grandam is also a high producer with four consecutive records over 24,450M and 930F.

The basic objective of Select Sires is to serve the genetic needs of livestock farmers. Select Sires is services; director of sales branches; vice president, farm equipment and consumer products marketing and senior vice president of that division.

Bartlett is on the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation and is a member of the board of directors of the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute (FIEI), both national organizations. He is a past president of the farm equipment division of FIEI. He is a former member of the Crop Quality Control.

Bartlett, a native of Wisconsin, graduated from Wisconsin State College, at Superior, Wisconsin, with a bachelor of science degree in 1949.

Armstrong radial for F-W-D tractors

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — The Armstrong Rubber Company has announced an American industry first with the introduction of the Drive Master Radial tire designed and engineered for front wheel drive farm tractor application.

According to farm tire product manager, Wayne St. Aubin, the new tire is a natural mate with Armstrong's popular Super Hi-Power Lug Radial tire. When used with rear radials, the Drive Master Radial tire will provide improved traction, increased field capacity, less wheel slip and up to 30 per cent improved treadwear over bias front wheel tires.

The New Haven, Conn., tire producer will be shipping the new tire from its Des Moines, Iowa, plant to independent tire dealers beginning in March. It is the first time an American manufacturer will produce radial farm tires for application to the steering position on front wheel drive tractors. Three sizes will be available, to fit most tractor applications; 14.9R-28, 16.9R-28 and 18.4R-26.

"Radial tires are the fastest growing segment of the farm tire market, and our introduction of a front wheel radial is a natural progression in tire technology," explained Mr. St. Aubin. "We see radial farm tires accounting for an ever growing share of the market, increasing from seven per cent last year to 12 per cent next year and to possible 30 per cent in the next few years. The availability of a front wheel drive radial, such as the Drive Master Radial line, should have an even greater effect on the growth rate," he added.

Mr. St. Aubin said Armstrong also would be producing the Drive Master Radial for tractor manufacturers on an OEM basis. "More and more farmers are purchasing tractors with radial rear tires or replacing their bias tires with radials because they realize the added savings achieved over bias tires through improved fuel economy, treadwear, traction, field efficiency and increased drawbar horsepower.

New Holland announces new twin rotor combines

NEW HOLLAND — A new series of twin rotor combines from Sperry New Holland features an improved threshing system to allow superior low-damage, low-loss threshing over a wider range of crops and crop conditions. Other new features include improved control systems, high-tech monitoring, a new deluxe comfort cab plus a feeder house reversing system to clear blockages without leaving the cab.

The threshing and separating rotors of the new Models TR76, TR86 and TR96 share a staggered, spiral, segmented rasp bar design that allows improved wet crop handling. Damp straw in cereal and rice crops, as well as hard-to-thresh grass seed crops, benefit.

Like other twin rotor combines, the new three-model machine series features exceptionally low-damage threshing for soybeans, corn and other easily damaged grain and seed crops.

A special feature of the new combines is automatic header height control with lateral float that allows level sickle bar operation in uneven fields. Coupled with flex heads, this allows the sickle to "shave" off crops very near the ground surface. Harvesting efficiency for soybeans and other crops with low-growing seeds is improved.

All machines are diesel powered and carry 2-year warranties. Optional extended warranty is available for the engines. Crop heads include windrow pickups, low-profile corn heads, both rigid and flexible grain heads, as well as a special rice head.

Featured on Sperry New Holland TR 76, TR 86 and TR 96 combines is a lateral header float that lets the header stay parallel with the ground surface when the base unit rocks from side to side.

Kuhn hitch permits faster, sharper turns

VERNON, NY — The Gyrodine hitch that permits faster turning without shaft damage has been introduced for the Kuhn towed FC 300 and FC 250 Mower Conditioners.

The highly efficient FC series, with its oval cutting discs, severs crop at the base, feeds it through free-swinging fingers and reversible conditioning comb. It is engineered to cut hay up or down...wet or dry...and operates fast, resists clogging, and conditions hay thoroughly to lessen the chance of weather damage.

The conditioner, adjustable to 20 positions to suit density of grass or legumes, strips natural wax from the crop so moisture can evaporate but leaves the essential nutrients in the crop.

The FC 300 and FC 250 cut 10 feet and 8 feet swaths respectively.

Swathboards are adjustable. The cutterbar is also height adjustable to suit terrain, and incorporates blade protection features.

With the Gyrodine feature, PTO shaft damage is eliminated and both high speed cutting and 90 degree turns are possible without stopping. The Gyrodine hookup is fitted with a reversible gearbox which allows the machine to be worked at 540 or 1000 rpm by simply removing a pin and rotating the gearbox 180 degrees.

Kuhn provides major warehousing at locations throughout the United States and Canada, and also makes available airlift service for replacement parts when required.

Further information on the FC Mower Conditioners with the Gyrodine is available from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., P.O. Box 224-P, Vernon, New York 13476.

The Gyrodine hitch (inset) eliminates PTO shaft damage and permits faster turning of the Kuhn FC Mower Conditioner, without stopping.

Deutz-Fahr debuts new hay machines

ATLANTA, Ga. — A new round baler that makes 5 ft-diameter bales, a new 10-1/2-ft disc mower/conditioner with choice of tine or roller conditioner, and a new twin-rotor rake that windrows a 13-ft swath will be marketed in North America by Deutz-Fahr dealers this year.

The Deutz-Fahr GP520 Round Baler, SM70TC tine conditioner and SM70RC roller conditioner pull-type mower/conditioners and KS200DN Rotary Rakes were shown to Deutz-Fahr dealers from the U.S. and Canada at a new-products introduction meeting at Orlando, Fla., Feb. 22.

"These new models will help us fill the demand for higher-capacity round balers and rotary hay machines," says F.J. Kaplan, vice president-marketing of Deutz Corporation's Agricultural Equipment Division (AED).

Atlanta, Ga.

The Deutz-Fahr GP520 Round Baler was extensively field-tested in U.S. and Canadian crops ranging from cornstalks to haylage during the 1984 season, Kaplan said. The baler forms 5-ft diameter bales with rugged maintenance-free steel rolls designed for optimal baling performance in all crops. Bales are formed with a soft center and hard outer layers for proper curing and maximum crop protection. Tie-off is automatic; the machines are designed to operate day-in and day-out at high capacity, Kaplan said.

The SM70TC and SM70RC Turbo Disc Mower/Conditioners have a working width of 10-1/2 ft and operate efficiently at high field speeds. The TC model has a tine conditioner to speed drying time by rubbing through the waxy layer of forage stems of grass hay crops.

The RC model has two conditioning rolls; a rubber star-roll meshes with a grooved roll to crimp stems of leafy forage crops, such as alfalfa or clover.

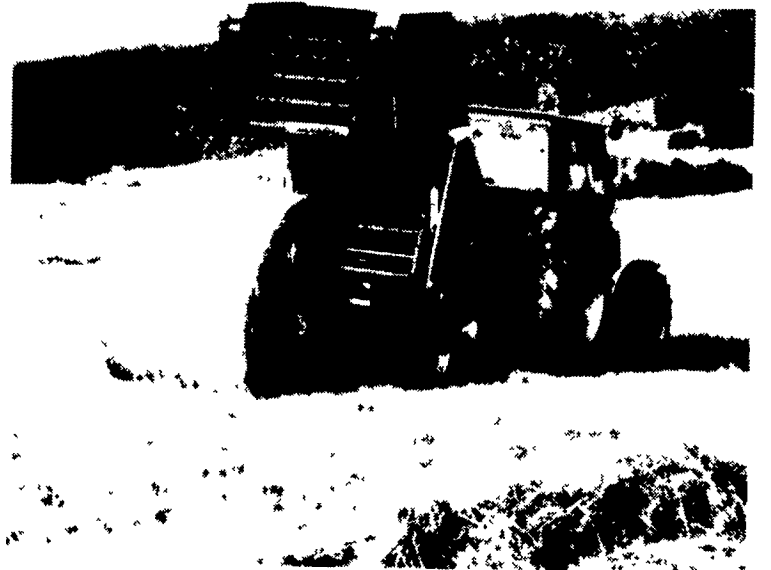

Oval-shaped mowing discs provide a generous overlap of cutting area and a clean cut. Knife change or replacement is quick and easy by lifting a spring-loaded pin. Cutting height and transport width are hydraulically controlled; swath width can be varied by means of adjustable swath plates.

The KS200DN Rotary Rake is a twin-rotor machine for use with either Cat. I or Cat. II 3-point hitches; two six-arm rotors form a single loose, airy windrow. Despite the 13-ft working width, the machine follows ground contours very closely. Transport width is 9-1/2 ft.

The Deutz-Fahr hay equipment line also offers 5-1/2-ft and 7-ft turbo drum mowers, 7-ft and 8-1/2-ft turbo disc mowers and a 7-ft turbo disc mower/conditioner; 10-ft and 17-ft rotary haymakers, 10-ft rotary rakes and a 10-ft com-

Deutz's new GP520 Round Baler makes 5-foot diameter bales.

EPA approves new rodenticide

OVERLAND PARK, Kans. — CEVA Laboratories, Inc., has announced that the EPA has granted approval for the sale of TrueGrit RAMPAGE, a new rodenticide that is completely different in mode of action, highly effective and safe to use.

The new rodenticide is termed a breakthrough in rat and mouse control by CEVA.

Unlike today's broad list of anticoagulant rat and mouse baits, which rely on the hemorrhaging path to rodent death, TrueGrit RAMPAGE causes death of rodents through calcification of the circulatory system and heart attack.

As explained by Edwin Eades, product manager, CEVA, rats and mice are extremely vulnerable to small percentage changes in the calcium level in their bloodstream. This is an inherent physiological weakness of rodents and RAMPAGE acts on this weakness.

Other species of animals have a much higher tolerance for calcium level changes in their metabolism. Rodent ingestion of RAMPAGE containing Vitamin D3, followed by metabolic changes, is interpreted by the rodent's system as a physiological call for more calcium. Calcium is mobilized from tissues and bones into the bloodstream, leading to calcification of the circulatory system and death of the rodent two to four days later.

CEVA stresses that new RAMPAGE is a true single-feeding bait because once a lethal amount of bait has been consumed, either at one feeding or several feedings, all intake of food and bait ceases. Rodents do not continue to eat during the two to four days until death occurs.

Cessation of food and bait intake following consumption of a lethal dose is important relative to secondary poisoning hazard. Because rodents do not continue to eat RAMPAGE once a lethal dose has been consumed, there is no buildup of toxic material in the carcass of the rodent to pose a threat to other animals.

In addition to the absence of a secondary poisoning hazard with RAMPAGE, the new rodenticide is very safe to use around pets and non-target animals because of its different mode of action. Other species are less sensitive and are able to compensate for calcium level changes without adverse effect.

According to John Bruggen, director of sales and marketing at CEVA, RAMPAGE is an important breakthrough in rodenticides not only because of the product's different mode of action and safety but also because of its demonstrated effectiveness against warfarin-resistant Norway rats and the demonstrated absence of

New Lorox herbicide is easy to use

WILMINGTON, Del. — Ease in handling and mixing is an important feature of the new dry flowable formulation of Du Pont "Lorox" herbicide.

"Lorox" DF is a significant achievement in crop protection, according to Ed Puletz, Du Pont product manager. "The dry flowable formulation cuts waste by ensuring that nothing remains in the jug and growers can use 100 percent of the product they purchase. And the consistent performance of 'Lorox' has been maintained."

"Lorox" DF is neither a liquid nor a powder, but tiny beads that have the advantages of a liquid and none of the drawbacks. Available in 12-pound jugs, the new formulation flows like a liquid, but doesn't freeze. And it stores like a powder, but isn't dusty.

New "Lorox" DF disperses instantly in water to control more than 30 broadleaf weeds and grasses, including lambsquarters, smartweed, pigweed and common ragweed. Agitation is still required under normal spraying conditions.

Lorox DF

"Lorox" DF is available in limited quantities for the 1985 season.

Bush Hog's new ATV cutter

Bush Hog's new ATV flail has a full 50-inch cutting width, according to Bob Weaver of Carlisle, Bush Hog sales representative for Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

"The cutter is powered by an 8 or 10 HP Briggs and Stratton engine," Weaver said.

The adjustable ball and pin hitch makes attaching the flail to most ATVs and small tractors fast and easy. The wheels are fitted with 13.5x6 high-flotation pneumatic tires and the power is transmitted to the rotor shaft by a type B drive belt.

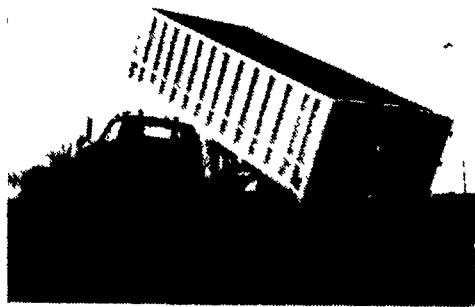

For further information, contact Bush Hog, Department NR-GPF, P.O. Box 1039, Selma, AL, 36701.

Buchanan sickle guard improves cutting, tine strength

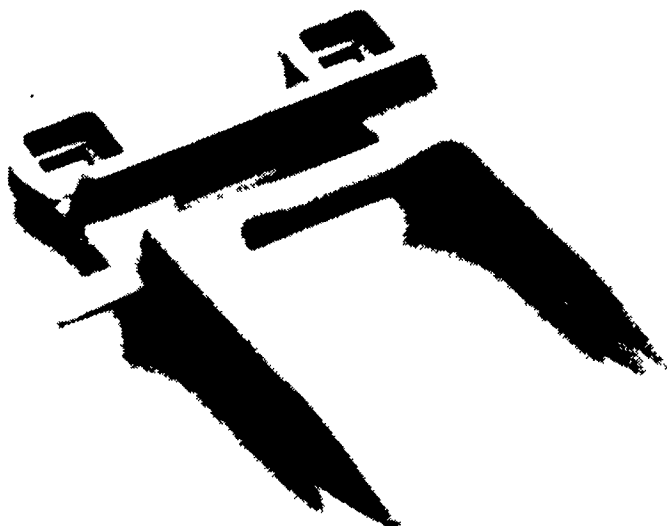

BUCHANAN, Mich. — A new sickle guard introduced by National-Standard's Forged Products Division eliminates the need for any external hold-down clip.

The new Buchanan sickle guard uses a patented depressed tie bar in place of the external hold-down clip. The bar is factory adjusted to hold the cutter bar in optimum position thus providing cleaner cutting. Guards and sections stay sharper longer, while the increased cutting efficiency reduces shatter loss and stripping, leaving less grain in the field and more dollars in the farmer's pocket.

In addition to improving cutting performance, the tie bar increased top tine strength by more than ten times. Daniel C. Schultz, a farmer from Buchanan, Michigan said he used the new Buchanan guards on one of his machines while harvesting on his rolling, rocky ground. Schultz said that by the end of the harvest, he had broken only two and bent two, while a second machine of his, using regular sickle guards, had eleven broken and several bent.

For further information on the Buchanan sickle guard, contact the Sales Department, Forged Products Division of National-Standard, 103 Smith Street, P.O. Box 112, Buchanan, MI 49107, or phone (800) 253-0585.

GPI's digital meter features stainless steel body

Stainless steel electronic digital meter from Great Plains Industries.

WICHITA, Kan. — An electronic digital meter with a stainless steel body, designed to sell in the $300 range, has been introduced by Great Plains Industries.

The unique properties of stainless steel make the EDM-300S capable of measuring many fluids used in the industrial chemical, agricultural chemical, plastic, pesticide, petroleum products, and food processing industries.

The new compact GPI meter measures to within plus or minus 1/2 percent accuracy and can be easily calibrated for use with different viscosity fluids as well as for different units of measurement.

For further information about the new model EDM-300S write Great Plains Industries, 1711 Longfellow Lane, Wichita, KS 67207; or call toll-free 1-800-835-0113.

The Systems Approach of Hershey Equipment lets you put it all together

Today's profit minded poultry, swine, and grain producers must think in terms of an automatic system.

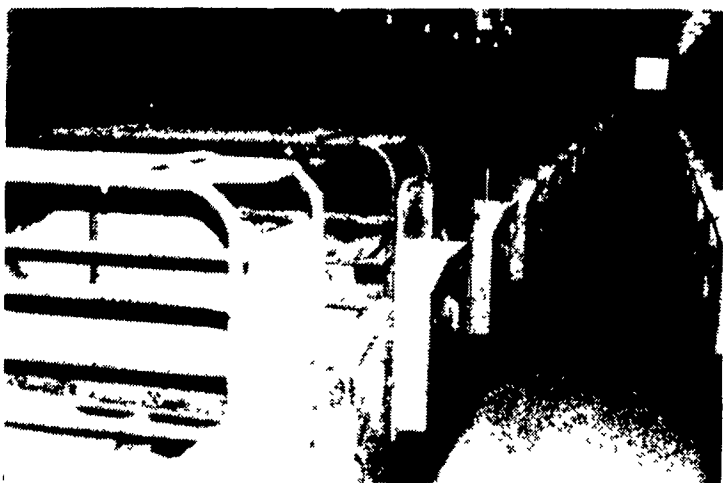

"System thinking" can help you plan away problems before you begin, or it can help you automate away problems you now have.

Hershey Equipment Co. is geared to provide all components of the system including equipment, plumbing, electrical and building. This will assure that the pieces will fit together to form a profitable system.

General Stor offers bagging system brewers grain, corn gluten, high moisture corn and bulk fertilizer. The system also shows promise for non-food flowable materials such as sand for flood control.

"Wet brewers grain has always been as excellent cattle feed," said Neal Durhman, president of General Stor. "The problem has been that spoilage sets in rapidly if wet brewers grain is not stored in an air-tight structure. With the Bag-A-Load and StorBag system, wet brewers grain and other food byproducts can be stored for weeks and even months with minimal spoilage."

To operate the Bag-A-Load system, a folded StorBag is attached to the Bag-A-Load housing before the truck leaves the plant. At the farm, the end of the StorBag is tied off, the bag is filled and the other end tied. The farmer can remove only as much grain as needed for a single feeding and then reclose the bag between feedings.

The Bag-A-Load system adapts to flowable materials such as high-moisture corn, brewers grain, corn gluten and bulk fertilizer.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Bag-A-Load, an innovative truck-mounted system for storing wet brewers grain, corn gluten and other flowable materials in plastic bags, has been introduced by General Stor, 475 Randolph Ave., St. Paul, MN 55102; phone 612/291-2642.

Bag-A-Load can be mounted on either hydraulic hoist or plunger-equipped truck boxes, as well as live bottom trailers. It is designed to be used with General Stor's heavy-duty plastic StorBag. StorBags are supplied in custom lengths and pre-folded to fit the

A BULL STORY

We had just taken the giant step. Dad had decided to sell the farm and retire. So the newly married youngest son (which was me, of course), exercising all the innocence and almost all the ignorance of an unpolished farm kid, jumped in with both feet, hauling my bride right along with me into the bottomless pit of farm debt.

We bought a herd of grade cows to start, with the same eternal dream shared by so many upstarts, that one day we would own a herd of "purebreds". The way to begin was to get hold of a registered bull, and maybe a registered cow or two. The bull came first, since he could also work on the grades until we could afford some better cows.

Our first herd sire (I like the sound of that better than just plain bull), was a youngster named 'Huntsdale Beets Progressor', from the then well-known herd owned by Willis Sheaffer, of Huntsdale. Willis's herd sire was just made grand champion of the 1940 Pennsylvania Farm Show. At his invitation I visited his herd and came home with Progressor, thenceforth to be called 'Proggy'. Kind of a cute name for a cute bull calf.

Now the real reason that he turned out to be the first, last and only full-time bull we ever owned, was that Proggy displayed a killer instinct. At 18 months of age he weighed nearly a ton, and never let me forget it for a minute. It became a daily game of fear and dread to see that he got let out to water, and safely back in the pen again. And if an amorous cow felt the need of him, they were turned loose in the yard at great peril. When he was younger, we always led him by the nose ring with a steel pole. Later, the only safe way to tie him was with a rope through the nose-ring. But when he became a two thousand pound monster, even the nose ring wasn't enough to tame him. His snort was frightening, but when he bellowed it was like the end of the world. He was convinced of his superiority over all, both animal and human.

The day he plowed right through the barnyard fence and headed for the hills was the day I decided that I'd had enough of old Proggy. It took the help of several neighbors to corner him back into his barn pen for the last time. I called the local butcher the same day. He had sired some nice looking calves, and had cost a pretty penny, even for those days. But when the life of your loved ones is in danger every time you move the bull, it is time to consider some alternatives.

Proggy turned out to be the only full time herd sire we ever owned, in thirty-five years of breeding and milking registered Holsteins. We managed to raise eight heifers out of him that were on DHIA test with complete records. That was enough for a USDA bull proof in those days. Fortunately, Proggy had gone to his reward long before we got the bad news that he came through with a minus proof.

Now I'm sure that there are 'bully' stories that most everyone could tell. Mine happened at the time that AI was born, and we promptly joined the newly formed SPABC at Lancaster. Our next round of calves came out of a test tube, bearing the imprint of the greatest breeding of that time. And I never had to chase the inseminator around the barnyard with a pitchfork to get the job done! So I guess that being at the right place at the right time was a real lucky stroke of good fortune.

I often wonder if I would have remained in the dairy business very long if faced with a never ending round of cow fresheners like old Proggy. I might have gotten lucky and developed an Elevation or Apollo, but it would have been my luck to either be permanently crippled by him or send him to the bologna factory before his proof came through. I'm glad that I left the bulls to the experts.

Winds can damage plants, kill cells

WASHINGTON — A wind tunnel in Manhattan, Kans., is adding new evidence that windstorms on the Great Plains strip away not only soil but also the life-giving cells in young plants.

Dean V. Armbrust, Agricultural Research Service soil scientist in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said his wind tunnel tests show "some cells are killed outright when struck by a sand or soil particle."

After bombarding seedlings for 40 minutes in a soil-laden, 30-mile-an-hour wind, he also found that a plant's weight drops off anywhere from 15 to 60 percent. A plant's leaves, stem and roots make up its weight.

A loss of cells and plant weight can set back the growth of young crops such as wheat and reduce their yields at maturity.

Armbrust used the wind tunnel to "simulate nature's sandblasting of newly-emerging plants" for cell loss studies of wheat, sorghum and soybeans.

Wheat seedlings were most vulnerable to wind and sand damage seven to 14 days after they sprouted from the ground. At that age, a wheat plant is about six inches tall.

"Wind and sand can combine to whip leaves and tatter their edges," he said. "They often end up looking like the frayed-edge flags we see flapping and snapping overhead." Cells are lost in the bits of leaf tips that break off and blow away. Cells are damaged where a leaf rips and tears.

Wind-beaten plants are forced to use their energy to replace cell tissue and that delays growth. Also, less leaf area is left to capture sunlight and photosynthesize sugars for plant nourishment.

Armbrust says windbreaks and farming practices that slow wind speed to 15 miles an hour at ground level will help protect plants and soil.

NW Pa. to host corn clinic

BELMONT CORNERS — The Northeastern Pennsylvania Regional Corn Clinic and Crops Day will be held Wednesday, March 27, 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. at the Belmont Fire Hall, Belmont Corners, on Route 371.

The annual event is co-sponsored by Penn State Extension Service and area farm supply dealers. The meeting offers educational speakers and commercial exhibits for farmers to view. The meeting also qualifies as a training session for private pesticide re-certification.

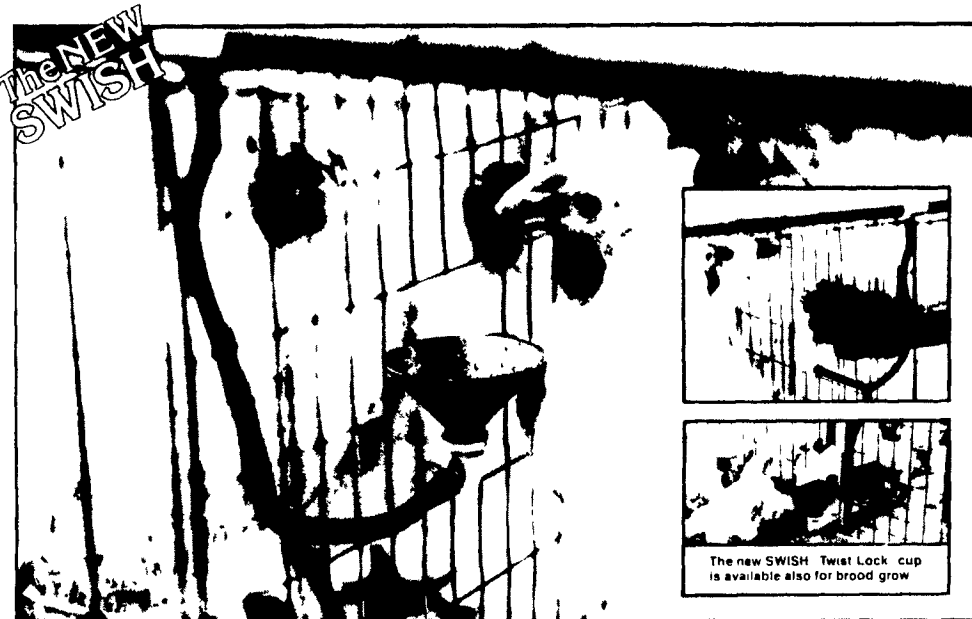

Speakers for the session include, Penn State agronomist Douglas Beegle, Sidney Bosworth, Thomas Lanini, and Wayne County Agent, Tom Callahan.

Farmers that grow corn and livestock forages are invited to attend. Lunch tickets can be secured from Extension Offices in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna, Wyoming, and Wayne Counties. Participants planning to attend are required to make reservations and purchase the $2.00 lunch ticket by Friday, March 22.

To reach the Belmont Fire Hall, travel north on Route 670 or 296, taking Route 371 into Belmont.

"Twist-Lock" cups: newest innovation from the new leader

...another reason SWISH saves you more labor, more birds, and more money

The newest twist in cage watering makes cup cleaning and maintenance a real snap — it's SWISH's Twist-Lock cups for cage layers and brood-grow watering systems.

Saves labor. No more contortions with hand tools inside a cage — one simple twist of the wrist unlocks and removes the unitized cup and valve. It's that easy to maintain when necessary. But with SWISH, it's hardly ever necessary. That's because our cup is self-cleaning. Our patented valve keeps the cup clean by flushing any feed particles out so birds can consume them with the water.

Installation is a snap too with SWISH's new cups — they simply snap into the desired location and the hose attaches to the water line outlet. These are some of the ways SWISH's new cup saves you labor — easy installation, low maintenance and labor savings between flocks because our cup constantly cleans itself.

Helps save more birds. Because our cup is self-cleaning algae and bacteria growth is not a problem as with cups that don't flush out feed particles. Clean cups mean less chance of disease and less mortality. And our big cup means good access to water for a good level of bird health.

SWISH saves you money. That's the bottom line with a system that cuts labor and keeps birds alive and productive.

Get all the facts about our new cup and other SWISH innovations. See your SWISH distributor or contact us Standing Room Only!

That's all it needs...standing room for one man... and it moves tons of manure fast!

Berg Hydro-Man IV Vertical Manure Conveyor

Compact, vertical design is the secret! Uses much less barn floor space than other mechanical systems. Friction and wear are low, because the vertically-operating plunger puts no weight on its seals. And, the massive plunger works with gravity and hydraulic down-pressure to push manure, quickly, underground, from barn to storage. Handles heavier-bedded manure, slurry and liquids from manure removal systems.

Farm Talk

by Jerry Webb

Photos show 30's farming

If you lived on a farm or in a small town in the 1930s or maybe even the 1940s, you'll enjoy a picture book called Farm Town. It's a collection of old photos along with very few words that describe life in rural America at that time. Most of the pictures were taken by J. W. McManigal, a free lance photographer who worked out of Horton, Kansas.

Before McManigal's death in 1970, Grant Heilman of Lititz, friend and photographer, bought McManigal's file of 8,000 negatives and turned them into a rare little paperback.

Farm Town is all of the memories any of us who were raised on a farm ever had. It's all there—the six-horse plow, one-room school, making garden, the first tractor threshing, Saturday in town, and all the rest.

If your memory serves up a special view of the way things used to be, you can see it again in Farm Town.

Most of the descriptive material in the book comes from actual quotes from people in the pictures. Heilman went back to Kansas and, with McManigal's widow, found a lot of the subjects and got them talking about what they remembered. Here are a few selected comments:

The First Tractor — "He was so proud of that tractor. It's all dolled up with a light and look at his Flying Red Horse up there on the hood....with a three bottom plow, it cost a thousand and fifty dollars new. I can still remember the price exactly."

Field Work — "By the time I was nine, I was running a New Departure cultivator. We had to do ten acres a day to put in a good day's work....so in a day we had to walk twenty-five miles in the furrow."

Corn Picking — "We'd get up at four and drive the horses three miles to shuck corn....I'd be out in the field long before the sun was up and hear those ears banging against the high side of the wagon....once I shucked a hundred and seventy-two bushels in a day, including scooping it into the bin.

That was a real day's work and I've never forgotten the number."

As you can tell from these few comments, farming in the 30s wasn't all glamour. There were a lot of good things worth remembering and some not-so-pleasant things that may be better unremembered. But it's all there in the book—Main Street in Horton, the barber shop, the general store, the county fair, and all the rest.

I love remembering but I sure don't want to go back. I, too, harnessed horses in the early morning cold, walked to school, milked cows by hand and shocked barley. I remember going to the fair, swimming in the creek after a day of field work and ice cream cones at the drug store on Saturday night.

If you want to remember, or want to show someone else what life in the country was really like, buy a copy of Farm Town. Write to Grant Heilman, Lititz, PA 17543. I'm sure he still has a few copies at a modest price.

One final thought on rural America and what modern agriculture has done. Those small towns like Horton still exist but they're not the bustling trade centers they once were. Stores are vacant, houses need repair.

The young people have gone somewhere else to live and even the older citizens do their shopping in larger towns. A lot of farmsteads have been left vacant.

In 1930, there were 4,000 people in Horton; in 1970, there were less than 2,700. And, as you can see in the book, Main Street looks about the same—different cars and not as many of them, but the town is still there, fighting for the future.

In the meantime, agriculture has gone modern. In some ways, the contrast defies description. It has to be seen.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

If a farmer or anyone else is going to solve a problem, they must be aware that the problem exists. One of the biggest farm management problems today is that many farmers do not know how to handle money. When the average farmer was handling $20,000 to $30,000 a year, this was not as serious.

However, today the average full-time farmer handles well over $100,000 per year. This increase in dollar volume, along with an increased value of assets, has caused many farmers to lose sight of the end of the "green stream". They forget that expenses do not come in uniform bits every month.

And they base their borrowing and spending decisions on their best month of the year.

Back to Basics

If a farmer is already in financial trouble, one solution is to work hard on records.

Here are some good starting points:

- Find out where you are, how far off base you are and where the leak is.

- Determine what concessions will your lenders and creditors make. Will your supply dealers back off on interest if you begin to make payments? Will your banker extend your loan life or give you a year on interest only or perhaps reduce the interest?

- See what concessions you can make. Reduce your family living expenses? Give up the purchase of that new tractor. Give up the idea of acquiring the neighboring farm? Put more time and effort into records? Weigh your grain? Budget your crop needs?

- Take a hard look at your business and yourself. Are you operating it because you like to farm because you have no alternative, or because you are emotionally attached to the farm?

- Consider your equity in the farm. Are you having to borrow more and more each year to just stay in business? How much do you borrow to pay back bills? How big is your unpaid account pile now as compared to a year ago?

- Establish goals for your family, for your farm business and for yourself.

If a farmer and his or her spouse will go through this list and answer each one fully and honestly, they will then be ready to make some monumental decisions:

- Whether to stay in farming or sell out.

- What direction to take to survive and prosper as a farmer.

- How to move in that direction.

Analyze Your Business

One of the best ways to begin is to get a good farm analysis. If you need financial direction, it is difficult to find it unless you know where you are—that means an analysis. Use the analysis results.

If you don't understand the analysis or have difficulty picking out the key points, ask someone to help you "read" the analysis printout.

If you find that you are borrowing $5000 each year to just pay bills, the end result will be that the bank will own your farm. Is that your goal? Of course not. Then why are you doing it?

If your business is not generating enough income to pay those bills then find out why. Do not use the weather or prices or politics or anything else as an excuse. There is nothing you can do about them. Your attack must be on your own operation. That is the only thing you have control over.

Four-day Sheep conference at Penn State April 22-25

UNIVERSITY PARK — March 29 is the last date sheep producers, teachers and industry leaders can register for the four-day Penn State sheep industry tour sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and scheduled for Monday, April 22 through Thursday, April 25.

The tour offers participants a rare opportunity to see the latest technologies and practices in commercial lamb and wool production.

Starting out from Penn State, the group will first visit Woolrich Industries to observe operations from raw wool to finished cloth.

The second day is reserved for an intensive tour of the USDA Research Center Beltsville, Maryland, featuring research trials to maximize ewe milk production during the post lambing period.

Most of the third day will be spent at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Virginia, to study sheep pasture and forage systems, including perennial rye grass, brassicas and ensilage for ewe and lamb nutrition.

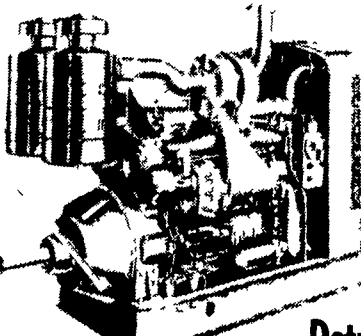

At the Shenandoah Valley Research Station in Steeles

Tavern, participants will examine sheep fencing systems using high-tensile wire fences for perimeter and predator control, as well as seeing some companion grazing trials with beef cattle and sheep.

The last day features the Jonathan May commercial sheep farm in Harrisonburg, Virginia, a family farm with both crops and sheep. The farm has 2,000 commercial breeding ewes, as well as lambing and lamb feeding facilities to manage the flock. It also has a special record program for ewe selection and breeding.

Don't send an ordinary herbicide to do a tough herbicide's job.

Send Eradicane® Extra.

Selective Herbicide

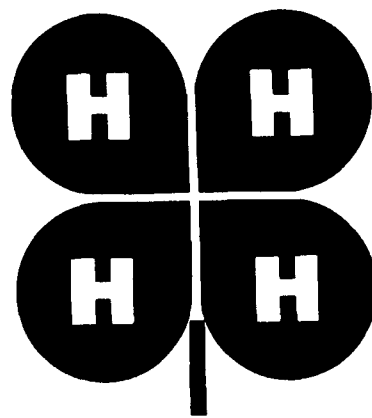

Any cornfield with a history of heavy infestations of hard-to-control weeds is the wrong territory for an ordinary herbicide. You have to call in the specialist, Eradicane Extra, the preplant specially designed to give you consistent, dependable control of the toughest weeds in corn.

Eradicane Extra, tank-mixed with atrazine or Bladex,* is tough enough to knock out rough weeds like quack-grass, nutsedge and velvetleaf. And wild cane, Johnsongrass, fall panicum, foxtails, and many other grasses and broadleaves.

This spring, for the best control of the tough weeds in corn, send in the tough weed specialist, Eradicane Extra.

Farm couples attend Young Cooperator seminar

SOUTHAMPTON — Young dairy farm couples heard the latest on governmental dairy policies, brushed up on financial management practices and learned about the workings of their own milk cooperative at the 1985

Young Cooperator Seminar, sponsored by Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative recently. Held at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center, the seminar brought together 21 of Inter-State's Young Cooperator couples, representing Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The day-long program was designed to encourage leadership abilities among the young dairymen, ages 21 to 35, according to James Barnett, member relations manager.

Program speakers ranged from the Young Cooperators, themselves, to Inter-State managers and national cooperative representatives, including Susan Fridy of the National Milk Producers Federation and John Crowgey Jr. of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore.

Ms. Fridy, who is director of consumer and nutrition programs and is a legislative representative, addressed the current dairy situation, stating that the dairy diversion program — the first of its kind which paid farmers not to produce milk — has been fairly successful.

"It was not perfectly designed," Ms. Fridy said of the diversion program, adding that it was too short, "but even as an imperfect diversion program, it's really been successful."

The success, she said, lies in the fact that government purchases of surplus dairy products have been cut by over a billion dollars. This was possible, she said, because of the mandatory 50-cent-per-hundredweight assessment imposed on dairy farmers.

"Your 50-cent assessment rate per hundredweight is paying the bill for the diversion program," Ms. Fridy said, disputing the belief of most Americans that tax money pays for non-production of milk.

M. Fridy supported the price support system, which has recently been under attack by both farmers and legislators. The program, which establishes a minimum price for milk, has brought stability to the market, she said. Without it, farmers would be forced into a free market system and many would not be able to compete for prices.

She called for unity among farmers in establishing dairy policy for the 1985 Farm Bill, encouraging the young dairymen to contact their legislators and to share their views.

"If we keep our heads above water this year in agricultural and dairy legislation, it will be due to your work," she said.

Ms. Fridy said she is somewhat awed by what the dairy industry faces this year, but added that the industry as a whole is stronger. This she attributes to cooperative marketing and the stability stemming from the price support program.

Although stronger, the dairy industry is facing serious financial problems. John Crowgey Jr., vice president of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, told the Young Cooperators that farmers will need to become better business managers. A good accounting system and sound financial decisions are the rule, he said.

"Be careful with capital investment decisions," Crowgey said. "Look for the return on those investments."

Farmers should match their debt loads with their own managerial expertise, Crowgey said. Financial decisions should not be based on averages or text book projections, he said.

Crowgey suggested that farmers find a credit lender they feel comfortable with. "Select a lender that understands the normal risk of agriculture and has the ability to accurately evaluate your management, production, financial and marketing skills," he said.

"GEHL CHOPPED A GEAR FASTER. AND CHOPPED $8000 OFF MY BILL."

BILL BUCHNER, HARRISVILLE, MICHIGAN DAIRYMAN

What happens when two of the top pull-type forage harvesters go head to head in some of America's toughest haylage?

According to Bill Buchner, Gehl's 1250 wins big over New Holland's 1600.

We chopped the same field with the same 180 hp tractor. Gehl let me go a gear faster all day long.

Why? Well, Gehl has tremendous capacity. And it's so easy to keep chopping smoothly. I can put a factory-true bevel on the knives and set the shear bar in less than 10 minutes, said Buchner.

When a New Holland dealer invited him to a similar field test using Case 2870 4WDs, Buchner again picked Gehl as the better chopper.

If you're like Bill Buchner, you want the best. The bottom line? The Gehl 1250 cost me $8000 less than the NH 1600. And Gehl's got the better machine, he said.

It's time you put a Gehl to the test on your farm. Whatever size forage harvester you need, Gehl is the leader. Choose from the model 750, the 1000 or the 1250. Make us prove it with a demonstration.

Penn State specialists to write computer programs

Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service has developed a computer software system that can deliver computer programs directly from the source to the consumer, without the help of a computer programmer. "Penn State cut out the middleman by teaching specialists around the state to develop templates for the rest of Extension to use," says Graham Bell of Extension Computer Services. "Rather than combining the efforts of the subject matter specialist and the computer programmer, we taught the specialist how to program the computer using electronic spreadsheet software. The system's been extremely successful."

As part of a computerization project funded by the state legislature last year, specialists were trained to develop program material on Apple Macintosh microcomputers. After a crash course in programming, specialists turned their ideas into computer software that will soon be available in every county of Pennsylvania.

"Specialists who wrote these programs will save time for themselves," Bell says. "They won't have to answer the phone 20 times a week to handle questions or give advice. The Extension agent can do that through the county's computer using the specialist's computer program."

Five new programs will be distributed this month. More than 50 programs are slated for release this year.

For example, "Manure Analysis Worksheet," designed by Douglas Beegle, an assistant professor of agronomy extension, combines soil test recommendations with manure analyses to determine nutrient application rates for different crops.

"Energy Efficient Appliances," created by Bucks County Extension home economist Claudia Cross, compares cost differences between standard and energy efficient appliances.

Berks County home economist Michelle Rodgers has designed the program, "Net Worth Statement," a balance sheet of assets and liabilities for the family budget.

Extension agent Glenn Shirk of Lancaster and regional agent John Brockett of Mifflin have designed computer "calculators" for Extension use: Shirk's "Mixing and Converting Calculator" can aid farmers in mixing feeds, sprays or fertilizers, and Brockett's "Land Rent Calculator" helps in estimating the value of farm land.

Put manure in its place.

Manure belongs in your fields. Not on your driveway. Which means for efficient management you need to match your manure with your equipment.

If you're handling more and more semi-solid manure these days with inefficient machinery designed for the kinds of solids produced ten years ago, maybe it's time to re-examine your present means of spreading.

Chances are you need a different kind of spreader. One specifically designed to handle high volumes of semi-solid manure. A spreader easy to load—even quicker to unload. The kind of reliable machine that churns out even, thorough spread patterns. And most important, one that doesn't cost you an arm and a leg.

The simple solution—Vanguard

The Hedlund/Martin Vanguard is designed specifically to spread semi-solid manure. Vanguard's exclusive heavy-duty, chopper-type auger and oversized fan make short work of unloading. You can spread up to 1500 gallons in 2.5 minutes with uniform patterns of up to 50 feet. And because of Vanguard's rugged, simplified design, there are fewer moving parts—less maintenance for you.

The economical solution

The best thing about Vanguard is its cost. For a little more than half the price of a comparably-sized conventional spreader with hydraulic endgate, you can own a Vanguard—the durable machine that increases the efficiency of your entire manure handling operation.

See Vanguard on display today!

You'll find the Vanguard on display at your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. He's got the model that's sized and priced just right for your operation. For the name of your local dealer write Dept. H-3, Hedlund/Martin, Inc., 841 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067.

*Liming is one of the most important factors in keeping your soil in the highest productive range. By raising the pH from a level below 6.0 to 6.5 or higher, you can expect to harvest as much as 5 more bushels of corn per acre, with similar increases for all other forage and cash crops

USDA proposes phase in for vaccine regulations

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed regulations that would enable non-licensed manufacturers of veterinary biologics to voluntarily gradually bring their products up to federal standards over a four-year period.

Veterinary biologics include vaccines, antisera, antitoxins and diagnostic used to diagnose, prevent or treat animal diseases.

Dr. David F. Long, a chief staff veterinarian with USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said manufacturers of veterinary biologics must be licensed by USDA if they ship any products interstate. The manufacturers obtain an establishment license and a separate license to produce each of their products.

However, Long said, a number of manufacturers currently produce biologics for intrastate sale only and therefore are not under USDA regulation.

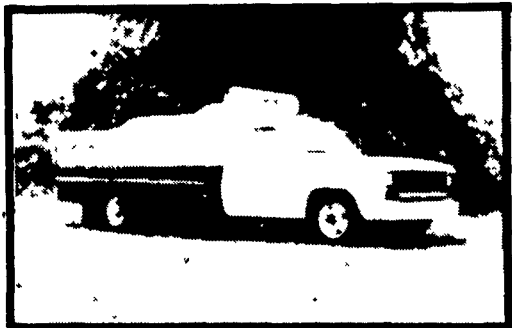

"The proposed change would make the process easier for a significant number of intrastate producers who wish to become federally licensed because of the marketing advantages it offers," he said.

"Present USDA regulations do not permit manufacture of unlicensed products in a federally licensed establishment," said Long. "Under the proposal, manufacturers could obtain a federal license to produce some licensed products while continuing to produce some unlicensed products in the same establishment for an interim period of up to four years."

After four years, producers would have to meet all federal standards for all products, he said.

Introducing
VOLUMASTER
SILAGE DISTRIBUTOR/UNLOADER
from the leader

NEW
performance standard

The new Volumaster silage distributor/unloader is like finding the end of the rainbow in your silo. It's a whole new machine from the company that invented and perfected ring drive unloaders. By combining the best of the Butler/Jamesway Volumatic® III system with 25 new features, the Volumaster system provides total performance for cost-effective feeding management.

Greater capacity, for example means reduced storage cost per ton. The Volumaster system's motorized distribution evenly packs 19% more silage into the silo than with no distribution, 8% more than non-powered distributors. Then, new big volume unloading features throw silage out faster.

Low maintenance and easy-to-service features can save you even more money and headaches. They're designed for convenience, long life and trouble-free operation.

When you add it all up, it's easy to see why more farmers depend on Butler unloaders than any other brand. And, why you should find out how you can get good-as-gold performance with a new Volumaster silage distributor/unloader.

NOBODY BUILDS A MORE ACCURATE PLANTER THAN THE SEED BOSS®

In Conventional, Minimum Till
Or No-Till

A LONG-TERM PLAN THAT CUTS THE COST OF BUYING THE EQUIPMENT YOU NEED

White Farm's innovative Equipment Cost Control Option — ECCO — is a plan that keeps the savings coming back to you. Buy a Seed Boss® planter and get a certificate good for an additional $500 off the purchase of a row crop cultivator anytime in the next five years. Anytime. Regardless of any other discounts that are in effect at that time.

Seed Boss accuracy is a value in itself. And because of the long list of attachments, your Seed Boss adapts — add no-till, strip-till or ridge-till equipment. Or get a wide-row planter that converts to a narrow-row bean planter in less than 20 minutes.

And now, extra value is packed in every planter. ECCO is savings — an extra $500 after you've made your best deal with the dealer.

ECCO. The savings keep coming back. Your nearby White Farm dealer has details.

Buy a planter and get the option to save on a row crop cultivator anytime in the next five years.

Federal Order Changes

Lately we've been so taken up with the changing market situation — including the effects of the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983, which ends in September, and the proposals for price support legislation to take its place in October — that some of us have forgotten about changes closer to home. What got my attention was the announcement of a recommended decision on the expansion of the marketing areas in Federal Orders 2 and 4 to include 20 counties in Pennsylvania — 15 for Order 2 and 5 for Order 4.

The original petitions were made to the Dairy Division of USDA back in November 1981 and testimony was taken during 24 days of hearings from July to October in 1983. The result is a 43 page recommended decision based on the testimony presented at the hearings. A final decision will not be made until all parties involved have had a chance to file briefs if their conclusions from the testimony are different than those recommended. Because of the lengthy and involved testimony it may still be months before a final decision is reached. However, you should know what has been recommended because it will affect all producers, more or less, in both Orders.

The Pennsylvania counties to be included in the Order 2 marketing area are all of those to the north of Interstate 80, including Monroe, Luzerne, Columbia, Montour and Lycoming as well as Northumberland, and along the northern tier from Bradford to Wayne Counties. The Order 4 expansion will include Carbon, Schuylkill, Berks, Lehigh and Northampton Counties.

Originally the petitions from producers and handlers to expand the marketing areas included 23 Pennsylvania counties, but why and how to divide the area between the two Federal Orders was the reason for the hearing. The problem was that marketing areas for both Order 2 and Order 4 handlers were overlapping and, in addition, some handlers not regulated by either Federal Order were also marketing milk in the same area.

One of the goals of Federal Orders is to provide all producers the opportunity of getting a uniform price for their milk while also providing that all handlers are paying the same prices. The effect of the expansion is that all the Class I milk being sold in these 20 counties will now be pooled in Order 4 or Order 2. There will be some effect reflected in milk checks for those farmers now shipping to handlers under either Federal Order but the amounts will not be great.

The greater impact will be felt by those producers shipping to handlers who were not regulated by Federal Orders in the past, and for some of these there will be noticeable reductions in their milk checks. This will be felt to a larger extent in the Order 4 expansion area.

In Order 2 the major change is that the Lehigh Valley Co-op plant at Schuylkill Haven will now be pooled in Order 2, which brings up a fundamental concept of Federal Orders. First, that Federal Orders regulate handlers — not producers — and second, that which handlers are regulated is determined by where they sell their milk rather than where the plant is located. Schuylkill Haven is in Schuylkill County which is one of the five new expansion counties for Order 4, but the hearing testimony indicated to USDA that most of its milk was sold in the new Order 2 expansion counties so that's where it should be pooled.

Keep in mind that this is a recommended decision and some provisions could change, but it's important enough for everyone to watch closely if for no other reason than to learn how the Federal Order provisions work.

Other Federal Order 2 changes anticipated but not yet initiated include a change from the Louisville Plan to a base-excess plan for a seasonal incentive to get more level production throughout the year. Anticipating the end of government purchases of butter, powder and cheese in the near future, it becomes important to find something that works better than the present Louisville Plan to eliminate or at least minimize the effect of the spring flush of milk. The expense of owning manufacturing plants just to take care of the spring flush is too expensive, especially when you don't have the government buying the products. So, some system of rewards and penalties to keep production more uniform must be developed that is better than what we have now.

Another change to expect is one that will require handlers to sell part of their milk for fluid use each month of the year. How much will vary from month to month but the handler will know in advance what's expected of him if he wants to benefit from Producer Settlement fund payments from the pool. These are called shipping provisions in Federal Orders and eliminates the need for call orders that have been used in Order 2 in December, February and March this year.

RCMA

Since the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency has started holding meetings and signing up producers in an effort to get over-order pricing in Federal Orders 1, 2 and 4, which extend all the way from Maine to Maryland, some misconceptions have surfaced. One is that RCMA would just be a super co-op made up of all the co-ops now marketing milk. It's not that simple. Because the co-ops now include only about half of all the milk producers it's the non-members that now must join RCMA to make it work. And they don't have to join any other co-op or pay any dues. And RCMA will be run by a Board of Directors elected by the existing co-ops as well as the present nonmembers. Representation will be equally divided.

There are no milk check deductions from proprietary handlers. They still have to pay producers the minimum Federal Order prices. Only the over-order price on Class I milk will go to RCMA and then back to the producers. Also, it has nothing to do with the federal price support program and government purchases. It works entirely on the supply demand situation within a particular marketing area and the amount of control that RCMA has over the supply.

Prices

The uniform price in February for producers shipping to Order 2 handlers was $13.13 for 3.5 milk at the 201-210 mile zone. That's 21 cents less than January but 24 cents better than last year. Class prices are reflecting a 20 cent drop in the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series in December and another 19 cents in February making M-W now $12.21 or 51 cents less than the high of $12.72 in November, but still 15 cents better than last February. The lower M-W is reflecting seasonal drops in addition to increasing milk production nationally, but also the reluctance of dealers to buy butter, powder or cheese with the 50 cent cut in the support price on April 1 to $12.10 for manufacturing grade milk testing 3.67 per cent butterfat.

In spite of the lower Class prices, producers in Order 2 have kept the uniform price up by lowering production 3.4 per cent on a daily basis over last year and increasing Class I sales five percent. This makes your Class I utilization 41.1 per cent in February which is 4.1 percent better than a year ago. With that kind of a market situation there's still an opportunity for over-order pricing. RCMA can get the enrollment of independent producers.

CHECK THESE ADVANTAGES IN LIQUID SUSPENSION FERTILIZER

With our liquid blending plant we can offer a custom mixed liquid fertilizer for your specific crop need. No more over applying with N-P-K which is not needed.

- We can apply herbicide and insecticide on one application.
- Liquid fertilizer is more immediately available to your crop.
- Liquid fertilizer is applied more evenly and does not segregate

ALFALFA SEEDING WITH FLUID FERTILIZER

Seeding alfalfa with a sprayer, while at the same time applying liquid fertilizer and possibly even insecticides is a very efficient method of establishing alfalfa.

75 HORSES THAT WORK LIKE 100.

If you're looking for a 100 horsepower tractor, look at the Kubota M7950 instead. It's rated at 75.44 PTO h.p.

But it works more like a bigger tractor. Because we build both our own diesel engine and fully synchronized transmission, the two are designed to work together perfectly. This exact match gives you a lot more pulling power.

And equipped with 4-wheel drive, you can get as much as 35% more pulling power. So take a look at this Kubota workhorse, the M7950.

To fight mastitis-causing bacteria and improve dairy sanitation, ask for Purina protection.

Introducing two new teat dip/udder wash combinations.

New Purina Darigard™ II is the odorless, non-iodine formulation that aids in reducing the spread of mastitis-causing bacteria. With a reduced iodine content, new Purina® Iodine 5% also protects against major mastitis-causing organisms. Or choose Puridine®, the original teat dip/udder wash combination with 1% iodine.

Choose liquid or powder for dairy equipment cleaning.

Purina® Solu-Clean® is the easy way to speed cleaning of milk lines and bulk tanks. Dairy Cleaner MT is a highly soluble powder for effective cleaning even in fluctuating water temperatures.

Purina® Udder Ointment for soothing protection of chapped udders and teats.

Ask your Purina dealer for the sanitation products you need to protect dairy performance.
